SHANGHAI NEUTRALS SHELLED

Gunmen Get $3,000 in Wall Hotel

Widow Leaving Gang 'King's' Death Scene

ESCAPE SHOT OF AGED VICTIM

Bandit Fires at Proprietor, Pal Seizes Money Held to Cash Railroad Pay Checks

Punctuating their demand for money with a shot, three Negro holdup men stole $3,000 from Samuel Connor, 74, hotel proprietor, of Wall avenue, Wall, and escaped. Connor, alone in the bar at the time, fired one shot as the men fled.

Connor had obtained money, to cash railroad pay checks. This morning at 8:30, one man entered and asked how soon he could get a freight train. Informed that they passed every few minutes the man left.

FIRES AT ROBBERS

A moment later the man and two companions entered and stepping to the counter ordered:

"Hands up."

As Connor dodged behind the counter, one of the men fired and another ran around the counter for the cash box.

As the men fled, Connor seized a revolver and fired. By the time he reached the door the men had disappeared.

Telling of the holdup Connor said:

"I thought it was a joke and dodged. Immediately a shot was fired. I knew it was real and stood up and elevated my hands. One of the men ran around the end of the bar and picked up the box containing the money."

SHOT HITS DOOR

Connor, hotelkeeper for 27 years, said he uses $4,000 twice a month to cash railroad checks. He said he had paid out about $1,000 yesterday.

Examination of the bar showed the bullet fired by the holdup men entered below the mirror. Connor's shot struck in the front door jam.

A son, Howard, said years ago Connor had been robbed of $130

PROP. SAMUEL CONNOR, 74 . . . HE DUCKED, CAME UP, FIRED!

Mr. Connor, Wall (Pa.) hotel proprietor robbed of $3,000 today by three Negro gunmen who surprised him while he was alone. He thought it was a joke until one of the bandits fired a shot.

TEN CHARGE FORGERY IN VOTE TRIAL

Signatures on Affidavits False, Witnesses Tell Jury in First Ward Case

Ten witnesses in the First Ward vote conspiracy trial today testified their signatures had been forged to affidavits on which tax receipts were issued to qualify holders for balloting in the fall elections last year.

They were John C. O'Donnell, of the Fourteenth Ward, a subordinate assessor in the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes; Hugh A. Dowling and his wife, Catherine, of 1114 Vickroy street; Beatrice Mullinger, of 827 Locust street; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Giana, of 1111 Bluff street; J. J. Schmoker, of 1112 Forbes street; Thomas A. McQuillan, of 129 Fourth avenue; E. L. Schugard, of 4 First avenue, and John Cane, a tax office clerk.

O'Donnell testified on the day he was supposed to have sworn 65 persons who appeared in the tax office to obtain tax receipts he was working in Squirrel Hill. Shown three of the 65 receipts, he said his name had been forged on each.

Cane inspected 244 affidavits, which he, working as an assessor, was purported to have signed. He said nearly all of the signatures were forgeries.

SIGNATURES FALSE

The others all testified one or more tax receipts, bearing their supposed signatures and introduced as evidence, were not in their handwritings.

Another important development was the admission as evidence of Additional Assessment Book AE, in which the prosecution charges 922 names were fraudulently entered as prospective First Ward voters.

Walter J. Christy, former delinquent tax collector, was the first witness today. He testified in support of the prosecution's contention that George J. Schad, former chairman of the tax board; C. J. McBride, its former secretary; Saul Klein, a battalion fire chief; Constable Paul Walsh, Samuel L. Ramsey, a tax board clerk, and Frank Alpert, an assessor, had conspired to place names fraudulently on the assessment lists.

KLEIN NEAR COLLAPSE

Alpert has pleaded no defense and testified he had been instructed by his superiors "to write up" the First Ward additional assessment lists and include names submitted by "Paul Walsh and a bunch of other fellows."

Chief Klein, gassed in a recent fire, became ill in the courtroom this morning and was excused, near a collapse. He returned in about 20 minutes, apparently recovered.

ROCKEFELLER SEES TRADE UPTURN

Encouraged by Business and Recovered From Cold, Oil Man Sings Hymn of Joy

(Copyright, 1932, by Associated Press.)

ORMOND, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., told the Associated Press today indications are business conditions throughout the country are showing improvement and that he is greatly encouraged.

The 93-year-old philanthropist directed his remarks concerning business to a correspondent while posing for photographs in his garden for the first time since he was taken slightly ill with a cold two weeks ago. He said:

"From talks I have had with prominent men of the country, and reports reaching me from other sources, indications are that business conditions are improving. For this I am greatly encouraged."

PAUSES TO SING

Rockefeller showed not the slightest effects from recent confinement because of the cold, as he walked out of his home overlooking the broad Halifax River and strolled about his tropical gardens. He was the picture of perfect health for a man of his age.

In fact, he was so delighted to be out in the warm sunshine again that once he stopped and sang a hymn as he gazed with twinkling eyes at the myriad of brilliant flowers and shrubs that surround his estate, the Casements.

The genial philanthropist, with a chuckle as he shook hands firmly with the correspondent, said:

"Does that feel like the grip of a sick man? I feel better than ever before."

Then he explained he had contracted a slight cold and, father than take chances of it lingering, had decided to stay indoors until broke up.

REGRETS MISSING CHURCH

Rockefeller said he had been well for a week, but thought it better to enjoy the sunshine for a few days before resuming his daily round of golf. He said he hoped to be playing again shortly.

The kindly-faced and soft-spoken millionaire was neatly dressed in a suit of gray, with a dainty sweet pea for a boutonniere. He wore a grey felt hat and carried a cane.

Rockefeller said he had regretted missing church services on Sundays because of the cold and of being deprived of the pleasure of meeting with his friends during his confinement. He thought it better to remain indoors, however, until he was completely well.

Japanese Land More Troops As Planes and Warships Renew Fort Bombardment

BULLETIN.

International News Service.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 10, Wednesday, 1:15 a. m.—Additional Japanese forces have been landed south of the Woosung forts in preparation for the long-awaited drive on Shanghai, it was reported here early today.

Bombardment of Woosung village continued. The Japanese were believed to be keeping up the fire to divert attention from the landing.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Machine gun bullets whined across the Kiangwan race track late today and aerial bombs were dropping between here and Woosung as the Japanese attacked a large Chinese detachment throwing up defense works behind the Woosung forts.

A shell from a Japanese destroyer burst a powder magazine in the fort earlier in the afternoon, causing a terrific explosion and raising a cloud of dense black smoke which spread over the countryside. Nevertheless, the Chinese held on.

Meanwhile, the artillery was in action again in the Chapei sector and at least one foreigner was wounded by shells which dropped across the International Settlement boundary. She was the wife of Detective Inspector Harry Robertson, British member of the municipal police force. Her injuries were not serious. Most of the shells were duds.

U. S. TROOPS ON DUTY

Up on the northern Settlement boundary the 31st United States Infantry took over the patrol from a British detachment. They were close enough to hear the shooting, but their position was about a mile from the action in Chapei.

The 2nd Battalion spread along a mile of the Soochow Creek.

Their patrol was in an area

Relief Bonds May Be Sold To Public

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The administration is considering selling a part of the $1,500,000,000 of reconstruction finance corporation debentures in small denominations directly to the public.

Although no definite decision has been made, President Hoover was represented today as feeling that such action might draw out of hiding money which has been hoarded.

12 Monessen Mills To Resume Monday

MONESSEN, Pa., Feb. 9.—The American Sheet and Tinplate Company, closed for three weeks, will resume operations with 12 of its 17 mills working next Monday. The Pittsburgh Sheet company has started a rod mill.

Ann Harding's Child Guarded by Police

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Jane Bannister, 3-year-old daughter of Ann Harding, film star, was under police guard today as detectives admitted they suspected a kidnaping plot.

MOTHER, FIVE CHILDREN BURN

HAZLETON, Pa., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Five small children and their mother were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed their home at Tresckow, two miles south of Hazleton.

The dead woman was Mrs. Carmen Romanelli. She ran to the street to give the alarm and then rushed back into the burning home to save her children. She never returned.

The dead children are: Dana, 14; Betty, 7; Marguerite, 4; Joseph, 9, and Ralph, 6 months. Ralph's twin, Louis, was rescued by a boarder while three other children, all of school age, escaped. A daughter, eldest of the 10 children, had left for work with her father earlier in the morning.

White Gives Pardon To Reformed Convict

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Lamont Signor, Pine Hill, N. J., school board member, whose act of kindness in helping a jobless neighbor led to his arrest and discovery that he was an escaped Ohio convict, today was granted a full pardon by Gov. George White after reviewing petitions bearing the names of virtually every citizen of Auburn Terrace, the Pine Hill School Board and the Mayor and City Council of Pine Hill.

MELLON IN LAST CABINET MEET

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Andrew W. Mellon reached the end of an 11-year trail of cabinet meetings today.

Twice weekly since March of 1921, the slight white-haired banker has crossed from the Treasury to the White House executive offices to sit in the cabinet sessions of three Presidents, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

Today he attended his last one. No longer secretary of the Treasury, but the ambassador to Great Britain, the habit of sitting in was too strong today to resist, and the usual meeting hour found him in his customary seat at the great long table.

All of the other members crowded about him at the conclusion of the meeting for handshaking and good wishes. Mr. Mellon departed smiling.

Meanwhile the nomination of Ogden L. Mills to succeed Mr. Mellon as secretary of the Treasury was favorably reported today by the Senate Finance Committee.

Avella Mine Strike Averted After Parley

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 9.—C. S. Southard, general manager of the Aurora mine of the Duquesne Coal and Coke Company, at Avella, today announced that a satisfactory agreement had been reached with the miners over wage adjustments and that a strike, scheduled for this morning, had been cancelled.

Clubwoman's Body Recovered From Sea

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—The body of Mrs. Adele Sieck, 37, Bronxville clubwoman, missing from her home three days, was washed ashore on Long Beach today, a stone's throw from the spot where the ill-fated Starr Faith full was found last June.

28 Slain in Revolt Against "Mr. A."

SRINAGAR, India, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Twenty-eight persons were reported killed today and 30 wounded in a renewal of the Moslem uprising at Uri Kotli and Handwara against the government of Sir Hari Singh, Hindu ruler, who was once known in a blackmail case in England as "Mr. A."

REAL ARMS CUT URGED BY U. S.

GENEVA, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, acting chief of the United States delegation to the world disarmament conference, and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, of Germany, presented to the conference today the American and German proposals for limitation of armaments, both of which differed at many essential points from the proposal of France, presented last week by Andre Tardieu, French foreign minister.

The American proposal presented by Ambassador Gibson, who was warmly applauded by the delegates as he ascended the rostrum contained nine points. They included:

Prolongation of the Washington and London naval agreements.

Further reduction of naval armament.

Archduke's Mystery Trip Stirs Belgium

BRUSSELS, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Speculation was rife today as to what mysterious mission took Archduke Otto, of Hapsburg, pretender to the Hungarian throne, out of Belgium for three days.

The Archduke Otto has been living in exile with his mother, the former Empress Zita.

Newsboy Traps Man After Girls' Holdup

DETROIT, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Joseph Mitchell, 30, held up two girls in a hosiery shop and robbed them of $40 today, but Louis Abduliah, a newsboy, who said he helped store detectives capture 15 shoplifters, made Mitchell his sixteenth victim by yelling for police.

Edgar Wallace Ill Of Acute Pneumonia

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Edgar Wallace, British writer of detective mysteries, was critically ill at his temporary home here today with an acute attack of pneumonia.

JAP MILITARY FOE SLAIN

TOKIO, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Junnosuke Inouye, former Japanese minister of finance, was shot and killed by an assassin today because of his opposition to Japanese military activities in China.

Inouye, who was governor of the Bank of Japan until 1924, had been one of the outstanding civilian leaders who opposed the Japanese military campaign in Manchuria and China, which culminated in attempted seizure of Shanghai.

Inouye was an outstanding possibility for the premiership in the event his party, the Minseito, emerged victorious in the general elections scheduled for February 21.

He was considered Japan's most stable factor in finance and politics. The country's reaction to the assassination, combined with the militaristic upheaval, indicates the nation is facing serious external and internal crises.

Former Chinese Empress Dies in Poverty

PEIPING, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—The widow of the rich, powerful and aristocratic Emperor Tung Chin died today a shabby recluse in a rickety temple in a dingy side street, her identity unknown to her neighbors.

In contrast to the magnificence and splendor of her reign, she succumbed to a lingering illness at the age of 76, in the crumbling structure left vacant by Buddhist priests.

Friends of the aged woman said grief hastened her death. They said she feared her adopted son, Ssuan Tung, the "Boy Emperor" of China, might accept the Japanese proposal of the Manchurian throne.

The Emperor Tung Chin died in 1875 after a long rule which saw his country torn by internal strife. He was among the last of the great Manchu rulers.

The former empress suffered greatly, her friends declared, from the scandal created by the marital difficulties of her adopted son and his morganatic wife. Hsuan Tung's consort, last year, sued him for "divorce" and alimony of $500,000, alleging that he had maltreated her.

Hsuan Tung retaliated by charging his consort with being the "most ill-mannered woman in the 300 years of the Manchu dynasty."

Hsuan Tung settled the case for a fraction of the woman's claims.

Pirate Club Will Remain In Dreyfuss Family

The Pittsburgh Pirates' baseball club will remain as the property for the time being, of the family of Barney Dreyfuss, principal owner, who was buried Sunday, it was learned today.

The bulk of his estate Mr. Dreyfuss leaves to his family, it was learned on excellent authority.

It is understood that Mr. Dreyfuss' son-in-law, W. E. Benswanger, will continue to have an important hand in directing the club's affairs.

Mr. Dreyfuss left no particular instructions in his will as to disposition of the ball club and the valuable real estate known as Forbes Field. The estate as a whole is expected to amount to several million dollars.

DEAL FOR SMITH TO SUPPORT ROOSEVELT RUMORED

GOVERNOR GETS CHEER FROM CONFERENCE

Keeps Close Silence as to Talk With Predecessor; Cabinet Promise Hinted

By RAYMOND L. BORST
International News Service

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 9. The Capitol buzzed with reports today about Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and the Democratic presidential nomination.

Gossip in the legislative corridors centered on a report that Roosevelt and Smith have made a "deal," whereby the latter will throw his support to Roosevelt early in the convention.

Another report was that Roosevelt at his meeting with Smith in New York yesterday promised the latter a high cabinet post in the event of his nomination and election.

REPEAL BARGAIN HINTED

Still another story going the rounds said Roosevelt promised Smith he would support an out-and-out prohibition repeal plank in the national platform if, in return, Smith would keep his hands off the New York state delegation.

The talk about "deals" started because Roosevelt returned to Albany after his New York meeting with Smith in much better spirits than when he first learned of the former Governor's statement that he would lead his party if the convention called him.

Gov. Roosevelt was all smiles and in exceptionally good humor when he received newspapermen at the mansion upon his return from New York, but bluntly refused to divulge what occurred between him and Smith.

DICTATOR PLAN SEEN

He refused to say whether he expected Smith to be an active candidate for the nomination despite the latter's statement, or whether the New York delegation would line up solidly for him in view of Smith's attitude. His only comment was:

"Not a word to say."

Friends of Roosevelt are inclined to the belief that Smith issued his statement in the hope of being able to dictate the nomination at Chicago and not with any idea that he could get the nomination himself. One of Roosevelt's lieutenants thus summarized the situation:

"If Al can't be President, he wants to be a maker of presidents and that suits us."

BAKER BOOSTS GARNER

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 9.—(Universal.)—Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War in the Wilson cabinet, mentioned as an aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination, early today was bound for New York, thinking seriously about John N. Garner, Democratic speaker of the House.

While here Baker showed distaste for association of his own name with presidential candidacy of the statement that Alfred E. Smith, candidate in 1928, would be willing to accept the nomination for the Democratic party. Baker declared:

"I have not a word to say; not a word."

Baker significantly stressed Garner's leadership of the Democratic party in the House of Representatives, and when he left for Vera Cruz last night to take the boat for New York, it was evident that he held a high opinion of the Texan speaker.

Baker made it plain that he is out of politics, declaring:

"I came to Mexico to get away from that sort of thing. I have had a perfectly thrilling time informing myself about Mexico's archaeological fascinations and the psychology of the people."

Leap Off Bridge Kills Accountant

A leap from the Twenty-second Street Bridge into a mill yard beneath, resulted in the death last night of Ivor A. Hopkins, 50, of the Ritz Hotel, East Liberty. A note in his pocket asked that the body be cremated. Hopkins, an accountant, it was said at the hotel, had been out of work recently.

Two Suspects Again Held in Robbery

Augustine Donatalle, 24, of 4664 Ganwich street, and George Geminehart, 24, of 1028 Welford street, were again committed to jail by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg pending an investigation of the robbery of the residence of William Schmelz, of 233 South Morewood avenue, January 23.

HOLDS BEER NOT INTOXICATING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—A dry witness appearing before the Metcalf Senate Committee today to oppose legalization of beer admitted under interrogation that 4 per cent beer is not intoxicating and distribution of beer direct from producer to consumer would not bring back the saloon.

The witness, Whiting Williams, industrial expert of Shelby, O., made the admissions under questioning by Senator Bingham (Rep.) of Connecticut, sponsor of the bill to legalize 4 per cent beer.

Legalization of beer would, however, increase the difficulties of prohibition enforcement and divert the money which the workingman now spends on radios and automobiles, Williams said. This led to a question by Bingham:

"Do you mean the laws we have now prevent the sale of all kinds of liquor?"

He said he did not.

Edge, Home, Denies Political Activity

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Walter E. Edge, American ambassador to France, arrived today for a brief visit and declared talk about his re-entering politics in New Jersey in an active way was "tommyrot."

He said, however, he was "most assuredly" in favor of the New Jersey delegation being instructed to vote for President Hoover at the coming national convention.

SCHOOLEY JURY HEARS DAPPER

The grand jury investigation into the administration of former City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley and related political activities probably will be postponed at the end of this week, District Attorney Andrew T. Park said today.

Henry Dapper, of Carrick, father of Dr. Harry S. Dapper, mysteriously slain four years ago, and secretary-treasurer of the Fort Pitt Brewing Company, of which Assemblyman Samuel J. Grenet is president, was a witness before the jury today. A downtown banker was to testify today or tomorrow, Park said.

Park said the trials of election cases will keep his entire staff busy after Monday, and that he believes it best to dismiss the grand jury and postpone the Schooley investigation until after Mayor Charles H. Kline's trial in Butler next month.

STUDY TROLLEY CASH CHARGE

Charges that the Pittsburgh Railways Company failed to turn over to the city about $100,000 in reported yearly surpluses in accordance with its agreement with Pittsburgh were being studied today by Assistant City Solicitor Charles P. Lang before presenting them to the Traction Conference Board for action.

At the same time Lang was studying an opinion from Attorney George N. Munro, former city solicitor, that the agreement virtually guaranteed a return of at least $300,000 annually on the railways company's fixed capital. Munro, when city solicitor, drew up the agreement. Lang said:

"I shall see that the city's interests—if jeopardized—are protected."

President John S. Herron, of Council, who turned the charges over to Lang, said:

"The Traction Conference Board always informed us that the railways company had no surpluses. We took their word for that. It is now up to Mr. Lang and the board. If the money is due us, I'll see that we get it."

France to Renew Loan to Germany

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Reports in financial circles today said France had decided to renew month by month the one-fourth share which this country holds in the $100,000,000 credit advance to Germany by the Bank of France, the Bank of England, the World Bank and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

This instalment renewal, it was said, hinges upon continued stability of German's internal situation.

Girl, Man Found In N. Y. Car Held

Found in an automobile bearing a New York license, which police said had been reported stolen, John Vanelis, 39, of 835 North Lincoln avenue, and Miss Mary Kelly, 18, of New York, were committed to jail pending an investigation by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today. According to detectives, Vanelis is wanted in New York for abandoning his wife.

Blaze Extinguished By Quail Firemen

Volunteer firemen of the Quail district, Ross Township, answered their first alarm from their newly-built engine house today. They were summoned to extinguish a blaze in the two-story frame home of William C. Keib, 530 Bellevue road, Ross Township. The fire resulted in $200 damage. Fire Chief G. S. Brunner said.

by restricting tanks and mobile guns.

Discard of lethal gases and prevention of bacteriological warfare.

Protection of civil populations against aerial bombing.

Limiting defensive forces to those necessary to maintain internal order plus some contingent for defense.

Budgetary limitation of expenditures for war supplies when their direct limitation has been secured.

GIBSON ACCLAIMED

Ambassador Gibson spoke with great deliberation and emphasis. As he returned to his seat he was besieged by successive groups of members of other delegations who shook his hand and expressed appreciation of his declaration.

Chancellor Bruening's statement pledged Germany, "with all emphasis," to the advocacy of general disarmament "of an unmistakable nature such as the League of Nations Covenant envisaged," but set out no formal program except to ask that the armaments of all nations be reduced to the same low relative status as Germany. He said he would present a formal program later.

Ambassador Gibson's announcement that the United States would consent to budgetary or financial reduction as a complement to direct limitation of armaments drew special applause from the delegations. This question has long been a stumbling block to preparatory disarmament work, Mr. Gibson said:

"A decrease in arms is an essential, not alone for the recovery of the world, but also to the preservation of the whole fabric of peace."

Mr. Gibson made it clear the Western Hemisphere has no large navy except that of the United States, has no armies which are feared by neighbor powers and has had no war among its nations for 50 years. He declared:

"The problem of armaments is not of the Western Hemisphere. Nevertheless, and in spite of the fact that we ourselves have reduced the personnel of our land forces below the proportion reached by any great European power, we are here to co-operate to the utmost of our ability."

CHANGE IN POLICY

Mr. Gibson's declaration of American policy, particularly as it applied to armaments in general, appeared to make a favorable impression upon the various delegations. Apparently its most valuable feature was an admission of the usefulness of the budgetary method for limiting armaments, which was flatly rejected by the United States delegation in the preparatory commission.

This made the support of financial limitation unanimous and increased the possibility that the conference might achieve some reduction in world armament burdens.

It was remarked that the American, British and French governments were now agreed on the desirability of restricting offensive weapons, thus putting a check on aggression.

Two obvious omissions were noted, however, by the international observers. Mr. Gibson said nothing of extending the present armaments truce and he made no reference to the Sino-Japanese hostilities.

LINGLE DEATH PLOT LAID TO COLL

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—A theory that Vincent Coll, New York gangster, slain early yesterday, was the murderer of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, intrigued law enforcement officers here today.

The theory is based on the resemblance of Coll to Leo Brothers, who was found guilty of killing the Tribune reporter and sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment.

It was reported that a witness had secretly identified Coll as the Lingle assassin. It was pointed out that Brothers was convicted merely on identification of eight witnesses, with no motive established. Six witnesses failed to identify him in the trial.

Swiss Troops Guard Against Geneva Reds

GENEVA, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Delegates to the disarmament conference were treated to an astonishing spectacle this afternoon when hundreds of steel-helmeted Swiss soldiers suddenly appeared in the center of the city and machine-gunners took up their positions at the bridge across Lake Geneva and other strategic spots.

Municipal authorities declared precautions were being taken in view of a threatened Communist demonstration tomorrow night.

BILLION NEEDED FOR U. S. BUDGET

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Congress must raise $1,241,000,000 in additional taxation to carry out the budget balancing program recommended by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in December, the Treasury informed the House Ways and Means Committee today.

This compares with a tax increase program of $920,000,000 a year originally recommended by the Treasury.

A change in the situation, since the Treasury originally made its tax yield estimates on the basis of October figures and a further unfavorable turn in the budget situation were reported to the committee by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills and a staff of experts.

League Commission To Pass Through City

The League of Nations commission, which is en route to Manchuria to investigate the Chinese-Japanese fighting, will pass through Pittsburgh tomorrow en route to the Pacific Coast where they will embark for the war front on February 13. The delegation, traveling on the Pennsylvania Railroad, will arrive here at 9:20 and leave for Chicago half an hour later.

which constitutes the section of Shanghai's slums. Facing them was the creek, one of the dirtiest streams in the world, littered with sampans and other small craft which are the only homes thousands of Chinese men, women and children ever had.

Eight shells dropped in the French concession tonight, injuring three Chinese women and causing some property damage. It was not known whether the projectiles were Chinese or Japanese.

Word from Amoy said the American destroyer Stewart had arrived from Canton, and a message from Nanking said all the British women and children there had been advised by their consul to get out of town.

SHIP GROUNDS

Japanese headquarters said they had instructed commanders of all their land and naval forces to avoid all causes for friction with American and other foreign troops, to maintain the most friendly relations with all foreign garrisons and to be most careful for the safety of foreign civilians.

A Japanese troop ship, carrying reinforcements from Tokio, today ran aground in the Yangtze River.

TOKIO CABINET CRISIS

International News Service.

TOKIO, Feb. 9.—The Japanese cabinet faced another crisis over the Shanghai situation today when Tokugoro Nakahashi, minister of home affairs, threatened to resign should the government decide to send more troops to China.

The home minister said further dispatch of soldiers to the Shanghai area would be an excessive expense. Others in the cabinet, leaders of the military factions, favored sending additional forces in view of the unexpected Chinese strength.

The war office officially announced that some of the Japanese troops which recently marched into Harbin will be withdrawn soon.

Meanwhile, the government prepared for its official presentation to foreign powers the neutral zone proposal under which five leading Chinese cities, including Shanghai, would be patrolled by foreign troops with Chinese soldiers barred.

Reports from Washington said the plan would definitely be rejected by the United States if it were ever officially presented, and other capitals seemed to be equally against it.

100,000 Chinese Reported Mobilized

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Chinese forces now mobilized in the Shanghai-Nanking area aggregate approximately 100,000 men, and there are no indications that they plan to retire, Admiral M. M. Taylor, commanding the American Asiatic fleet, advised the Navy Department today.

The Chinese forces are under the command of Gen. Tsai Ting Kai, his message stated.

The Japanese are steadily increasing their forces, too, he reported. They have landed 2,500 additional reinforcements already and troop transports off Shanghai are steadily discharging more troops.

The American destroyer Stewart has arrived at Amoy for duty in protecting American lives and property.

American Tourists Get War 'Close-Up'

SHANGHAI, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The "war" at Shanghai may be a problem for statesmen, but for American tourists who come here regularly on trans-Pacific liners it is something to write to the home folks about.

All trans-Pacific steamship companies are maintaining regular service, in spite of the fighting in Shanghai. The steamers pass almost within a stone's throw of the Woosung forts and the passengers have ringside seats for the "war."

Throng Cheers Paderewski In N. Y. Benefit Concert

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(Universal.)—Ignace Jan Paderewski, the grand old pianist of Poland, made a return engagement with New York last night—an engagement that was, perhaps, the most impressive in his great career.

An audience of 15,000 lovers of music assembled in Madison Square Garden, rose to its feet and, for several minutes, gave a resounding cheer at the appearance of the great master.

It was an acknowledgement of Paderewski's appearance at a benefit concert in support of the Musicians' Emergency Aid of which Walter Damrosch is chairman.

Seemingly touched by the demonstration, yet modest as ever, the musician took his seat at a piano on an elevated platform at the west end of the garden.

Then, broken only by intermittent outbursts of applause, he rendered one of his typical concerts. There was a generous rendition of his countryman, Chopin; Beethoven's Sonata in F Minor, and the B Flat Impromptu of Schubert. A program enhanced by the same virility and poetry of past years was climaxed by Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody.

Nearly $40,000 was raised at the recital, and more than $25,000 of this will go to needy musicians.

TERRIFIED MOTHERS GUARD CHILDREN FROM STRANGLER

PHILA. SLAYER OF GIRL STILL AT LARGE

City Aroused as Murderer Eludes Police; Suspect in Brooklyn Case Identified International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—With the brutal murderer of 7-year-old Dorothy Lutz still at large, fear-stricken Philadelphia mothers and authorities today took extraordinary precautions to guard all children's lives.

Teachers in every public school cautioned pupils not to talk to any strangers or to accept offers of candy or automobile rides.

Many mothers refused to let their children play in the streets.

Dorothy died from strangulation after an attack, the coroner established. Her body was found in a room of a vacant house only a few doors from where she lived with her mother, Mrs. Florence Lutz.

CITY AROUSED

The youngster disappeared Wednesday, and all houses in the neighborhood were searched without success. Yesterday, another search was ordered and the tragedy revealed.

Mrs. Lutz, whose husband died three weeks ago, and who lost an infant son two years ago, was in a state of collapse.

All Philadelphia was roused by the crime. Police had difficulty controlling an excited crowd which gathered when the body was discovered.

A shining bauble—a golden ring with the initials "D. L. V."—to attract childish attention was believed to have led Dorothy to her death. And it is upon this gold bauble police today were centering their hopes of seizing the murderer.

Footprints discovered near the body and the strangler's fingerprints marring the dead girl's throat also may furnish identifying clues once the maniac is arrested, police hope. Brutality of the crime has convinced police that it was the work of a maniac.

SUSPECT IDENTIFIED

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Soon after a white hearse had carried the garroted body of 5-year-old Florence McDonnell to her burial yesterday, Oliver Hicks, the Negro-Indian arrested Thursday night as a suspect in the attack and killing, was identified as a man seen walking with the child about the time she disappeared.

A Salvation Army officer picked Hicks out of a line-up of nine men, and said he had seen him walking with the little girl last Wednesday, police said. The child's body was found in a Brooklyn tenement basement Thursday.

At the funeral, five other men were arrested when police deemed their actions suspicious. All five were held for questioning.

At the cemetery, the child's mother fainted as the coffin was being lowered into the grave.

EDITH NASSELLA, 17

The young Philadelphia girl committed to the Home of the Good Shepherd at New Haven, Conn., after she told of spending several days in a Yale dorm.

YALE GIRL QUIZ BEGUN BY DEAN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Yale University officials said they were investigating the alleged connection of 24 Sheffield scientific school students with the case of Edith Nasella, 17, of Philadelphia, arrested last week after the Yale News' columnist reported a young woman was living in a "warm Yale dormitory."

Dean Charles H. Warren said:

"Reports that a large number of students in the Sheffield scitific school have been suspended are untrue. An investigation is now being made."

Meanwhile City Attorney Daniel Pouzzner said the students will not face a grand jury inquiry, because of "conflicting and unreliable testimony" by the young woman when she was committed Saturday to the House of the Good Shepherd at Hartford.

At a hearing in City Court chambers she refused to name the students in Vanderbilt Sheffield dormitory whose rooms she was alleged to have visited contrary to university regulations.

Lillian Gish Ill, All Visitors Barred

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(Universal.)—Lillian Gish, stage and screen star, was reported today as being under treatment for grip in Harkness Pavilion of the Medical Center. It was said she had been there for two days.

Her attending physician, Dr. F. Bailey, said she was doing well, but that at present no one was permitted to visit her.

Chicago Opera Head Wins Court Suit

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Emile Cooper, director of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, won a court suit yesterday. Superior Court Justice Hammond quashed a bill in equity brought against Cooper by Alexander Kahn, former manager of Cooper. The plaintiff claimed Cooper failed to pay him salary from 1930 to 1931.

Gen. Crowder Near Death in Havana

HAVANA, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Friends today held little hope for the recovery of Maj. Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, U. S. A., retired, gravely ill here from a liver ailment.

Gen. Crowder's advanced age, 72, coupled with a generally weakened condition from a long illness in the United States, made chances of recovery slim.

Jack Hoxie, Actor, Sued for Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Jack Hoxie, noted cowboy screen star, is sued for divorce by Marion Sais Hoxie, formerly of the films. She charged desertion and nonsupport. The Hoxies were married October 1, 1921, and have two children, Ramona and Pearl. Mrs. Hoxie said the actor was earning $1,000 a month and asked for "reasonable alimony."

Last of Mexican Tomb Riches Stored

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The last of the treasure uncovered in the ancient tombs at Monte Alban in Oaxaca was brought here last night secretly under a heavy guard of detectives. It was stored in the vaults of the Ministry of Education.

Great caution was exercised in moving the treasure because of its value.

Drifts Halt Train In West 30 Hours

DENVER, Feb. 9.—(Universal.)—Thirty hours late, a Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad train carying 14 passengers yesterday made its way into Chama, N. M., after being stuck in huge snowdrifts in Cumbers Pass on the Colorado-New Mexico border.

SENATOR LONG REAL SHOW AT MARDI GRAS

Rivals Rex With Band, 'Kingfish' Impersonation At New Orleans Fete

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Senator Huey P. Long turned music master today and threatened to steal the show from Rex, king of the New Orleans Mardi Gras.

He sent a rush call to Baton Rouge last night for the 160-piece band of Louisiana State University. The music makers arrived in New Orleans this morning and the Senator led them through the street, swinging a baton.

They marched right through the lanes of mardi gras merrymakers, the musicians playing stirring tunes and the Senator bowing to the crowd.

POLICE HELPLESS

Police tried to stop the parade at a traffic light, but Senator Long shouted, "Stand back; this is the Kingfish."

The police stood back and the parade moved forward.

Meanwhile, a precious talent for forgetting trouble and care en masse and joining in make-believe reasserted itself as the whole city, joined by thousands of winter visitors, celebrated Mardi Gras—theoretically the last good time before lent.

General masking and dancing in the streets was the order of the day.

Rex was borne into the city on a gold-leaf throne, heading 20 floats that moved through jammed streets in one of the most dazzling street pageants he has ever presented.

QUEEN HONORED

Rex was impersonated by A. B. Freeman, prominent businessman, and on swinging into Canal street, halted his float at Boston Club to raise his glass to Miss Yvonne White, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney J. White, who was designated as queen of the 1932 festival.

In the Negro section of the city, King Zulu, traditional carnival ruler of his race, impersonated this year by a leading Negro undertaker, arrived in pomp on a tugboat and headed a parade of bizarre floats decorated in jungle style.

Carnival will end at midnight when the courts of Rex and Comus meet at the Comus ball and the two rulers exchange Queens for the last measure before 12 o'clock rings in lent.

Considine-Pantages Nuptials February 14

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The union of two noted theater families was forecast here when notice of intention to wed was filed by Carmen Elrene Pantages, 22, and John William Considine, Jr., 33, film director. The ceremony, they said, will be performed February 14 at the Ambassador Hotel here, with Marion Davies, film star, as maid of honor and Joseph M. Schenck, producer, as best man.

Miss Pantages is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Pantages.

Girl, 17, Weds Man Seeking Marriage Job

ROCKFORD, Ill., Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Al Ashley, 27, who recently offered to marry any girl who could get him a job, was honeymooning somewhere today with the former Ruby Adams, 17, Belvidere high school girl.

Whether the bride promised him a job was not known. The girl's parents asked police to hunt for the couple.

Claysville Borough Makes Gas Strike

CLAYSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 9.—Drilling for water, Claysville borough struck gas at a depth of 320 feet, sufficient to supply the water works, school and borough buildings. It is estimated the well is furnishing from 65,000 to 75,000 cubic feet per hour.

MRS. WINNIE RUTH JUDD . . . . . HER COMPOSURE BROKEN

Slight Mrs. Judd, found guilty after a long trial of one of the two Phoenix-Los Angeles "trunk murders," doomed to hanging. She yawned as the verdict was read, but cringed later in her cell.

TIP OF BOTTLE KILLS BABY

When Mrs. Mary Lenz bent over the crib of her 6-month-old daughter last night she saw her baby dead.

The nipple of Lorain Lenz's milk bottle had caught in her throat and strangled her, it appeared.

A short time before, Mrs. Lenz had given the baby the bottle. Then she had gone downstairs, with her six other children, aged 3 to 11, and her husband, John. They live at 2474 Charles street, North Side.

Mr. and Mrs. Lenz were working in the kitchen. Neither heard any sounds from upstairs.

When the mother saw the baby she called a physician. He arrived only to pronounce the infant dead.

Dorothy Knapp Asks To Testify Again

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—While she is waiting for a decision in her $500,000 damage suit against two women she says plotted her removal from a $1,000-a-week part in "Fioretta," Dorothy Knapp, actress, wants to tell the court more about the "mental anguish and physical disability" she says it caused her. Her lawyer has filed a motion asking that additional testimony be presented.

Mrs. Frederick Courtlandt Penfield, who gave Earl Carroll $250,000 to produce the show, and Evelyn Hubbell, her secretary, are defendants in the suit.

Seaplane Recovered From Sunken Sub

PORTLAND, England, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The seaplane from the sunken British submarine M-2, which some experts believed indirectly caused the death of 61 officers and men who went down in the boat, was brought to the surface of the English Channel yesterday after hours of difficult and dangerous work.

Divers and other salvagers rescued the plane from the bottom of Dead Man's Bay and towed it into Portland Harbor under the glare of searchlights.

POPE TO GREET DUCE THURSDAY

ROME, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Premier Mussolini formally announced today that he would visit the Pope for the first time on Thursday, the third anniversary of the signing of the Lateran treaty.

Although Thursday had been chosen for the event, some prospect of postponement arose last week-end when it was announced that the Lateran treaty celebration program had been filled with other ceremonies. Official confirmation from Mussolini on the Thursday date coincided with the original announcement from Vatican City.

The road to the Papal palace has been ordered leveled and swept clean and a protocol has been drafted to give Italy's Premier a reception of more importance than that usually accorded men in his position.

The troops of Vatican City will be mustered for a colorful display and will give appropriate honors to the visitors. After talking with the Pontiff, Mussolini will visit St. Peter's.

Firm Demands Drys Return Phonograph

Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal Court granted a rule, returnable February 22, upon United States Attorney Louis E. Graham and Deputy Prohibition Administrator R. A. Krause, to show cause why an automatic phonograph seized by dry agents in a raid January 26 at the Lotus Club, 2810 Sidney street, should not be returned to the Mills Novelty Company, of Chicago.

The latter concern filed a petition asking return of the machine on the ground it was not the property of the club, having been placed there on a commission basis.

Altoona Building Wrecked by Bomb

ALTOONA, Pa., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—A bomb exploded in a restaurant, wrecking a two-story brick business and apartment building today. Fire followed the blast, causing a loss estimated at $20,000.

Police are holding 10 persons for investigation.

TRUNK SLAYER YAWNS AT NOOSE

Shows No Emotion Over Jury's Verdict; Cringes In Cell Debating Appeal

By ARTHUR L. MAREK
International News Service.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 9.—Ruth Judd, "velvet tigress," yawned when an Arizona jury found her guilty of first degree murder and decreed that she be hanged for killing her friend, Agnes Anne Leroi, and dismembering the body.

Today, however, she cringed as she asked the jail matron:

"Can I beat the verdict through appeal?"

On February 23, Judge Howard Speakman will set the date for the hanging.

MRS. JUDD CALM

Mrs. Judd yawned while William Choisser, court clerk, read the paper that spelled death for her, and she showed no emotion as she walked from the courtroom as coolly as when she had come in, a faint smile on her face, to hear the jury return its verdict.

The most visibly affected person was the doomed woman's husband, Dr. William C. Judd, who presented a tragic figure as he walked from the courtroom where his young and pretty wife had been on trial three weeks, accused by the state of killing Mrs. Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, and shipping their bodies in trunks to Los Angeles.

Mrs. Judd's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, of Darlington, Ind., worn out after a long day in court and wearied from the strain of the trial, were unaware of their daughter's fate until today.

SIX BALLOTS TAKEN

The jury took six ballots before condemning Mrs. Judd to death because Edward Landrigan, 27, bachelor-farmer, who saw his first motion picture show last week, held out against hanging a woman. Landrigan drawled:

"Yes, I was the last one to vote to hang her, but there were 11 against me and I couldn't hold out against all of them."

Mrs. Judd's chief attorney, Paul Schenck, said:

"She's as crazy as a March hare. No person on earth could hear a sentence of death and not fail to show the least spark of emotion. I never desert a client. Mrs. Judd will continue to get the best of my efforts until every resource has been exhausted."

CAPONE APPEAL BEFORE COURT

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Al Capone's first attempt since his conviction for income tax frauds to "beat the rap" of 11 years' imprisonment was staged in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today.

Attorneys for Capone argued for one hour before Judges Sparks, Alschuler and Evans. They were followed by attorneys for the government, who also spoke the hour. Briefs previously had been filed with the court by both sides.

Capone was not in court while his lawyers fought for his freedom. He remained in the county jail, where he has been since his conviction last October.

Labor Files Protest Against Wilkerson

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—A protest against confirmation of James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, who sentenced Al Capone, as circuit judge on the grounds of "blind partisanship and antagonism to labor unions" was filed with a senate judiciary subcommittee today by organized labor.

Culbertson to Go To Hospital Friday

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Ely Culbertson, bridge expert, who recently won a challenge match with Sidney S. Lenz, will go to a hospital Friday for observation as to gastric ulcers.

The trouble is not recent, but became acute during the weeks he was playing in the 150-rubber match. Last month he went to Havana for a rest, but the ailment became more severe after his return.

Carrick Man Dies In Police Station

Herman Linde, 64, an automobile dealer, of 1001 Brownsville road, died early today in the Carrick Police Station, where he went for assistance after being stricken in the street outside the building.

Death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage. Acting Sergt. Howard Fiedler summoned Dr. B. C. Prietsch, but Linde was dead upon the arrival of the physician.

ROGERS HOME FOR HOARDED CASH FLOOD

Ends World Trip 'to Get in On Dough Everybody Will Dig Out of Their Sock'

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Will Rogers, who wisecracked his way around the world, arrived today from Europe on the liner Europa "to get in on this dough everybody is going to dig out of their sack." He said:

"I hear they are making a drive against hoarding and I don't want to be away under the circumstances."

In Europe, he said, when you're introduced to somebody they say "glad to meet you, cancel the debts." He saw the opening of the disarmament conference and it was "like the Follies only harder to get in; all the diplomats were selling seats." He said Andrew Mellon would be a very popular Ambassador to Great Britain, "he's got enough money to be popular anywhere."

Rogers revealed he had offered to bet Ray Long, publisher, that Hoover would be re-elected, but Mrs. Rogers admitted the money wasn't in sight at the crucial moment.

The humorist in fine fettle, insisted upon dragging all bystanders into the picture as photographers snapped him and emitted a steady stream of questions.

"How is my friend Jack Garner goin'. That's a soft job because the speaker don't do nothing and don't get to say nothing. Tell me about Alfalfa Bill Murray, of Oklahoma.

"Everywhere I went a war broke out just after I left. Say, ain't these Chinese putting up a battle. I flew hundreds of miles with a Chinese pilot, which is taking more chances than Lindbergh took. I flew over Jerusalem and though I didn't stop I could hear the wailin'. That was amateur wailin', however, compared to what I heard as soon as the ship came within earshot of Nantucket Light.

"I guess I'm the only gent who went to Cairo without seeing the Sphinx. I had already seen Mr. Coolidge."

Jolson Show Halted, Flu Attacks Star

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Suffering from acute influenza, Al Jolson, famous singing comedian of stage and screen, was confined to his hotel room here today.

The actor incurred the illness Sunday while en route from Detroit, but his condition did not grow serious until late yesterday and his friends summoned a physician. Last night's performance of Jolson's show, "The Wonder Bar," was cancelled.

Council to Discuss Control of Airport

City Council's Committee on Finance today was to discuss a request from the Aero Club of Pittsburgh for the appointment of an advisory board to supervise operation of the new City-County Airport.

Council and the Board of Allegheny County Commissioners have been asked to co-operate in the naming of an advisory board—the members to serve without pay—in order to prevent any individual or organization from securing a monopoly in operation of the port.

PARK BANDITS ROB GIRL, MEN

A girl and three men were stripped of jewelry and money by masked and armed holdup men in two midnight holdups in Schenley and Highland parks.

Paul McDowell, of 827 Collins avenue, was struck on the nose with a blackjack by one of the three who held up him and his companion, Miss Marcella Morgan, of 227 South Mathilda street, in their automobile at the Heberton avenue entrance to Highland Park.

Miss Morgan was robbed of a wrist watch and her purse containing $5. McDowell gave up a watch and $30 cash. McDowell noted the license number of the bandits' car, which, police determined, had been stolen last night from Schenley Park. It belonged, they said, to F. J. Connolly, of 205 Renfrew street, Carrick.

Handkerchiefs hiding their faces, three highwaymen took $269 from Moses Bluestone, 3.0 Dinwiddie street, and $173 from his brother, Sam, 2613 Tilbury avenue, in the Beacon street entrance to Schenley Park. In their own car the bandits forced the Bluestone auto to the curb.

Four holdup men who took $6.50 from the chef, John Meyers, in "Harry's Lunch" at Thirty-first and Smallman streets, Lawrenceville, last night, indicated their appetite for tobacco by taking also, the cigaret machine.

Fugitive for 3 Years Arrested by Troopers

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 9.—Missing for three years after he was alleged to have violated the motor vehicles theft act, John W. GIRL ACCUSED OF 2D MURDER

DEWITT, Ark., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A second murder accusation has been added to the turbulent life of Helen Spence Eaton, 19-year-old divorcee.

The comely girl who took the law in her own hands to avenge her father's death a year ago was charged with first-degree murder yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the killing of Jim Bohots, restaurant owner, slain in his parked auto at a trysting place.

She is awaiting a second trial for killing Jack Worls, 22, in the courtroom here as a jury retired to deliberate his fate after his trial for the slaying of her father, Cicero Spence, a riverman.

Michigan Hunts 'Betty' to Present $2,000 Legacy

DETROIT, Feb. 9.—(INS)—The state of Michigan today resumed its search for a girl named Betty to give her $2,000.

Since Thomas Sheehan, 57, died last July leaving a notebook scribbling to "see that Betty gets $2,000," the state has been seeking the girl or woman.

The long hunt was thought ended when Betty Suder, of Cumberland, Md., the sixty-fifth Betty to claim the money, showed the public administrator a letter signed "Thomas Sheehan," but the will contest was again thrown wide open when the public administrator and Miss Suder's lawyer today agreed that the writer of the letter did not write like the Thomas Sheehan who left $2,000 of his $10,000 to "Betty."

PILOTS IN WAGE DISPUTE FIRED

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The 23 pilots on the Century Air Lines were discharged today and the plane schedule was interrupted at least temporarily as the result of a wage dispute.

The pilots had balked at a salary reduction which they said amounted to almost 50 per cent and had made unsuccessful attempts to negotiate with the Century management. The reduction was to have gone into effect February 1, but an "armistice" was declared for 10 days.

No agreement had been reached today, however, and pilots who went to work in Chicago this morning found the hangar locked and were handed letters notifying them their "resignations" were accepted. Pilots at various points on the Century's midwest route received wires telling them to turn in their equipment.

Nine Black Cat Lives Lost In Blaze

This is good news if you're inclined to be superstitious.

The black cat, omen of bad luck, is dead.

True to tradition, its presence in the home of J. R. Meadows, of 934 Forest avenue, West Homestead, brought ill luck.

While the family was absent last night fire destroyed their three-room bungalow. When firemen arrived they found the home in flames and the black cat, its nine lives extinct, lying on the dining room floor.

Loss to the home was estimated at $5,000.

OFFICER GIVES INFANT BLOOD

There was good news at Children's Hospital today for the mother of 5-month-old Yvonne Petrinik, whose life apparently had been saved by a policeman.

The mother could not be located yesterday to be told Yvonne needed a blood transfusion. Over the police radio went a plea for donors.

Patrolman John Mathias, of Hays, volunteered. The transfusion effected, Yvonne, suffering malnutrition, improved.

Yvonne has been a hospital patient since February 1. The mother's anxiety for her baby was shown last week when she had Yvonne baptized in the hospital.

AUTO HITS GIRL, MAN HELD

Walter Kawnish, of Cowansville, Armstrong County, will be arraigned tomorrow night before Justice of the Peace H. M. Davidson, of Russellton, in connection with injury of Rose Yankovich, 5, struck by an auto in front of the Russellton School yesterday.

The child was knocked down by the auto as she crossed Russellton road in front of the school.

Witnesses said four men were in the car, that two of them walked away while the others placed the girl in the machine and drove off.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Rose Yankovich, called police. Constable Fred H. Denbaugh, her neighbor, traced the car to a Chewsick doctor's office and overtook it as it was being driven back to the girl's home, her injuries none serious, having been treated.

Denbaugh arrested Kawnish, the owner of the car, who said he had not been driving the car.

He was taken to Springdale Police Station on a suspicious person charge and held for tomorrow night's hearing.

DEMANDS FIRE PROBE REPORT

Immediate report on the results of investigations into several fires of incendiary origin on his property at 1632 Grandview avenue, Mt. Washington, is demanded of City Council by J. B. Love, of the Grandview address.

Love also asked Council why two watchmen employed to prevent fires were taken into custody by police officers last year.

Love, who was a witness for Attorney Henry Oliver Evans during the probe into the Public Works Department last March, said he was granted a hearing November 16 to determine why the watchmen were removed and on the cause of the fires. On the morning of November 16 fire again broke out on his property, and the hearing was postponed. Since that time, he declares, he has received no answer from Council why he has been "neglected."

307 FIREMEN ON PENSION

Three hundred and seven firemen are on the rolls of the Firemen's Pension Fund, Chief Clerk Robert Brown of the Department of Public Safety announced today.

In his annual report made public through City Council, Brown said the balance at the end of business December 31, 1931, totaled $355,697.55. Receipts throughout the year were $743,979.46. Brown is secretary of the fund.

During 1931 there were 14 deaths, with 26 firemen retired during the 12 months the report covers.

Ninety-eight firemen dismissed by Council for 1932 during its budget sessions have not yet been added to the roll, it was declared. Members of the City Firemen's Protective Association are making efforts to have Council reconsider and place the men back on the payroll.

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 9.—(AP).—One hundred thousand books and historic documents dating back to the first century began arriving yesterday from the noble house of Borghese to enrich the Vatican library.

The Borghese family, one of the foremost in Italy, decided to transfer their archives to the Vatican in accordance with the action of other noted Italian houses in the last few years.

HAWAII VICTIM TO TESTIFY

HONOLULU, Feb. 9.—Mrs. Thomas H. Massie will remain here to testify at the retrial of four men of mixed blood accused of attacking her, she said yesterday in her first public statement since the alleged attack last September, she declared.

"It is not vengeance I want, but justice."

At the first trial there were five defendants. A jury disagreed. Ben Ahakuni, one of the five, Joseph Kahahawai, a Hawaiian, was slain, causing the arrest of Mrs. Massie's husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, of the Navy; Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Army society woman, and Mrs. Massie's mother, and two Navy enlisted men.

The four co-defendants in the Kahahawai killing are awaiting trial in Circuit Court here. They are at liberty on bond. Attorneys have agreed on March 8 for the beginning of the trial.

MARINES CLASH IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 9.—(Universal).—U. S. Marine detachments on the East Coast are waging fierce guerilla warfare with bandit rebels reported concentrating for an attack on Ghinandega.

Advices received at headquarters today stated that Lieut. McFee, commanding a civilian detachment at Neptune mines beat back a bandit attack February 1. Four bandits were killed and one of the lieutenant's detachment wounded.

On the following day a National Guard patrol, commanded by Lieut. Gray, killed five bandits in two brushes. Rifles and ammunition stolen by the bandits were recaptured.

The advices state 500 of Gen. Augusto Sandino's followers are mobilizing for an attack on Ghinandega, but that the town is well guarded and the surrounding district heavily patrolled.

Wabash Tube Project Not Before Board

President John S. Herron of City Council was informed today by Charles C. McGovern, chairman of the County Commissioners, that there is nothing in connection with the Wabash Bridge and tunnel project before the Commissioners for action now. All previous negotiations for acquisition of the property were rescinded by the last grand jury, McGovern told Herron.

The communication was the answer to a request from Council that the city be advised of any plans for acquisition of the tunnel so preparations could be made to prepare streets for entrances to the tube.

COUNCILMEN IN VERBAL FIGHT

Charges that Councilman Charles Anderson "ran out" when the salary and appropriation ordinances were before Council in budget session last month, were made yesterday by Councilman W. Y. English in a heated session. The charges were made when Council voted on an amendment to the salary ordinance that plumbers and steam fitters at Mayview should be hired on regular time instead of "as needed." Anderson's motion was defeated. English said:

"I want it recorded here that Mr. Anderson voted for the tax levy bill fixing the millage, but ran out when the salary and appropriations ordinances were before us."

Anderson retorted:

"Mr. Chairman, that is a lie. I voted against the appropriation and salary ordinances as the record will show."

WRECK DELAYS P. R. R. TRAINS

Eight passenger trains on the Pennsylvania Railroad were delayed last night when two cars of a 142-car Pittsburgh-bound freight left the rails near the Horseshoe Curve, west of Altoona. No one was injured.

Traffic on the main line was delayed while wrecking crews cleared the track of debris.

The St. Louis-New York Express, scheduled to leave Pittsburgh at 7:30 last night, was delayed an hour and 20 minutes. The Red Arrow, New York to St. Louis, was 44 minutes behind schedule. The others were delayed for shorter periods.

GIANT RADIO TUBES PERFECTED

Create Sufficient Power to Run Locomotive

"Giant radio tubes," declared to be 3,000,000 times as powerful as ordinary tubes capable of carrying electric power sufficient to run a locomotive, will be shown several hundred members of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers tonight. This will be the first "public showing" of a mercury arc rectifier perfected by A. L. Atherton in the laboratories of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh.

An engineer's description of this electric giant for lay readers:

"Picture a series of steel tanks, surrounded by water with all the air pumped from the tanks. Jets of mercury steam shoot up from pools of liquid mercury at a speed of five miles a second. Billions of molecules bump against the water-cooled walls of the tubes. Over and over again this molecule "hail storm" is repeated.

"As the molecules hit the walls, they are smashed by a powerful electric field and break into two parts—electrons and protons. The proton is the big lazy drone of the molecule. It is the electron that does the work."

Those electrons move easily among the large molecules and carry the electric current through the tanks or "tubes" like busy little bees in a hive.

Billions of these little workers, the engineers say, keep up the work of transporting current and are continually joined by other millions in an endless cycle.

As the molecules are broken up they permit the condensed drops of mercury to fall back to replenish the pool of mercury.

Westinghouse engineers explain the new "tube" will effect both economy and efficiency of operation in changing the conventional alternating current to direct current for industrial use.

Man About Town

The reviews on "Blessed Event," the newspaper play, were raves down in Washington . . . The sponsors must have improved the first two stanzas, which were hardly up to the value of the finale—a fast and spellbinding third paragraph . . . One of the critics reports: "The authors delved deep into the secrets of a pulp hero of the day and not only robed him with glory, but put a halo around his head."

Instead of a noose, huh?

The other columnists mentioned in the "Scandals" sketch will be irked to learn that the mention of their tags means nothing any more . . . Merely First-Night laugh-getters . . . My dear—open a window, the room is stuffy with fame!

Wonder if that's true? . . . I mean about The Nine of Diamonds being the curse of Scotland. A thief attempted to steal Queen Mary's Crown, and succeeded in thefting nine diamonds—so a heavy tax was placed on the people to replace the stones . . . Long live what king?

Guess someone has told Edward G. Robinson that his name now fits snugly into the largest electric sign Broadway ever featured. . . . Consumes the entire front of the Winter Garden, nearly a block long . . . Mary Nolan's name last year was the largest on Broadway . . . Hmmm, one year ago.

I'm sorry that that producer's theater is on the verge of foreclosure . . . A mere matter of $580,000 due any day now—and the one-time rich backers can't promote anymore . . . Get me my hanky.

It is more interesting sitting in a speakeasy in a far corner with a group of your fellows—and hearing a total stranger five tables away put you on the grease . . . Walter, Walter Everywhere!

Poor Ted Cook, the newspaper comedian . . . He's the victim of a phoney who uses the name of Ted Cook and gets beaten up in Detroit and Chicago . . . So the rags come out and it looks like Ted Cook, the star columnist, was the loafer . . . The pretender is really named Russell Cook, his nick-tag is "Cookie" and he has no reason to use the name of Ted . . . Maybe the Chicago and Detroit papers will expose the messer of ceremonies—who takes the name of another, who Got There without being phony!

Harry Kaufman, the head of Kay's Ticket Brokerage . . . He shuddered, he said, at the line "the place was filled with hundreds of acquaintances and a few of my friends" . . . "I guess," mused Mr. Kaufman, "that too many of us think we have more friends than we actually have."

Silly man . . . I once was reminded that near neighbors are seldom friends . . . To have too many friends is cruel, anyhow. . . . Golly! When they pass on—how grieved we are! . . . Friendship, as someone must have said heretofore, is that which warms—but cannot burn.

That Beryl Wallace girl is much prettier since shelving that tonnage . . . Why did she get stout? . . . So she remarked that when a girl appears in a show with so many well-rounded ladies she doesn't look too heavy . . . That's no reason, at all . . . I mean, that's no reason for anyone who has charm to bulge over and out and etcetra.

William Kent, the comedian of "Little Racketeer" . . . Breaking his fast too near matinee curtain time . . . In Mack's soda fountain rendezvous in the liver of the Theater Belt . . . Where so many of the vicinity's mimics gather between performances and numbers . . . Mr. Kent's daughter is developing from a child into girlhood . . . Most interesting to observe . . . I mean, watching a little girl grow up that way.

The workers on that huge clock in the bulbs where the Red trolleys kiss the Green ones ta-ta . . . At 47th Street . . . They were setting the over-worked timepiece . . . And the hands sped around and around . . . Making so many of us think we were seeing things! . . . I can't pass that abbreviated water pump near the front of the Palace . . . Where in the early 20s I rested a pedal and with a camera snapped what I thought were the somebodies. Ah, the good old days! . . . May they never come again.

I like the philanthropic idea behind it . . . The Lavanburg House, 331 E. 12th Street, I mean . . . It is a working girls' residence . . . They rate a private room with a wash basin in it. There are club rooms, a gym, swimming pool, showers, etc. . . . Fifteen meals weekly—all for $12 a week! . . . One of the few worth while charities of which I've heard—it should be encouraged . . . Mrs. Oscar Straus is a backer . . . The place loses between 40 and 50 Grand annually . . . Not such a loss—considering the Cause.

The town has finally gone completely effiminate . . . The lunchwagon opposite the Capitol Theater, frinstance:

"Chiffon Cream Pie—10c"!!!

Mr. Reuben, the restaurateur, who caters to the well knowns and those who patronize his place to ogle them, is too easy a victim. . . . For the practical-jokers . . . Lew Brown, the author, teases him so . . . "I don't say," says Lew, "that Dave's Blue Room has better food. All I say is that Dave offers better soups—and meats . . . You have better bread, though, Reuben!"

Mr. Reuben gets very ill. Dave once worked for him.

Municipal Bond Tax Proposed in Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—A constitutional amendment to make possible a federal tax on state and municipal bonds was introduced yesterday by Senator Bingham.

Commenting on his proposal, the Connecticut Republican said that at present "any very rich person who wants to escape taxation can put his money into non-taxables."

Murder Attempt Laid To Kidnap Suspect

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—A warrant charging attempted murder has been issued against Clifford Adkins, brother of Miss Billie Adkins, 20, who is held as a material witness in the kidnaping of Gordon Sawyer, Tucson banker. Officers are seeking the suspect.

The County Attorney charged Clifford Adkins was the man who fired upon deputies as they approached the Adkins ranch.

"Quality with Value Will Turn Tide"

—says National Retail Dry Goods Association President, Vindicating Horne Policies

In addressing the Annual Convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, the official body of American merchants, P. A. O'Donnell, the President, sounded the keynote of quality with value as a means of restoring prosperity to American business. He said:

"People cannot afford to buy poor or uncertain merchandise. They do not want cheap merchandise, but they want and have a right to expect to buy good merchandise cheaply. The goodwill of every merchant retailer and producer is now in the balance, depending upon whether or not he yields to the temptation to meet lower prices with lower quality.

"Goodwill is a priceless asset, difficult to obtain, easily lost in times like these. The merchant who holds to the high standards of quality and service is coming out of this depression with the goodwill of the consuming public, which will place him in a place of leadership when the next period of business expansion returns."

This is the stand which the Joseph Horne Co. has steadfastly maintained throughout the present period of decline. While giving the public the immediate benefit of every lowering in basic costs, this store has held rigidly to its established high standards of quality, and even at the expense of temporary disadvantage, it has refused to promote low price at the expense of quality.

Public experience has vindicated this policy, and the past few months have seen the sharp swing of public patronage to this store. You can depend upon Horne's for sound qualities and values at all times.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare, costs little, and saves money, but gives real relief even in those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with clean granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. This makes a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe the irritated throat in a manner with surprising ease, but since it is absorbed into the blood and acts directly upon the mucous membranes expelling the whole system of the cough. It loosens the phlegm, stops the tickling phlegm and raises the bronchial secretions in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine containing the active agents of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing else in any medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chronic bronchitis or winter coughs.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Mr. Lissfelt

Mary Louise Paff, pianist, and Charles C. Curran, tenor, gave a joint recital in Carnegie Lecture Hall last night, offering a program of excellent piano music and some of the best songs ever written. If these aspirants to honors in the concert field have the presumption at their stage of preparation to offer their music in competition with the music we are hearing in the concert halls these days, then we must retort in kind and say that they are completely unaware of the excellence of our great artists.

Mr. Curran is the worse offender of the two. Although he has studied in the land of bel canto, certainly his tremolo and other evils in voice production give little evidence of it. When he sang those beautiful songs of Strauss, Schubert and Wolf, it was truly a profanation of music.

Miss Paff is technically better equipped, but she is still in the school girl stage of musical development and had better refrain from concert giving and await artistic maturity.

VETS TO HONOR FATHER COX

More than 300 men representing all chapters in Western Pennsylvania of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War will attend the installation of the Rev. James R. Cox, recently elected state chaplain, in Memorial Hall Saturday evening. Father Cox is a member of the Greater Pittsburgh Chapter No. 8.

State Commander Samuel M. Lunine and Allegheny County Commanders A. Yahres, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and John J. Deller, of the American Legion; County Treasurer Robert S. Cain, E. R. Benke, district manager of the United States Veterans' Bureau; Thomas A. Dunn, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, and G. H. Dennison, Better Business Bureau of Pittsburgh, will attend.

Cox Scores Senate Wheat Gift Refusal

Congress was scored for having failed to support a Senate bill providing 40,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat for unemployed relief, last night, by Father James R. Cox, before an audience of 400 in the Knights of Columbus auditorium in Braddock.

Father Cox also spoke at a meeting of the Italian women of Homewood and Brushton and at the Ottawa Athletic Club, 70 Southern avenue, Mt. Washington. He will speak tonight in Overbrook.

Players to Portray Cox Jobless March

"The Father Cox Jobless March to Washington" will be presented in the Pitt Theater tonight. James A. Nelson and Walter Armstrong are the principals. The production is under the direction of Regis C. Reagan.

Yesterday's meeting of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club served as a double celebration, guest day and the Washington bicentennial, and was attended by presidents of 25 other organizations and representatives of clubs from other communities. Indeed, it was the largest attendance the club has had in three years. A roll of the visitors was called, a Revolutionary playlet, "A Dish of China Tea," was presented, the chorus sang early American songs, and a colonial tea completed the afternoon. Mrs. H. D. Allen and Mrs. Lucille Miller Werner pouring.

CROCHET TRIMMING DETAILS FAVORED FOR SPRING FROCKS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—The wool sports frock that doesn't boast a crocheted yoke or a bit of crochet somewhere or another is going to feel very badly this spring when it sees other frocks. For every house here is utilizing crochet as a trimming detail to give the contrast in weave that a simple frock should have to avoid any monotony. Then, such insets are grand for introducing the color contrasts that, too, are so important to almost every type of frock. The clothes so far shown are simple, smart and neat, with a tailored look that falls very short of being severe. For severe looking clothes add years to almost every type, while neat clothes that cleverly avoid frills yet remain feminine are the very essence of youth. And now that this is understood, this seems to be the reason that the mode refrains from any radical change in the new season's styles. New little touches are introduced that really indicate the newness of the model, and at the same time create a smart and novel touch to even the simplest garment. We think that you will wholeheartedly approve of this season's clothes. They are in keeping with the times and are incredibly cheerful.

* * *

THE TWO FROCKS sketched will give a pretty good idea of the spring mode in sports frocks. First is the Chanel frock in wool jersey. This sports frock is in tete de negre, contrast being introduced by the crescent shaped insets that are of red silk crochet. Vertical piecings at the top of the skirt give a molded hipline and terminate in side-pleats. The tailored belt is of jersey.

* * *

SCHIAPARELLI'S collection features crocheted yokes for sports frocks, of the type sketched. The model is of cream-colored silk and wool material with a ribbed weave. It is cut on the bias and has in addition various bias seams and darts that lend interest to the flat surface. The fulness of the slightly circular skirt is concentrated at the front. The crocheted yoke is of dark brown chenil, belt of brown leather.

In his talk on "Judging Books" before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday, Dr. Henry Seidel Canby said criticism must keep abreast of philosophy and is based on certain general principles which constantly change. Twenty-five years ago, novels of sex were condemned as bad art; today it is admitted that some books dealing with sex have made an important contribution to literature. Goethe, the great German, asked himself three questions, which are still in use: what did the author intend to do; did he accomplish it, and was it worth while?

With these three in mind, Dr. Canby discussed Willa Cather's "Shadows on the Rock," "Mourning Becomes Electra," Edna Ferber's "American Beauty," Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street" and a number of other novels.

The critic, he said, must discount his own prejudices; he must know history and psychology, but if he has this knowledge and lacks taste his work loses its subtle character. Literature is not intended to point a moral; it is intended to do something that will intensify the consciousness of life, Dr. Canby stated.

* * *

Speaking of censorship before the Homewood Woman's Club yesterday, Frances Hickok Cretcher, Pittsburgh author, said censors are not as a rule to be trusted for they usually represent a vested interest, either political, religious or economic; they fear the new and champion things that are; they are enemies of progress. Anna Kempton Confer added a group of readings to the afternoon's program.

* * *

Mary Louise Succop, Katharine MacCloskey, Mary Phillips, Margaret Zimmerman and Louise Bausmann will serve as aides at the luncheon to be given by the Woman's City Club tomorrow in honor of Conrad Nagel, motion picture star. Mr. Nagel will talk on "Movieland."

YES! you can bathe the baby with this laundry soap

Can you imagine a laundry soap so free from adulterants that it is soothing to the baby's tender skin . . . so pure that surgeons and hospitals use it for cleansing wounds? Yet, that's exactly the kind of a soap TAG Soap is.

When you see TAG Soap for the first time, you'll be surprised at how homely it is. But when you try it for the first time, you'll be amazed at how good it is. TAG has only the choicest of soap ingredients. Every ounce of TAG is solid soap . . . no naphtha to irritate the skin . . . no fillers, no caustics, no chemicals, no bleaches. It has half again as much real soap as ordinary laundry soaps contain. That's why it goes twice as far . . . why less is needed . . . why it is the most economical soap in the world today.

And how it gets things clean! Clothes are made snowy white. Colors are brightened. Woolens are left soft and fluffy. No other soap can even approach TAG for its safe, thoroughly effective cleansing qualities.

You'll never believe that any soap can do what TAG Soap will do until you have tested it out in your own home. Why not make this test now? Your grocer can supply you with TAG . . . the homely brown bar with the round metal tag. See him today.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Events

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Both theaters attracted socially prominent audiences last night with "Experience Unnecessary" at the Alvin, and "The Band Wagon" at the Nixon.

One of the most distinctive gowns seen at the Alvin was that of Mrs. T. Howe Nimick with the bodice cut in a deep point in front and back of which satin and the long flowing skirt ending in a brief train of black satin. Twisted strands of white satin were used as shoulder straps.

Others I noticed were Mrs. Simon T. Patterson in a red velvet wrap trimmed in sable; Mrs. James Francis Burke in blue satin; Mrs. Reginald Quaile, Mrs. William Zang and her daughter, Neil Stewart Zang; Mrs. H. C. Bughman, Jr., in silver lamb; Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson in desert red with a small gold motif; Mrs. Samuel Harden Church and Mrs. A. C. Martin in carnival red satin and a red velvet wrap, collared in white fox.

Caroline Mitchell, a debutante, wore black velvet with a scarf of white panne velvet, and her mother, Mrs. Harry S. Mitchell, was in black velvet.

* * *

Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, Jr., chose a satin gown with the bodice having a cowl decolletage of blue and the skirt of black.

Chooses Satin

Others there were Mrs. Lewis A. Park, Mrs. C. A. Painter, Jr., Mrs. B. F. Jones III, Mrs. William Penn Snyder, Jr., Genevieve Bell and Mrs. John H. Ricketson III.

Mrs. George H. Love wore green chiffon with a wrap of emerald green velvet, and Mrs. Alan S. Humphreys was in black lace.

Mrs. William Maclay Hall wore a red velvet wrap, Mrs. Gordon King was in black velvet and ermine, as was Mrs. Theodore F. Smith. Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., was there, and Mrs. Felix B. Snowdon.

Mrs. John W. Lawrence wore black chiffon and lace, and Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III, black crepe. Others there were Georgia Pierson, the H. V. Blaxters, Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland, Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker, Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby, eggshell satin; Mrs. J. Willis Dalzell, Mrs. William S. Moorhead.

In Black Chiffon

Susan O'Neil wore a black velvet gown with an interesting short jacket of velvet, and Katherine Frazer, one of the debs chose an interesting wrap of black velvet having a bolero jacket of white ermine ending in a long scarves of the fur, lined in black felt, crossed in front in surplice style. Mrs. James Verner Scaife was there and Mrs. J. G. Frazer.

* * *

And now to tell you about the smart creations I saw worn to the Nixon last night. First was the unusual gown chosen by Betty McKay, fashioned of black crepe with a brief yoke of shining sequins extending into cape sleeves. Mary Margaret Marshall chose a crepe gown in a soft wisteria shade, and Louise Reed, with Richard K. Mellon, appeared in tangerine crepe with a gold lame jacket. I caught a glimpse of Jane Allerdice, too, in the crowded foyer.

Seen at Nixon

Mrs. Harvey Childs II I saw wearing a gown of black crepe with a black velvet wrap. Jane Marshall I caught a glimpse of as she entered the house, and Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson, and of Lucille Todd, in black velvet and a bunny jacket. Gretchen Bickford, a bud of the season, wore coral pink lace with an apple green velvet knee-length wrap, having a white fox collar.

Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife chose black velvet with touches of ecru lace, and with her was Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Jr., in a gown having the skirt of black and the bodice of deep cream satin.

Touches Of Lace

Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Jr., was most attractive in a gown of vivid aquamarine satin, and Emily Frew wore emerald green crepe with an ermine jacket.

I saw Marie McCahill, in blue crepe with a crimson velvet sash, and her sister, Marguerite, in red crepe and a vivid blue velvet girdle, with their mother and father, the David I. McCahills, and Mrs. McCahill wore a gown of deep amethyst crepe.

* * *

Mary Franklin Robinson chose pale lemon crepe having a brief jacket with long sleeves banded with kolinsky. With her was Laura Evans in blue crepe and a peach pink velvet wrap with a white fox collar. Mrs. Herbert A. May chose frosted blue transparent velvet for her costume, and I caught a glimpse of the William Standishes, with Mrs. Standish in black crepe. Virginia Willock chose black velvet. Attractive Helen Tunnell wore black tulle having a full skirt, with a short beige velvet wrap. Mrs. F. Bourdette Kirkendall chose black velvet. Evelyn Evans was attractive in a gown of emerald green crepe embroidered in an all-over design of shining gold rings. Her wrap was of black velvet. Mrs. George A. Kelly III chose blue lace with a black velvet wrap, and Virginia Doyle, a deb of the past season, wore black velvet with a mink coat.

One of the mid-February weddings of note in social realms will be that of Cynthia Anne Pratt, daughter of Mrs. Charles Aubrey Cartwright, of London, and Alexander Dallas Bache Pratt, of New York, who'll wed William McKennan Laughlin, son of Mrs. Henry F. Lippitt, of Providence, R. I., and the late Thomas Laughlin, of Pittsburgh. The bridegroom-elect is a nephew of Mrs. George M. Laughlin, Jr., of Woodland road.

To Wed In East

The wedding will take place in New York in Grace Church, Tuesday afternoon, February 16, with the Rt. Rev. Ernest M. Stires, bishop of Long Island, as officiant. A reception at Premi's will follow.

Mrs. Geoffrey McN. Gates, of New York, will be matron of honor, and Virginia Thaw, daughter of Mrs. William Thaw III, of New York, and granddaughter of Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., of Sewickley Heights, will be maid of honor.

The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Rodman Wanamaker II, and Conway Clark, of Philadelphia, and Doris Duke and Lillian Kent, of New York.

John S. Laughlin, a cousin of the bridegroom-to-be, will be best man, and James C. Greenway, Jr., Frederick A. Potts, Carlos F. Stoddard, Jr., Henry C. Potter, Chauncey P. Goss, Francis F. Symington, Gardner D. Stout, Frederick M. Eaton, Richard S. Scott, Daniel A. Lindley, Andrew V. Stout, Jr., and Samuel Ferguson will be ushers.

Gargle Aspirin for Tonsilitis or Sore Throat

A harmless and effective gargle may be prepared by dissolving three to five Bayer Aspirin tablets in one-third glassful of water. Gargle thoroughly, allowing a little to trickle down throat. Repeat in two hours as necessary.

Be sure you use only the genuine Bayer Aspirin, marked with the Bayer cross; beware of substitutes.

Seibel to Talk On Lincoln

George Seibel, dramatic critic of the Sun-Telegraph, will speak from WCAE tonight at 7 o'clock on "Lincoln and Booth: A Tragedy of History."

Young and old will gather around the radio at 6 o'clock to hear about the latest battles of Popeye and the doings of other "funny page" characters when Uncle Bob and Betty read the comics of the Sun-Telegraph.

Riggs and Moke again will act as masters of ceremonies on the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club program at 11. Ann Zimet, blues singer, and Sonny Joy will be featured.

The Globe Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News will keep radio listeners informed, as usual, of the latest news flashes from the war front in China and other happenings throughout the world in his broadcasts at 8:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

...then he saw her PIMPLY SKIN

SWEET, charming, adorably feminine. But when he saw her skin... the glamour faded.

Don't let a poor complexion spoil your romance. Don't permit coarse pores, blackheads, stubborn blemishes to rob you of your natural loveliness. Rid yourself of these distressing faults. But not with ordinary complexion creams. They cleanse only the surface.

Try the treatment that doctors prescribe and nurses use themselves. Already 6,000,000 women know this perfect way to a perfect complexion... Noxzema, the famous snow white medicated cream that users say works beauty "miracles."

Not a salve. Absolutely non greasy. Instantly absorbed. Its gentle, soothing medication penetrates deep into the affected pores. Purges them of germ-breeding impurities that cause skin blemishes. Refines coarse pores. Helps stimulate lagging skin glands. Noxzema's first application leaves your skin far clearer, finer, smoother than before.

Apply Noxzema every night after all make-up has been removed. Use it every time you powder as a healing, protective powder base. With this scientifically perfect complexion aid, you'll soon glory in a skin so clean and clear and lovely it will stand closest scrutiny. Let Noxzema restore Nature's priceless gift, a beautiful skin that is your most potent allure.

LISTENING IN—With the Radio Editor

Pittsburgh radio listeners tonight will have the opportunity of hearing the first American actress expected to become a member of the British nobility. She is Adele Astaire, star of "The Band Wagon," who will appear on the "Backstage Interview" period at 7:45 from KQV. Miss Astaire a few months ago confirmed her engagement to Lord Charles Cavendish, a son of the Duke of Devonshire and announced they would be married in England at the termination of her present engagement. She will abandon the stage to lead a life of luxury in an ancestral castle in England.

Miss Astaire

With Miss Astaire on the program will be her brother, Fred. Frank Morgan, and Helen Broderick, also featured in the musical revue current here. Incidentally, Miss Broderick is the young lady who made such a big hit in "Fifty Million Frenchmen" both on the stage and on the movie screen.

Tonight's Highlights

Revelry of the Mardi Gras at New Orleans is brought right into your own home tonight by the Lucky Strike hour on WCAE at 10. Walter Winchell will pilot his "magic carpet" to the famous Southern fiesta and introduce the King and Queen of the carnival. The music of Irving Aaronson and his Commanders, who will be playing for the Mardi Gras Ball, will be interspersed with first-hand descriptions of the celebration.

George Seibel, dramatic critic of the Sun-Telegraph, no doubt will attract hundreds of additional listeners to WCAE at 7 tonight when he speaks on "Lincoln and Booth: A Tragedy of History." Mr. Seibel's timely talk is expected to be the most colorful and dramatic of his series to date.

"Nature's Gift to Pittsburgh" will be the topic of the five-minute address on KDKA at 6:10 by Robert Garland, veteran Pittsburgh councilman and civic leader.

The new series of sacred song concerts will be inaugurated at 8 tonight by KDKA. The original program of Sacred Songs was terminated last week by the anonymous sponsor when the hour was changed.

With "Barnacle Bill" and "The Spaniard That Blighted My Life" featured, Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit bring a rollicking program to WCAE at 8.

Lovers of all that is fine in music can look forward with pleasure to the recital by Toscha Seidel, violinist, on WJAS at 10.

For scintillating dance music, try Abe Lyman at 8:15; Ben Bernie at 9 and Nat Shilkret at 10:30, all from WJAS, and our own Don Bestor, KDKA at 11:15.

Fan Fare

The program of blues and Southern "mammy" songs by Lee Morse will be fed to the NBC network by KDKA at 11:30.

Lois Miller, the singing organist, and Bob Weeden, singing usher, of the Penn Theater, were bright spots on the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club last night.

Ann Weir, KQV organist, and Don Bestor, KDKA orchestra leader, have collaborated on a new song, "Memories of Yesterday."

Suggested for Winchell's swell-egant squelches: Morton Downey's comment on a certain number—"It's a steal from a funeral march."

Alice Joy is waiting to see "rushes" of a screen test before deciding whether she will desert radio for the movies.

Lanny Ross' mother helps him select songs for his coffee hour program. She turns thumbs down on those of the "torch" variety.

The best present Walter Damrosch received on his seventieth birthday was a new grandson—born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Littell.

Nat Shilkret is like Napoleon in one respect, at least—he never sleeps more than four hours a night, and sometimes misses them.

Studio Static

Frank Luther slipped up the other night in singing "Blue Is the Night." He made it:

"Blue as the sky above you,
"Blue as your lips are blue—"

Not a single listener or studio official noticed it, and Frank thought he was getting away with something—that is, until he got home. When he faced his wife he explains, that was a different matter.

LOVED TO EAT, AND NOW SHE CAN!

Much of the suffering from so-called "indigestion" or acid-dyspepsia could be avoided if everyone could know what thousands like Miss Lillian Ralston have learned. This New York City business woman, who lives at 1160 Park Avenue, says:

"I suffered from headaches and heartburn after meals; couldn't sleep like I should; never felt right.

"For five years I experimented with medicines and treatments, until I learned about Pape's Diapepsin. I have used three packages now; have gained five pounds, and feel fine."

If you, too, suffer from sourness, gas, belching, nausea, headaches, dizziness, or pain after eating—either regularly or just at times, get a box of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist. Then you need never worry again about what you eat.

ALLEN TO SAIL FOR BERMUDA

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9 (INS.)—Eddie Allen planned today to sail for Bermuda.

The 23-year-old society turfman, his frail body burned out by his emotional experience, expects to find peace and contentment there.

Eddie was acquitted two days ago of the murder of Francis A. Donaldson, III.

Albert G. H. Lucas, intimate friend of the Donaldson family and star witness for the state at the trial, issued a statement defending his part in the effort of the commonwealth to send Allen to the electric chair.

A few hours earlier, Rose Allen, sweetheart of Donaldson, and sister of the acquitted youth, had issued a statement defending Lucas and reiterating her love for the dead youth.

COOLIDGE SUED OVER SPEECH

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 9 (AP)—Former President Calvin Coolidge and the New York Life Insurance Company, of which he is a director, have been named co-defendants in a suit for $100,000 by Lewis B. Tebbetts, St. Louis insurance man.

The papers were served on Mr. Coolidge at his home in Northampton by Sheriff Henry J. Sargent of Hampshire County, it was announced by Attorney Charles Weinberg of this city, acting for St. Louis attorneys retained by Tebbetts.

Weinberg said his client is a recipient of "term insurance," or insurance for protection only. Tebbetts declares Coolidge, in a radio talk October 6, 1931, indirectly referred to him and his insurance methods, and that these remarks were afterward published in pamphlet form by the New York Life Insurance Company and widely distributed. He claims that his reputation as an honest insurance agent has been injured and greatly damaged.

Electric Icebox Fails as Bank; $50 Missing

An electric refrigerator has its drawbacks as a safe deposit vault, Dan Slusser, proprietor of Slusser's Service Station, 2200 Main street, told police today.

Slusser, fearful of robbers, has been hiding his cash in the refrigerator each night for several weeks.

Some time after 1 a. m. this morning, and before the station reopened at 6 o'clock, robbers forced a window, opened the refrigerator, took $50 and departed.

Two Liquor 'Buys' Needed for Warrants

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9 (AP)—It takes two "buys" now to obtain a liquor search warrant.

New orders issued by Police Supt. William B. Mills provide that policemen seeking evidence of prohibition law violations must purchase liquor twice at the place they want to raid. Mills said the purpose of the new orders was "to preserve the sanctity of the home."

Boy Fatally Hurt First Day at Work

SHARON, Pa., Feb. 9—Burned on his first day at work after quitting high school to support a family of 10 of which he was a member, Robert Fulford, 19, died today. His oil-soaked clothing took fire in the Wheatland Tube Company's plant on January 26.

CO-ED'S DEATH ON SHIP PROBED

GIBRALTAR, Feb. 9 (Universal)—Mystery cloaked the death of Elizabeth Barrett Cook, 20-year-old Boston student at Cornell University, who was found dead in her cabin on the liner Chinese Prince Sunday.

The Chinese Prince docked here today and authorities began their investigation immediately. Quantities of drugs were found in the girl's room, together with a recent cablegram informing her of the death of her fiance in America.

Doctors were unable to trace the cause of her death by an autopsy, and further medical examinations will be made. The funeral will be held here, police said.

UNION CLUBMEN DISBANDING

The Union Club of Pittsburgh, one of the city's most prominent clubs for more than a score of years, today was winding up its affairs as its members began affiliating with the Keystone Club, one of the newer downtown organizations.

Action to affiliate the Union Club membership with that of the Keystone Club was decided yesterday at a meeting of the officials of the Union Club. The quarters of the Union Club on the top floor of the First National Bank Building will be given up February 15.

E. H. Eggleston, president of the Keystone Club, was on hand to extend the invitation of his club to the members of the Union Club at the meeting yesterday. Last month the Union Club observed its twenty-ninth anniversary.

Million Germans Ask Hindenburg to Run

BERLIN, Feb. 9 (AP)—More than a million Germans have already signed a petition urging President Von Hindenburg to stand for re-election next spring, it was revealed last night.

Chancellor Bruening and Lord Mayor Heinrich Sahm, of Berlin, are supporting a movement to extend President Von Hindenburg's term until the economic crisis in Germany has passed.

New low price on KOTEX

ONE risk some women used to take—in the name of economy—is now quite unnecessary. Kotex is now offered at a lower price!

What health insurance, what priceless assurance of safety lies in the very name: Kotex!

No question mark hovers over Kotex. No incessant doubt as to how it was made, where, under what conditions.

You know that Kotex is above all doubt. Made of tested materials; in air-washed rooms, by uniformed workers. Pure, safe, so fine a product that 24,000,000 pads were sold to hospitals, alone, last year.

Kotex stays soft. It is adjustable. Wear it on either side with equal protection. Be sure, when buying it wrapped, that you get genuine Kotex.

"The extra protection to my throat"

MIND IF I COLLYER "JUNE"?

June is one of New York's "400." When she middle-aisled it, dozens of eligible bachelors went back into circulation. She has a coffee-and-cream complexion, enough hats to start a hat store, and a yen for sausage. She made history for herself in WARNER BROS.' PICTURE, "ALEXANDER HAMILTON." For 4 years she has smoked LUCKIES. June Collyer gave that nice statement because she wanted to, and not for money, which makes the makers of LUCKY STRIKE as happy as a day with June!

"It's the extra things I get from LUCKIES that make me so enthusiastic. The extra protection to my throat, the extra fine flavor of LUCKY STRIKE'S choice tobaccos. And the extra convenience of the little tab which opens the LUCKY Cellophane wrapper so easily."

'Band Wagon' Merrily Rolls, Hitched to Astaires, Into the Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Once again somebody has had the happy idea of mixing just a little brains with the jazz and the jimjams of the average revue, and the result is that amusing, if not exactly elevating spectacle known as "The Band Wagon," which pulled into the Nixon Theater last night. It is even daring in its assumption that the audience is familiar with the odes of John Keats—but if they were, the perpetrators of the bathroom skit would probably be put into jail for blasphemy. It is cosmopolitan in bringing the delightful Astaires on to "Roll ze Hoopp" through a Parisian park—but the commuters from Greensburg and Butler were dazzled more by the aqueous glitter of the chorus in a sort of submarine goldfish wiggle. It is absolutely unprecedented in bringing a real actor like Frank Morgan to do some real character acting in a few sketches — but then the producers of musical revues will do almost anything. It is even worthy of note that last night startling originality was displayed in the avoidance of nudity—most of the time—and some of the costumes revealed almost an extravagance in the amount of material used.

George Seibel

From all of which it doth appear that "The Band Wagon" is above the average of musical shows we have been getting, but not so far above that any one will require a telescope to see its fine points.

THE EXQUISITE ASTAIRES

Of these fine points two of the most prominent are the exquisite Astaires. They dance, they sing, they clown. And they do all these things with zest and intelligence.

Adele Astaire is also entertainingly demure in a song with Frank Morgan, "Miserable With You," which is a rare travesty of the torch lyrics we have been burnt up with. Then Fred Astaire shows remarkable gifts in pantomime by a Viennese "Beggar Waltz" in which he is assisted by Florence Chumbecos.

Together they have a stein song, "I Love Louisa," which has both character and color—not only foam but pre-Volstead voltage.

Yes, these Astaires are a precious pair, and it will be a pity if they are not Siamese and can be separated.

USING FRANK MORGAN

Certainly the great problem for the builders of this revue was to use Frank Morgan, who became a high-class legitimate comedian by his performance in "Topaze" only a season ago.

They have solved that problem well. Topaze appears first with that most debonair and sang-froidish of comediennes, Helen Broderick, attempting to get a taxi on a rainy night while his one-track intellect is absorbed with more ethereal concerns. He is a very fine old Southern gentleman in another travesty and a keen-witted Sherlock Holmes in a murder mystery take-off. Here is a comedian who does not have to break his neck to make you laugh.

As for Helen Broderick, that lady has solved the secret of extracting mirth from an icicle. She was probably born at the North Pole and raised on Eskimo pie. And the cucumber is her favorite flower.

THAT REVOLVING STAGE

Not to forget the revolving stage, which produces some pretty scenic effects, even if it did not require an Edison to invent it; nor the music fitted to the show by Arthur Schwartz in very agreeable fashion; nor the dances devised by Albertina Rasch to display the agility and grace of a busy chorus—nor the beauty of Mary Jo Matthews, nor the good baritone of John Barker, nor a few other things. It will suffice to say that "The Band Wagon" is a colorful and tuneful evening, where a little brains mixed with the noise and glitter atone for the lapses of good taste that sometimes make you wonder how far. But it's always playing safe to have the demure lady cuss out loud, and the plumber still knows a few good jokes. Ah, well, we're out of mourning, and Shylock has had his pound of flesh!

Congo Savages In Exhibit

With their Congo village, its huts and trimmings complete, the Royal Household of Ubangi Savages, or saucer-billed women, begin their exhibitions today in Motor Square Garden. With the exception of next Monday evening, when the village will be moved to the basement to accommodate the regular fight fans, the savages may be seen daily continuously from noon to midnight in the main auditorium. They will eat, sleep and dance in public, and one may ask them any question through the four interpreters on hand at all times. Questions from groups of school children will be answered through the loud speakers, especially installed for this event.

Coming from a land where the surface is as flat as a pancake for miles about them, Queen Kolo-Lo cannot understand the hilly country of Pennsylvania, nor how high buildings can stand on lofty peaks. The Queen possesses the largest lip in all Ubangi, eight inches in diameter, and it is claimed she seldom uses it to gossip. The ladies-in-waiting, however, use their extended lips to good advantage and are gabbing day and night. Perhaps it is about the forthcoming wedding of Prince Nanaza-doukou and Princess Kimanlan-guesse, a secret that leaked out during one gossipy period.

They have promised to go through the Ubangi marriage rites in their Congo village, but Ubangis, it is said, cannot be tied down to any promise and will not give a definite date for the ceremony.

'Racketdears' In Academy

Another stock burlesque show, "Racketdears," is current in the Academy. It is headed by Eddie (Nuts) Kaplan and Georgia Sothern. Two Pittsburgh boys, Billy Joy, a dancer, and George Winters, a tenor singer, appear. In addition, 10 local girls are seen as art models. Two specialty numbers, headed by Betty and Midge Parks, in a singing and dancing act, and Sally Van, instrumentalist, are featured. Other members of "Racketdears" are Mildred Cozierre, Frances Parks, Bee Craig, Eddie Lloyd, Sid Rogers and Frank Mallahan. An ensemble of 24 girls also is on the bill.

Smart Audience in Alvin Laughs at Experiment In Romance

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Experience Unnecessary," a comedy adapted from the German of Wilhelm Sterck by Gladys Unger, came to the Alvin last night as the fourth offering in the Professional Players' series. The audience was of the character known as "stylish," and it matched its smartness of attire with a plentiful measure of urbanity and suave tolerance for a play that hasn't much to commend it in the way of comedy except an implied naughtiness that used to be called "daring" in the days when the late Avery Hopwood was toying with the same disagreeable material with a much greater degree of cleverness than is displayed either by Miss Unger or the German gentleman from whom she has made her adaptation.

IT IS LAUGHABLE

Which is not to say that "Experience Unnecessary" does not have some situations that are laughable. Merely that they were much more laughable when they were new, as, for instance, in "The Demi Virgin," the second act of which is virtually duplicated in "Experience Unnecessary." While comparisons are being made, it may be just as well to go the limit and express the opinion that the present play comes least within the expectations of what one feels should be the character of entertainment in a subscription series. In that view, it is the least satisfactory of any that have been presented here.

ROMANCE ELUSIVE

Nevertheless, the subscribers appeared — nay, were — in rare good humor as they watched the unfolding on the stage of the story of a man who put love out of his life as an emotion, and yet had established the habit of trying to buy romance for one month out of the year. He was sufficiently decent about it as to pick springtime, at least, and not make himself absolutely abhorrent to the little bow-and-arrowed god. In the particular experience that serves as an example now in the Alvin, his money could furnish the romantic moonlight and other stage settings but the experiment failed because the party of the second part, his secretary, couldn't see anything in it that wasn't just plain business.

AND SO THEY MARRY

So it all ended just as you or anybody else would expect. That is, he had to marry the girl, in order to get her to love him in that whole-hearted way. The joker is that that was the state of her feelings all the while.

It was acted with a good deal of verve on the part of Walter Woolf, as the boss, and with engaging nonchalance on the part of Verree Teasdale as the secretary. Rex O'Malley, as a mutual friend and second in the running for the hand of the girl, also rates his share of praise for general excellence of the company throughout.

Mr. Woolf, formerly with musical productions, has an incidental song, "While We Were Waltzing," in the second act. It never will be numbered among the hits.

Danton Hero In German Cinema

By MILDRED FILLMORE

History in epic style is shown at the German Avenue Cinema this week in the picture "Danton," with its whirling mobs of the French Revolution. The swish of the guillotine and the strains of the Carmagnole make the thing very gruesome as well as dramatic. It is made up of a hundred little episodes—we even get a glimpse of the back of Napoleon as he applies for a commission.

Fritz Kortner, a fine actor, plays Danton, but he is not an orator equal to the exigencies of the tradition. Gustav Gruendgens is the Robespierre, without too much dandyism. But the real hero of this picture would seem to be the poor devil who had been receiving a rente of 100 francs from the King, and wants to know who is going to pay it now. All through the Revolution he is looking for someone to pay him his 100 francs. There is lots of liberty but no cash!

Much realism and some fine photography make this picture worth while, especially to the student of mob psychology and revolutionary technique.

ALLEN TO SAIL FOR BERMUDA

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Eddie Allen planned today to sail for Bermuda.

The 23-year-old society turfman, his frail body burned out by his emotional experience, expects to find peace and contentment there.

Eddie was acquitted two days ago of the murder of Francis A. Donaldson, III.

Albert G. H. Lucas, intimate friend of the Donaldson family and star witness for the state at the trial, issued a statement defending his part in the effort of the commonwealth to send Allen to the electric chair.

A few hours earlier, Rose Allen, sweetheart of Donaldson, and sister of the acquitted youth, had issued a statement defending Lucas and reiterating her love for the dead youth.

COOLIDGE SUED OVER SPEECH

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Former President Calvin Coolidge and the New York Life Insurance Company, of which he is a director, have been named co-defendants in a suit for $100,000 by Lewis B. Tebbetts, St. Louis insurance man.

The papers were served on Mr. Coolidge at his home in Northampton by Sheriff Henry J. Sargent of Hampshire County. It was announced by Attorney Charles Weinberg, of this city, acting for St. Louis attorneys retained by Tebbetts.

Weinberg said his client is a proponent of "term insurance" or insurance for protection only. Tebbetts declares Coolidge, in a radio talk October 6, 1931, indirectly referred to him and his insurance methods and that these remarks were afterward published in pamphlet form by the New York Life Insurance Company and widely distributed. He claims that his reputation as an honest insurance agent has been injured and greatly damaged.

Electric Icebox Fails as Bank; $50 Missing

An electric refrigerator has its drawbacks as a safe deposit vault, Don Slusser, proprietor of Slusser's Service Station, 2200 Main street, told police today.

Slusser, fearful of robbers, has been hiding his cash in the refrigerator each night for several weeks.

Some time after 1 a. m. this morning and before the station reopened at 6 o'clock, robbers forced a window, opened the refrigerator, took $50 and departed.

Two Liquor 'Buys' Needed for Warrants

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—It takes two "buys" now to obtain a liquor search warrant.

New orders issued by Police Supt. William B. Mills provide that policemen seeking evidence of prohibition law violations must purchase liquor twice at the place they want to raid. Mills said the purpose of the new orders was "to preserve the sanctity of the home."

Boy Fatally Hurt First Day at Work

SHARON, Pa., Feb. 9.—Buried on his first day at work after quitting high school to support a family of 10 of which he was a member, Robert Pulford, 19, died today. His oil-soaked clothing took fire in the Wheatland Tube Company's plant on January 26.

CO-ED'S DEATH ON SHIP PROBED

GIBRALTAR, Feb. 9.—(Universal.)—Mystery cloaked the death of Elizabeth Barrett Cook, 20-year-old Boston student at Cornell University, who was found dead in her cabin on the liner Chinese Prince Sunday.

The Chinese Prince docked here today and authorities began their investigation immediately. Quantities of drugs were found in the girl's room, together with a recent cablegram informing her of the death of her fiance in America.

Doctors were unable to trace the cause of her death by an autopsy, and further medical examinations will be made. The funeral will be held here, police said.

UNION CLUBMEN DISBANDING

The Union Club of Pittsburgh, one of the city's most prominent clubs for more than a score of years, today was winding up its affairs as its members began affiliating with the Keystone Club, one of the newer downtown organizations.

Action to affiliate the Union Club membership with that of the Keystone Club was decided yesterday at a meeting of the officials of the Union Club. The quarters of the Union Club on the top floor of the First Natfonal Bank Building will be given up February 15.

E. H. Eggleston, president of the Keystone Club, was on hand to extend the invitation of his club to the members of the Union Club at the meeting yesterday. Last month the Union Club observed its ninety-ninth anniversary.

COMEDY AND MUSIC — Fun With and Without Tunes on Stage

'Band Wagon' Merrily Rolls, Hitched to Astaires, Into the Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Once again somebody has had the happy idea of mixing just a little brains with the jazz and the jimjams of the average revue, and the result is that amusing, if not exactly elevating spectacle known as "The Band Wagon," which pulled into the Nixon Theater last night. It is even daring in its assumption that the audience is familiar with the odes of John Keats—but if they were, the perpetrators of the bathroom skit would probably be put into jail for blasphemy. It is cosmopolitan in bringing the delightful Astaires on to "Roll ze Hoopp" through a Parisian park—but the commuters from Greensburg and Butler were dazzled more by the aqueous glitter of the chorus in a sort of submarine goldfish wiggle. It is absolutely unprecedented in bringing a real actor like Frank Morgan to do some real character acting in a few sketches — but then the producers of musical revues will do almost anything. It is even worthy of note that last night startling originality was displayed in the avoidance of nudity—most of the time—and some of the costumes revealed almost an extravagance in the amount of material used.

George Seibel

From all of which it doth appear that "The Band Wagon" is above the average of musical shows we have been getting, but not so far above that any one will require a telescope to see its fine points.

THE EXQUISITE ASTAIRES

Of these fine points two of the most prominent are the exquisite Astaires. They dance, they sing, they clown. And they do all these things with zest and intelligence.

Adele Astaire is also entertainingly demure in a song with Frank Morgan, "Miserable With You," which is a rare travesty of the torch lyrics we have been burnt up with. Then Fred Astaire shows remarkable gifts in pantomime by a Viennese "Beggar Waltz" in which he is assisted by Florence Chumbecos.

Together they have a stein song, "I Love Louisa," which has both character and color—not only foam but pre-Volstead voltage.

Yes, these Astaires are a precious pair, and it will be a pity if they are not Siamese and can be separated.

USING FRANK MORGAN

Certainly the great problem for the builders of this revue was to use Frank Morgan, who became a high-class legitimate comedian by his performance in "Topaze" only a season ago.

They have solved that problem well. Topaze appears first with that most debonair and sang-froidish of comediennes, Helen Broderick, attempting to get a taxi on a rainy night while his one-track intellect is absorbed with more ethereal concerns. He is a very fine old Southern gentleman in another travesty and a keen-witted Sherlock Holmes in a murder mystery take-off. Here is a comedian who does not have to break his neck to make you laugh.

As for Helen Broderick, that lady has solved the secret of extracting mirth from an icicle. She was probably born at the North Pole and raised on Eskimo pie. And the cucumber is her favorite flower.

THAT REVOLVING STAGE

Not to forget the revolving stage, which produces some pretty scenic effects, even if it did not require an Edison to invent it; nor the music fitted to the show by Arthur Schwartz in very agreeable fashion; nor the dances devised by Albertina Rasch to display the agility and grace of a busy chorus—nor the beauty of Mary Jo Mathews, nor the good baritone of John Barker, nor a few other things, it will suffice to say that "The Band Wagon" is a colorful and tuneful evening, where a little brains mixed with the noise and glitter atone for the lapses of good taste that sometimes make you wonder how far. But it's always playing safe to have the demure lady cuss out loud, and the plumber still knows a few good jokes. Ah well, we're out of mourning, and Shylock has had his pound of flesh!

Congo Savages In Exhibit

With their Congo village, its huts and trimmings complete, the Royal Household of Ubangi Savages, or saucer-billed women, begin their exhibitions today in Motor Square Garden. With the exception of next Monday evening, when the village will be moved to the basement to accommodate the regular fight fans, the savages may be seen daily continuously from noon to midnight in the main auditorium. They will eat, sleep and dance in public, and one may ask them any question through the four interpreters on hand at all times. Questions from groups of school children will be answered through the loud speakers, especially installed for this event.

Coming from a land where the surface is as flat as a pancake for miles about them, Queen Kolo-Lo cannot understand the hilly country of Pennsylvania, nor how high buildings can stand on lofty peaks. The Queen possesses the largest lip in all Ubangi, eight inches in diameter, and it is claimed she seldom uses it to gossip. The ladies-in-waiting, however, use their extended lips to good advantage and are gabbing day and night. Perhaps it is about the forthcoming wedding of Prince Nanaza-doukou and Princess Kimanlan-guesse, a secret that leaked out during one gossipy period.

They have promised to go through the Ubangi marriage rites in their Congo village, but Ubangis, it is said, cannot be tied down to any promise and will not give a definite date for the ceremony.

'Racketdears' In Academy

Another stock burlesque show, "Racketdears," is current in the Academy. It is headed by Eddie (Nuts) Kaplan and Georgia Sothern. Two Pittsburgh boys, Billy Joy, a dancer, and George Winters, a tenor singer, appear. In addition, 10 local girls are seen as art models. Two specialty numbers, headed by Betty and Midge Parks, in a singing and dancing act, and Sally Van, instrumentalist, are featured. Other members of "Racketdears" are Mildred Conerre, Frances Parks, Bee Craig, Eddie Lloyd, Sid Rogers and Frank Mallahan. An ensemble of 24 girls also is on the bill.

Smart Audience in Alvin Laughs at Experiment In Romance

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Experience Unnecessary," a comedy adapted from the German of Wilhelm Sterck by Gladys Unger, came to the Alvin last night as the fourth offering in the Professional Players' series. The audience was of the character known as "stylish," and it matched its smartness of attire with a plentiful measure of urbanity and suave tolerance for a play that hasn't much to commend it in the way of comedy except an implied naughtiness that used to be called "daring" in the days when the late Avery Hopwood was toying with the same disagreeable material with a much greater degree of cleverness than is displayed either by Miss Unger or the German gentleman from whom she has made her adaptation.

IT IS LAUGHABLE

Which is not to say that "Experience Unnecessary" does not have some situations that are laughable. Merely that they were much more laughable when they were new, as, for instance, in "The Demi Virgin," the second act of which is virtually duplicated in "Experience Unnecessary." While comparisons are being made, it may be just as well to go the limit and express the opinion that the present play comes least within the expectations of what one feels should be the character of entertainment in a subscription series. In that view, it is the least satisfactory of any that have been presented here.

ROMANCE ELUSIVE

Nevertheless, the subscribers appeared — nay, were — in rare good humor as they watched the unfolding on the stage of the story of a man who put love out of his life as an emotion, and yet had established the habit of trying to buy romance for one month out of the year. He was sufficiently decent about it as to park spring-time, at least, and not make himself absolutely abhorrent to the little bow-and-arrowed god. In the particular experience that serves as an example now in the Alvin, his money could furnish the romantic moonlight and other stage settings but the experiment failed because the party of the second part, his secretary, couldn't see anything in it that wasn't just plain business.

AND SO THEY MARRY

So it all ended just as you or anybody else would expect. That is, he had to marry the girl, in order to get her to love him in that whole-hearted way. The joker is that that was the state of her feelings all the while.

It was acted with a good deal of verve on the part of Walter Woolf, as the boss, and with engaging nonchalance on the part of Verree Teasdale as the secretary. Rex O'Malley, as a mutual friend and second in the running for the hand of the girl, also rates his share of praise for general excellence of the company throughout.

Mr. Woolf, formerly with musical productions, has an incidental song, "While We Were Waltzing," in the second act. It never will be numbered among the hits.

Danton Hero In German Cinema

By MILDRED FILLMORE

History in epic style is shown at the German Avenue Cinema this week in the picture "Danton," with its whirling mobs of the French Revolution. The swish of the guillotine and the strains of the Carmagnole make the thing very gruesome as well as dramatic. It is made up of a hundred little episodes—we even get a glimpse of the back of Napoleon as he applies for a commission.

Fritz Kortner, a fine actor, plays Danton, but he is not an orator equal to the exigencies of the tradition. Gustav Grundgens is the Robespierre, without too much dandyism. But the real hero of this picture would seem to be the poor devil who had been receiving a rente of 100 francs from the King, and wants to know who is going to pay it now. All through the Revolution, he is looking for someone to pay him his 100 francs. There is lots of liberty but no cash!

Much realism and some fine photography make this picture worth while, especially to the student of mob psychology and revolutionary technique.

Plays, Players, By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Smiling Faces" will be on the Alvin stage next week as a play and it is also safe to assume that there will be some of the same kind of prizes in the audience since the star will be that fine comedian Fred Stone. If Fred can't make you grin you need an operation. With him will be his daughter Paula and a lotta others, including Lotti Loder, who is the prima donna. "Smiling Faces" is musical of course. Seat-buys by Thursday.

The revolving stage employed in "The Band Wagon" revue in the Nixon for the week is one of two the company uses. This has to be set up on Saturday and Sunday before the show opens. As the one here will be in use next Saturday night its duplicate will be set up in Detroit, while that on the Nixon stage will be sent to Chicago, where the revue will be after the Detroit engagement.

Smith Not Eliminated As Candidate Here

By MARK SHIELDS

Only a direct order from Al Smith will prevent the name of the former New York Governor being on the Democratic primary ballot in Pennsylvania as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

Mark Shields

The second statement of former Gov. Smith, issued late yesterday afternoon, does not eliminate him. The most recent Democratic candidate, despite his great show of heat at the way his first statement was interpreted, did no more than declare he had not made himself a candidate.

But it is noticeable that Mr. Smith did not order his friends not to enter his name on primary ballots, and he did not rescind his first statement that if the national convention demanded it, he would run for President.

It is improbable Smith wants to be a candidate. It is beyond reason that he believes he can be elected. But he wishes to have some say about who is the nominee, and no more.

* * *

Garner's Position Advanced Materially

Certainly the manner in which his statement was received in Pittsburgh and throughout Pennsylvania was all he could have desired, if he was aiming at arousing discussion. Little else was talked of among Democrats yesterday and today, and Republicans also gave much attention to the New Yorker's exposition of his attitude. Among the latter it was agreed that Smith would be the one man President Hoover can surely beat.

The position of Speaker John Garner, of Texas, was advanced materially. The Smith statement may serve to arouse the South, already well solidified against the last standard bearer. This determination to sidetrack Smith may become manifest through centering on Garner.

More likely, the result will be an unprecedented number of favorite sons at the convention, men whose delegates have no hope of success but who will be held together through several ballots to wait for a break, then switch to the aspirant whose total is rising.

* * *

With Smith's Entry Situation Clears

There will also be shoals of uninstructed delegates. That is the apparent result in Pennsylvania. Where, with Roosevelt the only man on the ballot here having a chance to get a popular primary vote, uninstructed delegates would have found their path more difficult, now, with Smith an entry, the situation for them clears.

The forces of State Chairman John Collins and National Committeeman Sedgwick Kistler are boldly against instructions for Roosevelt. They welcomed the entry of Smith, not so much because they wish him as the candidate, but because they now have a greater argument in favor of brushing aside instructions. They can explain that with the two New Yorkers in the Pennsylvania field the sensible plan is to pick delegates bound by no previous choice. They and some Pittsburghers only needed this encouragement to redouble their energies for the election of uncontrolled delegates.

This is all to the advantage of Garner, or two or three other possible nominees. It is not helpful to Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland. Perhaps Ritchie would be the most popular Democratic candidate in a general election in Pennsylvania. Democrats would vote for him, his anti-prohibition stand suits the wet city sections, and his ultra-conservative attitude toward power development and control and non-interference of government in business would attract the same elements here which voted for John Hemphill for Governor, and which do not want Hoover if there is a safe alternative.

But Ritchie with that program would not do in other states where there is a chance for Democratic success, as there is not in Pennsylvania, even this year.

* * *

Intentionally or Not, Smith Opens Field

Whether he has meant to do so or not, Smith has thrown the field open. Though it may not have been his intention, he has given tremendous impetus to the "stop Roosevelt" movement. Further, he has encouraged the promotion of other men who were only slowly getting their drives under way.

In this section remark has been made about the manner in which the Garner sentiment has found lodgment in the North. Metropolitan newspapers and national periodicals have commented on the ability of Garner, and his availability as a rallying point for the Roosevelt opposition. This comment was afloat prior to the Smith statement. Now it will be increased.

The southern delegates, where there has been some Roosevelt sentiment, but where a boom for a fellow-southerner could be more easily pushed should there be chance for success, now can see things in a different light. They will note that the North will send more uninstructed delegates than had been thought probable before the Smith statement, and that there may even be some Smith delegates whose real purpose will be to hold themselves in reserve for a break at the convention.

Mark Shields will talk on political developments over WCAE Thursday evening.

County Muzzles Employes on Giving Out News

COUNCIL AID URGED IN UTILITY RATE CUT FIGHT

BARR FAVORS DISCHARGE OF TALKERS

McGovern Official Spokesman After Vickerman Quiz of Workers' Politics Is Bared

Commissioner Charles C. McGovern is to be the official spokesman for the Board of County Commissioners and only heads of departments will be permitted to talk to newspapermen, according to the plans of Commissioner C. M. Barr, expressed yesterday in an interview.

Barr gave his opinion of how news should be handled after it was disclosed that Director John W. Vickerman, of the Elections Bureau, had sent out a questionnaire to all employes of his department asking among other things their political sponsorship and organization membership.

APPLICANTS LISTED

Barr at first said that no such questionnaire had been sent out. When shown one he said it had been sent by Vickerman without knowledge of the commissioners. Barr said:

"I knew nothing about this. I don't see the purpose of such a questionnaire. We have all that information that is necessary from the applicants for jobs."

He then showed reporters a book in which applicants are listed by wards, boroughs and townships.

Vickerman last night said that the reason he sent out the questionnaire was:

"I simply wanted to find out each man's qualifications for the job. I asked about their political connections and membership in organizations to find out how well they are acquainted so that they can get the proper places to demonstrate voting machines in. These are the only reasons I sent out the questionnaire. There is nothing political about the thing."

JOBS THREATENED

During the interview Barr was asked if he had issued orders for county employes not to discuss county business with newspapermen. Barr said:

"I think public business should be conducted just like well ordered private business. Only department heads should be permitted to talk to newspapermen. Commissioner McGovern should be the spokesman for the Board of Commissioners. What would you think of it if anybody could go anywhere in your business and ask questions from clerks and employes? I would fire any man that gave out any information about the county's business unless he was authorized to do so."

$5 Peddlers' Fee Asked in Sewickley

A resolution asking Council to enact an ordinance raising peddlers' license fees in the borough from 50 cents to $5 was presented by the Sewickley Board of Trade last night.

The resolution, which does not apply to those holding Allegheny County mercantile license or hucksters who raise their own products, will be voted upon by Council at the next meeting.

Man Hit by Auto Dies in Hospital

James Cunningham, 65, of 6 Pernod street, died in Allegheny General Hospital today of a fractured skull received Sunday at Ridge and Allegheny avenues, where he was struck by an auto. The driver, H. F. Hallett, of 324 Forest avenue, Ben Avon, was to be turned over to the Coroner.

ABOARD S. S. EUROPA, Feb. 9.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I went clear around the world to keep from coming back across that Pacific and here this ocean is worse than that was. We are pulling in a day late—even the oceans have depressions. If this boat don't hurry up and get in I will be too late to vote for Al. I always kinder thought he was coming out—Well when you get 16,000,000 votes it does kinder lead a man to think he has some license to believe that he is not just some outsider butting in. Yours, WILL.

E. Pittsburgh Navy Man in Shanghai Zone

GEORGE W. BRUNNER

Veteran Sailor In Center of China Strife

When the U. S. S. Parrot steamed into the harbor of war-torn Shanghai it carried as one of its crew George W. Brunner, of East Pittsburgh, serving his third enlistment in Uncle Sam's Navy.

Brunner's first visit to China was in 1929 as a member of the crew of the U. S. S. Denver. Later he served on the airplane carrier Saratoga. When he enlisted the third time he was assigned to the Parrot.

Some time ago he returned to Pittsburgh on furlough and told his friends he intended staying in the Navy until retired.

Patrolman, Woman Injured by Auto

Patrolman Michael Journek, the traffic officer at Sixth and Liberty avenues, who was injured yesterday by an automobile driven by William S. Giles, 44, of 4911 Gertrude street, was reported recovering today.

According to a police report, the machine struck the officer and Mrs. R. L. Anderson, 30, of Haysville, who was crossing the street. Both were removed to Allegheny General Hospital. Giles was arrested.

RELIEF NEEDS SURPASS BUDGET

Welfare Leader Visions Deficit of $3,159,000; No Plans Formulated

First definite estimate of funds the Welfare Fund and the Allegheny County Emergency Association will need to provide relief for Allegheny County in 1932 came today when W. F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the Welfare Fund, calculated expenditures at $9,140,000 for 1932, more than $3,159,000 above the budgeted $5,981,184 for the year.

The new estimate was made, Maxwell said, on the basis of Welfare Fund agencies' increased budgets for the first quarter of the year amounting to $170,000 and on the Emergency Association's $400,000 request for January.

DEFICITS FACED

Only organizations included in the welfare fund drive last November are included in the estimate. The County Poor Board, recently forced to borrow $600,000 to carry it through until July, when it will realize on doubled millage, the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, the Salvation Army and many other organizations also face increased expenditures.

He said:

"We already are in a deficit situation. No plan has been evolved for raising additional funds, as yet. That, of course, is the purpose of the joint committee representing the Welfare Fund and the Emergency Association, now working."

The Allegheny County Emergency Association was shown, Saturday, to have disposed of $1,660,045 of its $3,000,000 between November 2 and January 31. This, it develops, involved about $600,000 appropriated and encumbered, but actually unspent. Actual expenditures, according to Maxwell, were approximately $1,079,000.

of $400,000, the association's needs for this year, in addition to cash already pledged or on hand, will run to $2,479,000.

STEEL COMPANY DONOR

Maxwell announced yesterday that an anonymous subscriber of a conditional $50,000 to the fund was the United States Steel Corporation.

The same firm gave $100,000 previously, he said, raising its total to $150,000 in this district. The firm is also understood to have conducted large scale welfare efforts among its employes. The contribution is one of three largest subscriptions.

Actual receipt of the gift was assured by action of the County Commissioners in appropriating $500,000 for use by the Emergency Association, releasing large gifts made conditional upon raising of like amounts.

ENVOY TO PROBE WILKINSBURG MAN'S DEATH

Family Charges Poison Killed Visitor in Rumania and Plotters Also Slew Mother

The United States Minister at Bucharest, Rumania, is to be asked to investigate a report that Steve Lazar, Sr., former Wilkinsburg resident, was murdered in a mysterious plot while visiting in Rumania, according to word received here today.

Congressman Clyde Kelly, of Edgewood, announced he had asked Minister Wilson in Bucharest to have the body of Lazar who died March 22, 1931, exhumed and an autopsy performed.

Lazar's death was attributed officially, at the time, to heart disease, but members of the family declared he was poisoned in a mysterious plot against the family.

Lazar's mother, whom he had been visiting, died three months ago. Congressman Kelly was told by Lazar's wife and his son, Steve, Jr., that the mother was slain because of her knowledge pertaining to her son's death.

League Meets For No Reason, Quits Same Way

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

The League of Nations usually adjourns without a reason.

This time they've met without one.

France admits it is afraid of Germany. Read Andre Tardieu's speech at Geneva. It doesn't say much, but it's burning between the lines like overdone toast on a wire-griddle.

Germany is afraid of Russia, which is that way about Japan.

Sir John Simon says a big army and navy is no pledge of security.

On the other hand, Mahatma Gandhi hasn't got a boat or a soldier. He's in a tough fix, too.

We've got more important news at home. Al Smith thinks he is entitled to as many cracks at the nomination as William Jennings Bryan.

ELKS CLUB BAR RAIDED BY DRYS

A 30-foot bar on the second floor of No. 11 Elks Club building, Duquesne way and Seventh street, was raided by federal prohibition agents.

The club is a favorite downtown resort of public officials, court officers and business leaders, whose names appear on the club roster.

Search of the building was started shortly before midnight when the agents seized three barrels of beer that were being unloaded in Duquesne way, they said. The driver of the automobile escaped. Both auto and beer were seized, the agents said.

At the bar and lunchroom the agents said they arrested William L. Jones and Armand Magrin.

A barrel of beer was on tap, and according to the raiders, whisky and Canadian ale were also found and confiscated.

$4,000 More Granted Mine Fire Fighters

An additional emergency ordinance providing $4,000 for extinguishing a mine fire on the McShane property, at the Crafton Borough line, has been passed by Council today.

Nearly $50,000 has already been spent on the fire, Council was told, but the additional amount was necessary for the complete confinement of the flames. Chief Engineer T. M. Reed said he thought $4,000 would defray all additional costs in putting out the blaze. Crafton has contributed approximately $11,000 to the job, Council was told.

ASKS NEW HOME FOR DESTITUTE

Nearly 500 jobless and destitute men will be given shelter if Council today grants a request for $5,460 asked by Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the City Department of Public Welfare, for maintenance of the Friendly Inn, at 1112 Forbes street.

The appropriation was suggested by the Federation of Social Agencies, Wabash Building, Mrs. Rauh said.

Plans had been made first to house the men in a barn near the Kline infirmary at Mayview, Mrs. Rauh pointed out, but a survey disclosed that only 100 could be accommodated in this manner.

Other charitable institutions throughout the city, including the Helping Hand and the Improvement of the Poor, are crowded, she said.

Mrs. Rauh said:

"The Friendly Inn would serve the poor and destitute men admirably. It could be fixed for $5,460 and homeless men would be assured of warm beds."

Bus Firm Petitions For Service Change

The Penn Bus Company has asked the Public Service Commission for permission to abandon the Federal-Pittsburgh line and substitute a Federal-Carnegie service, connecting at the latter point with the main line to Pittsburgh. Temporary discontinuance of the McDonald-Canonsburg line also was sought.

ACTION TAKEN AT BROOKLINE MEETING

Speaker Refutes Charge Politics Prompt Efforts; Two Other Rallies Held

BULLETIN.

City Council today discussed the feasibility of instituting a fair rate test case before the Public Service Commission on gas and electric rates now charged in Pittsburgh.

Councilman Charles Anderson started the movement in Council's finance committee by inquiring of City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt how much such a case would cost.

The Solicitor answered:

"About $60,000."

After considerable discussion, the matter was taken under advisement while Waldschmidt prepares definite figures.

Pittsburgh City Council is urged to join with other municipalities in the fight for a reduction in public utility rates in a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Brookline Board of Trade last night. Two other meetings were held, in Carrick and Sewickley, to urge civic bodies to affiliate with the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association recently formed in Tarentum.

Following the Brookline action, Harry Bastow, president of the Allied Boards of Trade, called a meeting of his directors for tomorrow afternoon to consider giving support to the resolution.

Three other boards of trade, Twenty-seventh Ward, North Side and Overbrook, also announced meetings tonight to vote on the Brookline resolution and affiliation with the Fair Rate Association. Bellevue Board of Trade and West View Council also will meet tonight to decide whether to join forces with the association.

POLITICS CHARGED

At the Brookline meeting Senator Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., attempted to discredit the Fair Rate bods as being a political organization. C. V. Shoup, secretary of the Allied Board of Trade, informed the Senator that so far as he knew there were no members of the association who were candidates for public office.

The Forty-fifth Senatorial Association, which consists of cities, boroughs and townships south of the Monongahela River, held its initial meeting in Carrick High School with more than 100 in attendance. Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, burgess of McKees Rocks, and a state representative, was the principal speaker. This organization is making efforts to have the communities join with the fair rate association, organized to fight for lower and fairer rates for light, heat, power, water, telephone, transportation and other public service.

O. W. Haselbarth, of Carrick, chairman, described the work done by the association and declared the only way to obtain relief from the high rate is through the ballots at the primary in April.

"The people are being gouged by unfair charges. The utilities have a right to make a profit, but business has no right to ruin its people. Put in the Legislature men to serve the people and not the monopolies."

OTHER MEETINGS SLATED

Other speakers were Dr. E. D. Craig, member of the Greentree Council; H. W. Crider, president of Munhall Council, and A. P. Rogers, president of the Brentwood Voters' League.

Mr. Haselbarth explained the aims of the association, and said mass meetings will be held throughout the county until the primaries.

One hundred persons attended a meeting of the Sewickley Valley Board of Trade in the Sewickley Borough Building. Speakers were President Bastow and Secretary Shoup. Bastow cited in his speech the futility of accomplishing any favorable action from the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission in the board's fight for lower bus rates.

Washington Forecast High Land Values in This Area

George Washington's life and death, of especial interest this month because of the bicentennial anniversary of his birth, are vividly pictured in copies of two old newspapers owned by Pittsburgh men.

These vivid word pictures are in keeping with the seven Washington souvenirs, which the Sunday Sun-Telegraph is distributing through the American Weekly, beginning next Sunday and continuing for seven issues. These include Washington's immortal farewell address and six famous Washington paintings.

An insight into Washington's business life is given in an advertisement in which he predicted the land in the vicinity of Pittsburgh some day would be among the most valuable. Appearing in the "Maryland and Baltimore Journal, the Advertiser" of August 20, 1773, the notice read in part:

"The subscriber having obtained patents for upwards of 20,000 acres of land on the Ohio and Great Kanawha, proposes to divide the same . . . From every part of these lands water carriage is now had to Fort Pitt by an easy communication . . ."

Gregory Engle, 2760 Sumner street, South Side, has a copy of the "Ulster County Gazette," of New York, containing a notice of Washington's death, dated January 4, 1800. The notice, in the form of a poem, concludes:

"Rejoicing angels, hail the heavenly sage!
Celestial spirits, greet the wonder of the age!"

Begins 8-Year Term For Stealing $6

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Feb. 9.—George Warzinski, former member of the Flathead gang, who served eight years in Western Penitentiary for participation in the Imperial Bank robbery, today began an eight-year sentence for a $6 theft. He was convicted of robbing John Miller, of Weirton.

LEWIS DEFENDS CHEAP ROAD BUILDING

Highway Secretary Says Low Cost Construction Means More to Farmer

Farmers can be taken out of the mud more effectively by building high mileage, low cost pavement than small mileage, high cost roads, according to Samuel S. Lewis, Secretary of Highways, addressing the seventh annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors meeting at the William Penn Hotel.

Strong differences of opinion exist regarding the township roads selected by the state for improvement. The roads, chosen, Lewis declared, were those which could be constructed with the limited amount of money available and give employment to the greatest number of men.

20,000 MILES ASSUMED

The state is taking over 20,000 miles of township roads and since Jan. 1 884 miles of these roads have been improved.

R. S. Blackwood of Beaver Falls, Pa., president of the association, declared himself in favor of Gov. Pinchot's highway program which includes the improvement of main county roads by use of the gasoline tax fund.

Blackwood declared that powerful interests are at work antagonistic to getting the rural districts of the state out of the mud. The cement and machinery interests are seeking to have the state return to building little else but reinforced concrete roads he asserted.

STANDARD TYPE

A decision by the convention on a standard type of construction and its recommendation to the administration was suggested by Blackwood. It is believed that the controversy over the rural road construction will be one of the high spots of the convention.

The convention opened with 185 supervisors in attendance. All counties in the state with the exception of Philadelphia are represented.

Lewis is to hear talks by B. C. Eynon, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, and Samuel S. Lewis, Secretary of Highways.

Bishop's Brother, Rt. Rev. Mann Dies

The Rt. Rev. Cameron Mann, bishop of the South Florida diocese of the Episcopal Church and brother of the Rt. Rev. Alexander Mann, bishop of Pittsburgh, died last night at his home in Winter Park, Fla., according to word received here today. He was 80 years of age.

Bishop Mann left Pittsburgh yesterday for his brother's bedside. The health of his brother had been failing for some time.

One Suspect Held, Two Others Fined

Three men arrested while loitering near the Mt. Oliver Coal and Supply Company in Saw Mill Run boulevard yesterday were arraigned in South Side Police Court this morning. Robert Wright, 23, of Masontown, was held for court and his two companions, Charles Wangman, 24, of Masontown, and Thomas Callahan, 23, of Dunbar, each was sentenced to pay $50 or spend 60 days in the workhouse.

COUNCIL STRIFE STIRS PORT VUE

Burgess C. J. Brown of Port Vue said today he would petition court for a Councilman-at-large to break the deadlock existing in the present borough Council.

Last night's Council meeting broke up in disagreement and disorder after J. C. Taylor had read a legal opinion ruling Joseph Sucha, another member, ineligible because he had at one time been elected Justice of the Peace.

Councilmen John Howard, Charles Deric and Taylor moved that Sucha vacate the office and that M. J. Goffus be elected. Sucha refused, declaring he would not vacate until he was forced by a court order.

When Chairman George O'Beuk refused to act the meeting broke up. Burgess Brown pointed out that Council is composed of six members. A Councilman-at-large, he said, would break the deadlock.

STORE HONORS RETIRING HEAD

Heads of Frank & Seder department store gave a dinner in the William Penn Hotel last night to M. N. Schaffer, retiring merchandise manager of the downstairs store. He was presented with a desk set.

Speakers included Bert M. Sarazan, advertising manager, who was toastmaster; Charles H. Joseph, publicity director; M. H. Weisburn, general manager of the store, and Jerome Seder, Mr. Schaffer's successor.

Tonight, in the William Penn's Pirate Hall, 1,200 members of the store's Employes Association are expected to attend a cabaret dance. The committee is R. C. Solomon, chairman; Joseph Levine, Helen R. MacWilliams, Meyer Lerman and Joseph J. Bronda.

WOMAN OF 100 HELD UP

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A 100-year-old woman who faced a pistol while five youths robbed her of $140 is to tell her story to the police today.

Mrs. Anna Ackerman, who is proud of the fact that she does her own housework on her farm at Whitney, will face the youths in Alderman Dan Dunmire's court.

The robbery occurred Sunday. Mrs. Ackerman was sitting in her home when five men came in and while one covered her with the pistol, the others ransacked closets and dresser drawers. One of the men found the money. Then they left.

The five suspects taken into custody by state police are George Mucnak, John Adamkiewicz, Leo Cornelius, John Povlok and Richard McCracken.

Police said the men purchased clothing and other merchandise in large quantities, and this aroused the suspicions of the merchants.

INSURANCE CLUB FETES LEADERS

Executives of 31 leading insurance companies were honored last night in the William Penn Hotel at a dinner and dance of the Insurance Club of Pittsburgh.

Among the speakers who stressed the importance of maintaining the insurance business on a high standard were Charles F. Armstrong, the Pennsylvania insurance commissioner, and George S. VanSchaick, state superintendent in New York. Other speakers were Holgar J. Johnson, president of the Pennsylvania State Association of Life Underwriters, and William B. Calhoun, president of the National Association of Insurance Agents.

F. J. Schofield, vice president of the Globe Indemnity Company, toastmaster, was introduced by Paul C. McKnight, president of the Insurance Club. Charles H. Bokman, the retiring president, was presented with a clock.

The Democratic convention will call upon as a leader Franklin D. Roosevelt, according to Supt. Van Schaick, who today declared he would make a great President. He said:

"Gov. Roosevelt is the most indefatigable worker I ever have seen. The New York governorship is a most strenuous position. At the close of the day, after hours of exacting toil, Gov. Roosevelt is fresh and buoyant when many of those working with him are exhausted."

Husband's Ghostly Antics Lead to Divorce Suit

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. August Clasen, of Long Lake, wants to get away from the "spooks" and "spirits" that have been annoying her for 15 years.

A "ghost" she testified in District Court yesterday, used to travel back and forth across her bedroom window at night, but she found out in time that it was only the family's white dog, in the hands of her husband, August, from whom she asked a divorce.

She also testified that "spirits" were created by her husband's tapping on the bedroom wall. He would question them, she said, and answer himself with knocks.

Eight Firemen Hurt As Trucks Collide

HARRISBURG, Feb. 9.—(INS)—Eight firemen were suffering from injuries today and two of them were in serious condition as a result of a collision of two speeding fire trucks.

HUNT GUNMEN IN HOLDUP

Police today are searching for the gunmen who yesterday held up Sam Weltman, a messenger, as he entered the Fifth Avenue Bank of Pittsburgh and robbed him of $400.

Weltman was taking the money from Mack's meat market, 2441 Wylie avenue, to the bank for deposit. The robbers escaped in an automobile.

Four shots failed to stop an unidentified Negro who last night was surprised by Patrolman William Hanley as he attempted to loot an automobile at Watson and Stevenson streets. The officer said he believed one of his shots was effective. The suspect disappeared in Stevenson street.

The Brookline branch of Carnegie Library was entered by thieves yesterday who stole $12 from a desk drawer, according to a police report.

TEACHERS' PAY CUT AWAITS RULING

North Versailles Board Delays Final Acceptance Of 'Voluntary' Rebate

Latest development in Allegheny County's teachers' salary controversy today was the announcement by C. E. Dickey, County Superintendent of Schools, that North Versailles' School Board has decided to postpone final acceptance of a "voluntary" salary rebate "offered" by 15 teachers at the board's request.

This decision, Dickey explained, was made after Dr. James N. Rule, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, had referred the action of Homestead and North Versailles school districts, in accepting rebates, to the Attorney General for a ruling as to its effect on the granting of state aid to the districts.

IS UP TO STATE

All responsibility for action against the teachers' move was placed with the state superintendent by Dickey who said:

"I have no authority to act in this question. I cannot penalize them for their action. It remains for the State Superintendent of Instruction to take whatever action he sees fit, after he has received a ruling from the Attorney General to whom he referred the question last week.

Mr. Dickey, who has no authority in Homestead which is an independent school district, continued:

"There is the Edmonds act which requires third class districts to pay a certain minimum salary to teachers. Of course, I cannot indorse any violation of that law. But it remains to be seen whether the teachers' action is in violation of it.

"For districts unable to meet their expenses there is a $1,500,000 revolving fund appropriated by the state Legislature to the State Council of Education. This may be able to help poor districts."

RUMORS DENIED

In spite of rumors of other school districts in the county taking action similar to North Versailles and Homestead, no report of such action has been received by Mr. Dickey, he said today.

Wage cutting will be discussed at two principals' meeting this week. The organizations, which will consider the action in Homestead and North Versailles, are the Principals' Round Table of the districts under Dickey's jurisdiction, and the Independent District Superintendents' Association.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

You Must Stay Interesting To Keep Hubby at Home

Why do husbands leave home?

Why do they want to go out and play around with The Boys instead of listening to the Little Woman tell about how the butcher sent her a tough steak . . . or the neighbor next door made a snoot at her over the back fence?

That's what Freda would like to know. As things stand now she simply can't figure it out.

"Time was," she sobs, "when he was just as interested in our home as I was. I could tell him all about all my bills and problems. But now, he just shouts . . . and dashes off. Do you think he really loves me?"

Does he? You tell her, Clara.

HUBBY GOES OUT

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I am so unhappy! I know that things are not going right with my marriage and I wish you would help me. I simply can't understand what's wrong myself.

"We have been married three years, and my husband is generous. He brings me his pay check every week and doesn't spend much himself. He is good to me in every way, too.

"But he leaves me alone about four nights a week to go and play cards with some of his men friends. And that hurts me terribly. If it were just once in a while, I wouldn't mind, but I just can't stand it when he goes so often.

"Married people, it seems to me, should want to be together as much as they possibly can—that is if they really love each other the way they should. I know I look forward to the evening every day, so that we can be together . . . and then he eats and goes out.

"He used to be interested in everything about our home. Just as interested as I. I could tell him all about my problems and my bills, and we could talk everything over every night. But now, when I mention them, he just scowls, says he works hard all day, and doesn't want to listen to my troubles. It just breaks my heart.

IS DESPERATE

"When we were married I gave up all my girl friends. They don't interest me any more. I am so in love with Bill that I just want to live for him. I keep the house spotless, and do everything I can to make him happy. And still he goes out and leaves me. Do you think he loves me—or is he tired of being married?

"Please help me. I am desperate. I thought my marriage was going to be such a beautiful comradeship, and now it seems to be going all to pieces.

"FREDA."

Well, if you wanted your marriage to be a "beautiful comradeship" why don't you make it so, youngster . . . Instead of

SHUT OUT OLD INTERESTS

And that seemed wonderful to Bill. He was fed up on grief down at the office, sick of the monotonous round of things. You filled life with new sparkle.

Then you married. And shut out all your old friends and your old interests—because you loved him so.

But these old friends and old interests were part of the you that Bill loved. They were one of the reasons why Bill married you. And in reducing your life to a drab monotonous round of household bills and bleats, you have robbed Bill of the thing he wanted most. That gay, carefree happiness which he thought he had found in you.

Get interesting again, honey, and Bill will be interested. Snap out of this domestic slump before it is too late. Hunt up the old friends and the old interests. Take the moan out of matrimony, and Bill will want to stick around.

Household Hints

A tiny feather pulled back and forth between the prongs or setting of the diamond rings will clean the back of the ring nicely and cause the stone to shine more clearly.

Yes, it is time to get at the cut glass and crystal housecleaning is again upon us. Use a little borax and very little soap in the wash water and a little bluing in the rinse water. The glass will fairly radiate.

When serving one or two courses before the main course and the mashed potatoes must be held up for a while, place a pan of boiling water on the simmerer and into this put the pan containing the potatoes, keeping a lid on the pan.

Fay King Regrets the Passing of Old-Time Period of Artistic Sewing

By FAY KING

To me sewing is one of the fine arts.

Especially in those days when everything was so perfectly fitted to figures that were not flat as paper dolls.

I love to look at an old book I have on dressmaking which tells in detail of all the fancy stitches and accomplishments of the trained needle of that day.

Everything was so beautifully finished on the underside. Today expensive dresses are left raw and raveling on the wrong side.

What we call "sewing" today was only "tacking" and "basting" then.

Then patterns were in a dozen parts, all coded with notches and holes. They could not only read and understand them, but alter and adjust them to suit.

They didn't miss bridge or crossword puzzles!

Veritzen Praises Madge's Play

"I cannot understand," Philip Veritzen said meditatively, "where you get your conception of this clown, Vickers. Your other characters are flesh and blood, but this fellow can be safely worshiped according to the old Biblical rule for he is like nothing that is in Heaven above, or the earth beneath, or the water under the earth."

His lips curved in a whimsical grin which softened somewhat the harsh criticism which he had just made. I felt like hysterical laughter myself at the fantastic irony of what he had just said. Dicky had objected to the character because he had recognized, as I had, that I subconsciously had made Vickers a caricature of himself. And Philip Veritzen had said that the character resembled no one in the world.

I told myself that with a faint light glimmering through my depression, the great producer had not comprehended my unconscious caricature of Dicky. That would have been something I could not have endured, although I really had not counted the risk of recognition by Mr. Veritzen very great. He did not know Dicky sufficiently well to see the likeness which I knew any intimate of Dicky's could not help recognizing. True, Lillian had typed the entire third act from my dictation without seeing that I had unconsciously caricatured my husband; but I knew that while she had been able to appraise the thing as a whole, she had been too absorbed in the mere mechanics of the typing to analyze the traits of the characters. With a paean of thankfulness that I had been spared the humiliation of having Lillian recognize what I had done, I grimly resolved that even if it cost me another night's labor, I would rewrite the act, leaving out Vickers, before Lillian should see it again.

My whole mental tempo should have been one of joyous relief at the fortunate outcome which had released me from the burden of the character so offensive to Dicky. But though I really was thankful I had been spared the unpleasant task of telling Philip Veritzen that Vickers must be eliminated, I could not help feeling an innocent pique that a character which I had drawn should be so unceremoniously dropped.

I had something more serious to consider, however, and with my pique smothered by real anxiety, I faced the fact that as yet Philip Veritzen had said no word of approval of my third act. He had listened attentively while I read it, but his only comment had been caustic disapproval of the character Vickers.

"Tell me," he said after a long pause during which his fingers had beaten a tattoo upon the arm of his chair, "what is your attitude toward this play? Is it so dear to you that you will resent, consciously or otherwise, any changes made in it?"

Then he was not altogether displeased with my work! My spirits leaped, but I was careful to keep my voice strictly matter-of-fact as I answered.

"I cannot tell you about the 'otherwise,'" I said smiling, "but I can promise you that consciously I not only shall expect to make many changes, but shall welcome any criticism. I am not a 'temperamental author,' and I haven't any illusions about this play. It is a piece of work which I have been given to do. I want to do the very best job possible."

"Bravo!" Mr. Veritzen applauded softly. "That is the spirit I like. Frankly, there was something in your face when I expressed my opinion of the character, Vickers, which made me wonder if I had another 'artiste' on my hands. Man and boy, I've suffered from quite a succession of them, both writers and players, and I know most of the signs. I'm exceedingly glad to tell you now, what I would not have said until I understood your attitude, that your third act fulfills the promise of the first two. There is no sense of letdown, with the exception of Vickers—and I really believe that you must have been in the throes of a nightmare when you depicted him."

"I don't know about that," I said demurely, "but I agree with you that the character is most undesirable and I shall be very glad to eliminate him from the play."

Mr. Veritzen took out his eyeglasses, wiped them, adjusted them to his nose again and then putting the tips of his fingers together, alternately opened and closed his hands as he stared off into space. It was a gesture familiar to me and I knew that he was mentally debating some point, the decision of which would be announced later. At last he dropped his hands upon the arms of the chair again and spoke slowly.

"I do not think we need eliminate him altogether," he said. "He has points. I should like to see what you can do in reconstructing him. The rest of the act can stand as it is. I don't mind telling you that it is as pretty a piece of craftsmanship as I have seen in a long time. Pulling Vickers out of it entirely would entail a reconstruction which might spoil it. But it ought to be possible for you to modify the character without much trouble."

"You won't know him when you see him again," I promised with a smile. Indeed, I felt like laughing aloud with sheer joy at the encomium which he had given my third act.

"When will that be?" he countered quickly.

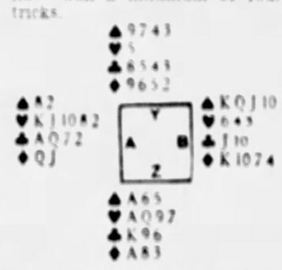
OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Was the Declaration Unfortunate?

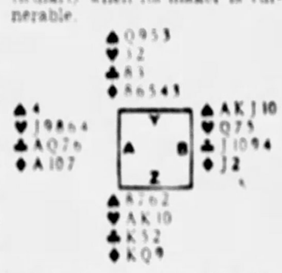
Kibitzers, partners and sometimes opponents hastily comment upon results. Constructive criticism should be welcome, but even that had best be given after the momentary annoyance of a bid gone wrong has subdued.

There can be no doubt that Z's hand, as shown below, obligated an opening bid of some kind. He played the hand at a declaration of 1-heart. All that he won were the three tricks taken by his aces. A good many players advocate an opening bid of 1-no trump, rather than a suit bid, when the 4-3-3-3 distribution is held. It really would have made little difference to Z whether the make was no-trumps or hearts, at either declaration he should have won a minimum of four tricks.



Doubtless, A could have gone game had he bid no-trumps. Probably Z's heart declaration pleased A too well to risk changing it. Although Z went down 200 points, his bid prevented opponents scoring considerably more. Instead of being an unfortunate bid, it was a fortunate one.

The hand below plainly illustrates how severely a perfectly sound bid can be punished, particularly when its maker is vulnerable.



Z made an opening bid of 1-no trump. A doubled, and his partner let the double stand. Y was a stranger to the declarer, on which account he dared not risk a redouble conveying an S. O. S. request that his partner bid his best suit. In case Y misread the redouble and let it stand, Z might be frightfully plucked, so the final declaration was 1-no trump.

The opening lead was A's 6 of hearts; B played his Q and forced a higher heart from Z. Thinking that A's double showed at least the A-K of spades, Z led a low spade and lost dummy's Q. Back came a heart from B. Z's 10 was taken by A's J, and a clearing heart was returned. Z won the trick, which was his second and last. He led another low spade, and B garnered three tricks in the suit. A discarded a club and two diamonds—the last two discards being in ascending order, 7 and 10, so that B would lead him a club.

B led his J of clubs through Z, followed by his 10. A overtook the 10 with his Q. Then he laid down two good hearts, followed by his aces of clubs and diamonds. Being down five tricks vulnerable cost Z just 1,800 points.

Goes three times as far—
Gives quicker relief from colds!

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as any other leading mouth wash. Hence it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

THE next time you get a large bottle of Pepsodent Antiseptic put $2 in the bank. Figure it this way. There are really only two kinds of leading mouth antiseptics. One must be used full strength to be effective. But the other—Pepsodent Antiseptic—is powerful enough to be diluted and yet still be effective. Pepsodent Antiseptic is three times more powerful than other leading mouth washes . . . by adding water you make it go three times as far—get three times as much for your money and extra protection against sore throat colds. Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe if used full strength, yet when diluted with two parts of water it kills germs within 10 seconds. Don't fool yourself by diluting old-type antiseptics and failing to kill germs. Your health is too important—consider also the importance of a pure, sweet breath. Choose the antiseptic that kills the germs even when diluted. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic and be sure! Be safe—and save money! When you buy your third bottle of Pepsodent Antiseptic, you have saved at least six dollars. It pays to remember!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds proves its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

Engagement Ring

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one goes to an engagement party, is it necessary for a guest to bring a gift to the girl who is becoming engaged?—ETHEL.

No, not unless you wish to. Engagement presents are not very often given except by close friends and relatives of the girls. And usually they give her something personal, or something to add to the contents of the hope chest.

Wedding Announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to be married soon and I would like some advice for the occasion.

1. My parents live in another state and have met a few of my friends here, where I am living with a married sister. Who should send out the wedding announcements?

2. I am only having my fiance's parents and my sister and brother-in-law at the church. Should my fiance call for me or should I meet him at the church?

3. I have a formal dress with a short jacket. If I wear a hat should I wear the jacket? H.

1. Even under these circumstances, the announcement should be sent out in the name of your parents.

2. Your fiance should not call for you. It is best form to meet him at the church.

3. This is as you wish . . . but short jackets are very fashionable this year, and I think that, if I were you, I should be inclined to wear it.

Real Colitis Cases Not as Frequent as Believed

Not so long ago the word "colitis" was used by many persons without understanding its meaning. Whenever the symptoms of some intestinal disorder were vague and uncertain the term colitis was used to describe it. Just as happened in the early days of appendicitis, colitis became a fad.

Dr. Copeland

I do not mean to say there is no such thing as colitis, nor do I deny that many suffer from this ailment; but I do wish to warn you that real colitis is not common.

This inflammation is caused by an infection. Many bacteria normally invade the colon and other parts of the large intestine. If for any reason there is a lowering in the resistance of the walls of the intestine, germs will enter and infection take place.

In colitis, usually spoken of as "mucus colitis," the victim becomes alarmed over the mucus stools. The attacks may come on in paroxysms, and often the pain is severe and colicky in nature.

Worry, emotional excitement or faulty diet may bring on an attack. Constipation is a frequent factor. As a rule however, there is severe diarrhea.

In treating this condition, drugs are of little value. The most important thing is attention to the diet. The food should be of a type to leave a large residue in the intestine. I refer to diet that contains a great deal of roughage. It is best that the diet be a meatless one for a short while, and particularly without much animal fat.

In addition to regulation of the diet, the colon should be cleansed daily by hot or warm irrigations. The temperature of the water should be between 110 and 115 degrees. Enough of the fluid should be used to thoroughly cleanse the colon.

Colitis is confused with a simple inflammation of the intestine known to doctors as "catarrhal enteritis." In this the chief symptom is diarrhea, and it may be caused by a variety of things.

In children, particularly, the chief cause is the use of improper food. It may follow overeating, or the taking of unripe fruit.

Many suffer from this condition because they are extremely sensitive to certain foods. The food is good, but some peculiarity of the system makes it unwelcome.

Poisons formed by the decomposition of milk and other foods may cause intestinal irritation and severe diarrhea.

A sudden change in the weather may be followed by diarrhea, and disturbances of this kind in children are common during the excessive heat of summer.

The pain in these enteritis cases differs from that in colitis. It is less severe and is not spasmodic. Colitis is usually a chronic affair, and does not subside as quickly as the simple case of diarrhea.

Very often change of diet and surroundings will relieve the trouble. Rest and fresh air may be enough to overcome the vague and discomforting pains of colitis.

WARNS DRIVERS ON CAR PASSING

A warning to motorists against the passing of street cars on the left was given today by Walter Rosenbaum, chairman of the education section of the Better Traffic Committee, in releasing the January report of the Traffic Safety Observers.

Eighty-six violations of this type were noted by the citizen-reporting organization last month in the total of 420.

The majority of violations of passing street cars on the left were on Forbes street in the Squirrel Hill district, on West Carson street and on Lincoln avenue.

CHANGES IN GRID EQUIPMENT LIKELY

INDICATIONS ARE THAT when the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee is held Friday in Hanover, N. H., Pop Warner will be strongly supported in the stand he took some time ago that the increase in grid iron injuries and fatalities had been due largely to changes in equipment worn by the players and that the future interests of the game demanded immediate reforms in that direction. Some action of this sort may be expected at the coming session, it is intimated by William S. Langford, secretary of the committee.

Pop Warner

Langford lets it be known that sports goods manufacturers not only have been invited to a special conference on the subject, but have been advised against manufacturing equipment for the 1932 season until the committee has given such equipment official approval. The conclusion to be drawn from his remarks is that some of the paraphernalia which the players have been wearing is likely to be banned before the next campaign opens.

LANGFORD CONCURS WITH Warner in the opinion that many of the protective devices worn last fall violated regulations which prohibit the use of projecting metal or hard substance on the player's person. The secretary says there has been a gradual drifting away from the rules.

"The effort to lighten the player's apparel has brought in hip, thigh and knee pads, also helmets, which do not conform to the regulations," Langford remarks. "The matter of sole leather headguards was an old issue and was gone into thoroughly some years ago, bringing a definite rule applying to them and to papier-mache devices.

BUT THERE HAS been a tendency to lose sight of the aim of that long-standing regulation. The fiber coverings of the present equipment are not as hard and unyielding as sole leather and not as dangerous to opposing players. They do not belong in the game and never should have been permitted.

"We plan to make a very thorough inspection of football equipment. We have advised sports good manufacturers to await the outcome of our meeting before going ahead with equipment plans for 1932, and have asked them to send representatives to the committee session."

THE OPENING NIGHT will be given over entirely to the equipment issue, Langford says, adding that he feels sure much of the material used last year will be declared illegal and definitely eliminated. The concern of the committee over the problems to be faced is indicated by the fact that Chairman E. K. Hall has asked the members to go to Hanover prepared to remain in session not only over the customary three-day period — Friday, Saturday and Sunday — but through Monday and even later, if necessary. As far as the current playing rules themselves are concerned, Langford says he does not anticipate any marked alteration.

THE LINEUP OF the Brooklyn Dodgers may show Babe Herman, shifted from right to center field and Hack Wilson playing in right, and not the vice versa as has been generally figured. Manager Max Carey makes it known that he has such an arrangement in mind in the event Wilson regains his old batting punch but fails to field up to requirements.

Babe Herman

"If it happens that Hack hits so hard he can't be left out of the batting order," says Manager Max Carey, "but can't field well enough to be valuable in center field, the answer to the problem may lie in Herman. If Babe is much faster than Wilson and gets a better jump on a fly ball than Frank O'Doul, he would seem the logical man to play in center field with Wilson shifted over to right, where I believe he'd do a pretty good job."

FAILURE OF THE promoters to take out rain insurance when the big professional football game between the teams of Camden and Barragar was played in Los Angeles recently put everybody concerned so deep in the red that a two coast jaunt in returns was established for pro players.

The receipts were so light that when the former college stars divided their share of the gate each man dragged down exactly $13.70. And against that there was a week's hotel bill to be paid.

IN PITTSBURGH AND elsewhere throughout the established leagues, it is agreed that professional hockey is a night pastime, though a year ago the Providence Reds experimented with afternoon games and reported fair success. The St. Louis Americans are now departing from the beaten path in an effort to attract customers, and two ventures said to be proving successful are matinees and ladies' night. The special games for feminine fans have struck such a popular chord that on some occasions the St. Louis club has played to more than 14,000 spectators. The matinees also are reported to have drawn well, but evidently the club management is not yet satisfied with conditions, as it is still seeking new ways of building up interest.

THE UNCONDITIONAL RELEASE of Pitcher Waite Hoyt by the A's sends another starting veteran out of the big show to follow Dolf Luque, Rube Bressler, Earl Sheely and the rest. Though only 32, Hoyt has been pitching professionally for 16 years, 13 of them in the majors.

The baseball fates were kind to Hoyt. He was with the Yankees when they won six pennants in eight seasons, and thus he got into six world series, adding his seventh last year with the A's. He pitched for five major league clubs in the Giants, Red Sox, Yankees, Tigers and Athletics. His National League engagement dates back to 1918 and lasted only one inning. The Giants tried to send him to Rochester in the deal for Catcher Earl Smith, but Hoyt refused to go and was sold to New Orleans. Again he refused to report, and New Orleans then sold him to the Red Sox.

IF THE OUTCOME of the speed-skating portion of the winter program may be taken as an indicating of the way the Olympic games as a whole may be expected to turn out Americans have every reason to hope for a sweeping victory in Los Angeles the coming summer.

Irving Jaffee's victory in the 10,000 meters, a little more than six and one-fifth miles, made the Yankee triumph the most decisive on record in the speed-skating events as this is the first time any country has cleaned up all four races in that division. Let's hope that a good start means the same kind of finish.

Emil Pladner

THOUGH HE CLAIMS to be a flyweight, Emil Pladner, the French boxer who has just arrived in this country, is said to be a bantamweight, and he probably will operate in the latter class when he starts his American campaign. Pladner, a rugged little fellow, and wearing the badge of his profession, a cauliflower ear, is 25 years old and has been fighting in the pro ranks since 1926. Prior to that he was amateur flyweight champion of Europe. He was catapulted to international fame three years ago when he knocked out Frankie Genaro in the first round. Emil lost a decision to Genaro later, and also has been defeated by Eugene Huat and Teddy Baldock, but in the main he has a fine record for his 60 professional fights, and promises to make a lot of trouble for the American bantams.

LIGHT SCHEDULE FOR W. P. I. A. L. TEAMS TODAY

By JULIUS LEVIN

Revenge for the only defeat they suffered this season will be the objective of the Schenley High passers this afternoon when they meet Fifth Avenue High on the Schenley court.

Schenley's only league setback was suffered at the hands of Fifth Avenue in the opening game of the season and it is the intention of the Grossmen to turn the tables on Briggs' quintet this afternoon.

LEAD AT STAKE

The game is the feature attraction on the City League schedule, inasmuch as a defeat for Schenley will give Fifth Avenue first place in Section I.

Connelley plays at South and Allderdice at Westinghouse in other Section I games.

Allegheny, leader in Section II, will be out to score its eighth straight victory when it opposes Carrick at Phipps gym. South Hills plays at Oliver and Allegheny Vocational at Langley in other Section II games.

LIGHT W. P. I. A. L. CARD

The East Pike Run-Ellsworth game at Ellsworth features a light W. P. I. A. L. card. A victory for East Pike Run will enable it to tie Ellsworth for first place in Section XVI.

Gene Sullivan, Homestead forward, leads the scorers in Section VII with 53 points, while Pickles Kreiling, Braddock, tops the scorers in Section VIII with 43 points.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE LONESOME DINER—Sir David Falconer, of Newton, known as Lord Newton (1640-1686), celebrated his elevation to the post of Lord President of Session of Scotland in 1682 by a solitary dinner lasting 48 hours, at which he was his own and only guest. The dignified jurist spent 48 hours at the table in deep meditation, broken only by the occasional entrance of a discreet servant replacing a succession of courses. THE WAGER OF DEATH—J. Harkey Reiter has wagered with Prof. Wiener Graves, of Philadelphia, that he will die at sea. Provision of payment of $2,500 was made part of the last will and testament of both parties to the wager. Reiter, who is a missionary, was born at sea, married at sea, preached his first sermon at sea, and his daughter was born during a sea voyage from Sandakan, North Borneo.

TOMORROW: THE GRAVE DIGGER WHO NEVER DUG A GRAVE.

CUE TITLE WON BY KIECKHEFER

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Augie Kieckhefer, of Chicago, who laughs off his physical handicap of a sightless eye, scaled the scientific billiard heights last night by winning the world three-cushion crown for the tenth time.

He won the title and the bag of gold with it by routing Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, 50 to 27, in 40 innings. His feat tied him with Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., a man he helped escort out of the current tournament in title-holdings, as Layton, too, has won it 10 times.

The championship, valued at more than $18,000, this time carried with it a salary of $6,000 annually, $1,200 in cash, 16 per cent of the net gate receipts, valued at approximately $1,000, and a crown worth about $10,000 more over the year from the receipts of exhibitions alone.

Reiselt had 26 scoreless innings, while Kieckhefer registered only 17—five in the last 10 innings, when he discarded his daring game and played safely.

Gus Copulos gained first advantage in the playoff for fourth place by defeating Frank Scoville, Buffalo, N. Y., 50 to 30, in 49 innings.

Scoville will meet Johnny Layton this afternoon in the second match of the playoff, and Copulos will meet Layton in the final match tonight.

Reiselt will meet Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, the deposed titleholder, for second place today. Each has a record of seven victories and four defeats.

BIKE LEADERS TIED

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Reggie McNamara and Harry Ryan, rugged pairs from Newark, N. J., and Frederick De Loose, Belgian-American rider of Paterson, N. J., and Mickey Ross, Chicago, were tied for first place last night at the end of the first day of Chicago's twenty-seventh international six-day bicycle race.

JADICH BEATEN

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Harry Dubilewicz, of Chicago, outpointed Johnny Jadich, of Philadelphia, 8 to 10 round bout last night. Jadich's bouts won welterweight championship was not at stake.

HARPSTER SIGNS GENEVA CONTRACT

ROBERT M. YOUNG

HOWARD HARPSTER

Howard Harpster, former all-America quarterback at Carnegie Tech, today signed a contract to return to Geneva College as head football coach. The signing took place in the offices of Robert M. Young in the Renshaw Building. Young is president of the board of directors.

BUCS TO ELECT PREXY SOON

The Pittsburgh Athletic Company, which owns and operates the Pittsburgh Pirates, is expected to hold a reorganization meeting within a few days when a new president will be elected to take the place of the late Barney Dreyfuss, principal owner and president of the Pirates for 32 years.

The Pirates have informed Outfielder Forrest Jensen it will be O. K. for him to join the pitchers and catchers when the first party departs for the Paso Robles, Cal., training camp. Jensen will meet Manager George Gibson and his party at Wichita, Kan., at 6:15 a. m., February 18.

It is said there is little likelihood of the Pirates changing the name Forbes Field to Dreyfuss Field.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Purdue's basketball team nosed out Ohio State, 38 to 33, in a fast, hard-fought Western Conference game here last night.

REITER'S LOSS BIG BLOW TO BLUFFITES

GAMES TONIGHT

Geneva at Duquesne.
Geneva Reserves at Duquesne Freshmen.
West Virginia at Temple.
Bethany at Thiel.
Allegheny at Westminster.
Fairmont at Potomac State.
Waynesburg at Grove City.

Marty Reiter, shifty guard on the Duquesne University varsity basketball squad, who was taken down with the grippe during the recent eastern trip, will be on the sidelines tonight when the Bluffites meet their arch-rival from Geneva College on the Stadium Pavilion floor.

Reiter was forced to remain out of the battle with City College of New York City last Saturday night, remaining in the Dukes' hotel while his mates were taking a 24-18 defeat at the hands of Nat Holman's passers.

The youngster arrived home today, accompanied by Joe Zerilla, a substitute, and if he is in condition, he will attend the contest with the Covenanters tonight, but will not see action.

The battle with the Covenanters is regarded as one of the most important on the Bluffites' schedule and the loss of Reiter is a blow to the Dukes' chances for a victory.

The contest, originally scheduled for the Duquesne University gymnasium, was moved to the Stadium floor by mutual consent due to the high interest in the game.

Ken Loeffler's Geneva quintet has been making a fine showing this season and the Covenanters are coming here bent on taking the measure of the Bluffites. Both the Dukes and Geneva employ the same style of play, Coaches Davies and Loeffler being products of professional basketball.

The preliminary contest, starting at 7 o'clock, will feature the Duquesne University Freshies and the Gevena College Reserves. The Duquesne Freshmen are undefeated in 34 straight games.

The Beaver Valley will send a large delegation of rooters to Pittsburgh for the game tonight.

West Virginia plays Temple in Philadelphia; Bethany plays Thiel at Greenville; Allegheny plays Westminster at New Wilmington; Fairmont plays Potomac State at Keyser and Waynesburg plays Grove City at Grove City in other district contests tonight.

Tonight's probable lineups:

Dukes		Geneva
MacDougall	F	Manning
Feldman	F	Goldberg
McGeever (C)	C	(C) Montgomery
Brettner	G	Anthem
Moore	G	Graham

Referee—Yates Wallace. Umpire—Sam Buving.

MACKS RELEASE WAITE HOYT

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The Philadelphia Athletics today announced the unconditional release of Pitcher Waite C. Hoyt, veteran of many American League and world series battles.

All clubs in the league waived on the twirler, who joined the A's last Fourth of July after receiving his release from Detroit. He played a big part in the clinching of the pennant by the White Elephants.

Baseball items of importance also developed in other sections of the major leagues. John Ryan and Clyde Bower, infielders, signed their contracts with the Chicago White Sox, while the Philadelphia Nationals announced the release of Pitcher Johnny Milligan to the Toronto Club.

From Detroit, came the word that the Tigers had sold Catcher Johnny Grabowski to the Montreal Club. The Boston Red Sox reported the receipt of a signed contract from Pitcher Bob Kline and news dispatches from Tampa, Fla., carried reports that Catcher Al Lopez had accepted terms with the Dodgers.

The Yankee officials in New York announced the signing of Dusty Cooke and Dr. Eddie Farrell.

Locals to Compete In National Meet

Howard Spencer, of Geneva College, and Eddie Roche, of the P. A. A., expect to compete in the National A. A. U. indoor track and field championships in Madison Square Garden, New York, February 22.

A 50,000-meter road race is being planned in Erie to provide a qualifier for the final Olympic trials.

The Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U. senior wrestling championships, will be held at the Erie Boys' Club, March 18.

SWISS BOB TEAM ANNEXES OLYMPIC TITLE

AMERICANS SET NEW RECORD FOR RUN

OLYMPIC BOBSLED COURSE, LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—J. Hubert Stevens, of Lake Placid, driver of the first American team in the two-man bobsled races of the winter Olympics, set a new record for the Mt. Van Hoevenberg bobsled run today when he covered the course in 2:04.27.

Stevens bettered the mark made earlier in the day by Reto Capadrutt, driver of the Switzerland second team, who broke Steven's previous record of 2:09, made last year.

Capadrutt, however, had the best total time for the two runs of 4:12.09, making his second in 2:07.21, while Stevens' time for the two runs was 4:17.37, his first run being made in 2:13.10.

Capadrutt's first run, which held the record momentarily, was made in 2:05.88.

CROWD ROARS APPROAL

The largest crowd the third winter Olympics thus far has attracted lined the course and roared its approval as Stevens swept around the hairpin and zigzag turns of the mile and one-half course at breakneck speed.

The record was made on a course decried "slow" when the trial runs were made.

Capadrutt, youngest driver ever to make an Olympic run, also was wildly acclaimed as he manipulated his white Swiss rope sled around the treacherous curves with little break in the terrific speed on the straightaway.

The timing was done by an electric device.

The second American team, of which John R. Heaton was driver, was in third place when the total time for the two runs was tabulated. The first German team was fourth, the Rumanian fifth. The Austrian team made the slowest time of all, 4:45.65 for the two runs.

SWISS TEAM SCRATCHED

The Swiss No. 1 team of Rene Fonjallaz and his brother, Gustave, driving the same type of sled as Capadrutt, scratched their entry because they thought the course too dangerous for the rope-steered bobs.

The summary:

German team, No. 1—Hanns Kilian, driver, first heat, 2:15.27, second heat, 2:11.08. Total time for two heats, 4:26.35.

French team—Louis Haisat, driver, first heat, 2:20.10, second heat, 2:19.37. Total time, 4:39.47.

United States—J. Hubert Stevens, driver, first heat, 2:13.10, second heat, 2:04.27. Total time, 4:17.37.

Second United States team—John R. Heaton, driver, first heat, 2:15.02, second heat, 2:07.51. Total time, 4:22.53.

Italian team—Count Rossi Montelera, driver, first run, 2:15.45, second run, 2:08.10. Total time, 4:23.55.

Second Italian team—Agosting Lantranchi, driver, first heat, 2:20.98, second heat, 2:13.47. Total time, 4:35.55.

Roumanian team—Lieut. Papana, driver, first heat, 2:15.51, second heat, 2:07.82. Total time, 4:23.33.

First Belgian team—Max Houben, driver, first heat, 2:17.68, second heat, 2:14.90. Total time, 4:32.58.

Austrian team—Hugo Wuenstengel, driver, first run, 2:23.85, second heat, 2:21.82. Total time, 4:45.65.

Second Belgian team—Christian Hansez, driver, first heat, 2:17.01, second heat, 2:16.74. Total time, 4:45.65.

Second German team—Werner Huth, driver, first heat, 2:11.53, second heat, 2:11.58. Total time, 4:23.11.

Second Switzerland team—Reto Capadrutt, driver, first team, 2:05.88, second heat, 2:07.21. Total time, 4:13.09.

AMERICANS SCORE SWEEP

United States representatives yesterday scored a sweep of the men's speed skating events when Irving Jaffee won the 10,000 meters final. Ivar Ballangud was second by three yards. The time was 19 minutes, 13 6-10 seconds.

Jean Wilson, of Canada, won the final of the first women's speed skating exhibitions between skaters of the United States and Canada. Miss Wilson won the 500 meters final in 58 seconds. Elizabeth Dubois, of Evanston, Ill., was second, and Kit Klein, of Buffalo, third.

In the Olympic hockey competition the United States skaters blanked Poland, 5-0, and Canada defeated Germany, 5-0.

Third Indiana Boxer Dies After Fight

KOKOMO, Ind., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Wilbur Russell, 29-year-old amateur boxer, died here last night from injuries suffered in a bout in which he was knocked out by George Scott last Wednesday night. Scott was placed under arrest on a technical charge pending grand jury investigation.

Scott and Russell met in a scheduled three-round bout, of a series of elimination fights sponsored by a local theater. Russell was floored in the first round, but struggled to his feet and walked to his corner as the bell rang. When he walked out for the second round, he collapsed.

Russell's death was the third resulting from fights in Indiana rings within a week. Bud Hughes, of Rockport, Ind., died following a bout at Evansville last Tuesday night, and Johnny Fagg, Clinton, Ind., died Friday night from injuries suffered at bout in Indianapolis Tuesday night.

TRYON LEADS QUALIFYING

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Howard Tryon, of Detroit, posted a 37-40—77 in qualifying play yesterday for the Miami Biltmore St. Valentine's tournament. One stroke behind Tryon was H. F. Bowbeer, Chicago amateur veteran, with 39-39—78.

Gus Novotny, La Grange, Ill., former University of Illinois star and contender in several of the winter amateur events, showed an 80 on his card.

A. P. Lawton, Providence, R. I., had 87, while Paul E. Leviton, of New York, scored 91.

GRISSELLE VICTOR

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Maurice Grisselle, veteran French heavyweight, outpointed Dan McCorkindale, South African champion, in a 10-round bout here last night.

McEvoy Prefers Ranching to Pay Cut

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Lou McEvoy, right-hand pitcher sold by the New York Yankees to St. Paul, of the American Association, has asserted he will "stick to ranching rather than take a 50 per cent salary cut." The former Oakland hurler returned his contract unsigned. He has been running a ranch.

SCHWARTZ WINS

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Corporal Izzy Schwartz of New York, once recognized in some states as world flyweight champion, started a comeback as a bantamweight last night by outpointing Jack Terranova, also of New York, in a five-round bout at the Jamaica Arena. Schwartz weighed 118½, Terranova 126½.

DUNDEE UNITED WINS

GLASGOW, Scotland, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Dundee United eliminated Queen of South from the Scottish Football Association cup series in a replayed game from the second round yesterday. United won, two goals to one.

N. H. L. OFFERED NEW TITLE CUP

MONTREAL, Quebec, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The National Hockey League will forfeit the Stanley Cup rather than take part in a post-season series with the American League, Frank Calder, president of the N. H. L., has predicted.

Reaffirming his views of the recent challenge from the American League, accepted by the Stanley Cup trustees, Calder declared that if the trustees persisted in letting the challenge stand, "we would forfeit the trophy and I think 80 per cent of the league governors will support me."

NEW CUP OFFERED

"Moreover we have already been offered another cup valued at $1,000 by a prominent sportsman to replace the Stanley Cup if it goes out of competition or to the 'outlaw' league," Calder added.

William Foran, one of the trustees, said the challenge had been accepted on the assumption that the A. H. L. was a league "in good standing." He said at that time the trustees would take no further action in the matter until a formal protest had been received from the National League.

BOILEAU REINSTATED

MONTREAL, Quebec, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Rene Boileau, of the St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey League, has been reinstated in the National Hockey League. Boileau formerly played with the Mt. Royal League here, the New York Americans and New Haven Eagles.

PROBE LIKELY

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Final decision on the protest entered by the National Hockey League against acceptance of a challenge for the Stanley Cup by the American League will be made only after a thorough investigation, William Foran has announced tonight.

Cardinals Abandon Farm at Scottdale

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Feb. 9.—Baseball fans of this town will hold a meeting here Friday night to decide what Scottdale will do with its Middle Atlantic League franchise.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who have supported the Scottdale Club as one of its baseball farms, has turned the franchise back to the local sponsors. The Cardinals reserve the right to dispose of all players on the active list.

Failure of the league authorities to arrange an equal number of games at home and abroad as well as flat guarantees led to the withdrawal of the St. Louis support.

Henry Firpo Loses To Shade in Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—Dave Shade, of San Francisco, easily outpointed Henry Firpo, bald warrior from New Castle, Pa., last night in the 10-round final bout at White City.

Bobbing and weaving, Shade presented a poor target for Firpo's best weapon, a right swing, and scored often enough himself, to win seven of the 10 rounds. Shade weighed 162 pounds, to 162½ for Firpo.

Big Crowd Expected At Pro Court Game

Arrangements are being made to handle a capacity crowd for the basketball game between the Cleveland Rosenblums and the Brooklyn Americans, crack professional teams, in Motor Square Garden, Friday night.

The local fans are stirred over the coming of the "big names" of the sport, and the advance sale is one of the best in several years for a floor game in this city.

Why the Automobile Industry welcomes the NEW SILENT NON-SKID Tire

HERE is the problem automobile engineers put squarely up to Goodyear several months ago:

"Our 1932 models" they said, "are being engineered first of all for safety—with better controls, stronger frames, more powerful brakes to handle increased speed and power.

"But we're after new silence too—so quiet are engines, gears, carburetors, bodies, the sound of non-skid tires whirling against the road can be heard by passengers.

"You build the outstanding safety tire—can't you keep that safety and give us silence besides?"

Now Goodyear Offers Noiseless Non-Skid Traction

On an impressive number of the new 1932 motor cars you will now see the noiseless non-skid tire the automobile engineers asked for.

It's the first silent non-skid tire—the new Goodyear Silent All-Weather.

The mighty grip of the famed All-Weather design—right in the center of the tread where it belongs—is powerful as ever.

There are no "sled-runner" ribs of rubber in the tread center to displace grip with slip when the brakes take hold.

But the noise has been engineered away—there is no hum or rumble—you get silence plus safety!

The motor car industry has given this remarkable new Goodyear a heartfelt welcome—calling it "the smartest piece of tire engineering in years."

We promise you it will put a brand new sensation of quiet luxury and security into the new car of your choice—just take the wheel of a Goodyear-shod 1932 model and see!

Safety with Silence

Non-skid treads are vital to safety, and the new Goodyear Silent All-Weather gives you that safety, yet ends all noise and vibration by the shifting of a fraction of an inch of rubber in the husky blocks of the design, so that blocks of the same size never follow each other. The result is the quietest, smoothest-running non-skid tread that ever gripped a highway

REID TO EXPERIMENT

SHIFTED LINEUP CERTAIN FOR NEXT GAME

By CARL W. SHATTO

Charley Rein, coach of the Yellow Jackets, will do some experimenting with his International league hockey warriors during their workout this evening.

Earl Miller, star forward, left last night to report to the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National league, to which team he was sold by the Chicago Hawks. It is the circuit. The departure of Miller, who has been here since December 1, means that Rein will be from one of Miller's backfield Romnes is shattered and it he will have to realignfor wards.

X TO WORK OUT

Goalie Abbie Cox, who left the Detroit Falcons Sunday, participate in tonight's Rein is confident that Cox, completely recovered from the injury to his knee which which set him to the Mercy Hospital there for a week. Cox will be back in the Pittsburgh coop when the Cleveland Indians come here Thursday. In the event that the workout shows that Cox is not back in satisfactory condition, Sonny Bitter will continue to perform in the Jacket cage.

Bob Trapp, veteran defenseman sent here by Chicago ended in a workout with the locals yesterday and will be given another trial this evening. Coach Rein has not yet decided whether Trapp can be used to advantage or whether he shall be returned to the Hawks.

SHEA TO REPORT

Al Shea, who is to be sent here from Chicago to replace Miller, is expected to report to the local club late today. When he arrives Rein will have to do some additional experimenting to determine whether or not he shall be retained, and if so, in what position he shall be played.

The only certainty regarding the Pittsburgh lineup for Thursday is that it is very much in doubt.

DREYFUSSIANS

Stories They Tell of the Late Barney Dreyfuss

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The baseball executive councils of men unschooled in the points of technique of the sport did not add to the glories of baseball, but the game always has had conscientious and bright fellows like Barney Dreyfuss, Connie Mack and Charles Comiskey to offset the dictatorial actions of those who entered by way of wealth or business associations.

During the war with the Federal League a well-known Chicagoan entered the picture. The gentleman, Charles Weeghman, was a well-meaning and enthusiastic magnate, but he apparently knew little of the workings of the major league. When the strife finally was settled, Weeghman was in command of the Cubs for some time before William Wrigley, Jr., effected their purchase.

Weeghman wanted to give Chicago a winner, and as he had a lot of money he began to build up the club. Among the stars that caught him was Scoops Carey, a fly chaser of the Pittsburgh club.

Now, the baseball game has a rule which concerns tampering. The legislation was adopted by the baseball powers to prohibit a bad practice, which placed coveted players in a dissatisfied frame of mind. When a baseball manager let it be known publicly that he would like to land a star on another club the effect was bad. The unethical practice found bolstering the law into the books.

Magnate Weeghman apparently had not read up on this rule when he announced boldly he would give $40,000 for Carey. The newspapers played up the Chicago man's offer in a lively manner, and Scoops would not have been natural if he had not felt that he was worth a lot to anybody as a player.

Dreyfuss and his baseball brethren knew the offer was out of line and he let Weeghman know his feelings at the first opportunity. The two moguls met soon after the thing got into the public prints. Barney immediately upbraided Weeghman for talking out of turn.

"Why, I don't see anything wrong about offering $40,000 for a star," retorted the Chicagoan. "Just the other day somebody offered that much money for a horse."

"But the horse couldn't read," snapped Dreyfuss.

Follow this series of anecdotes on the late Barney Dreyfuss daily in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

BOXING CARDS CHANGED

It's funny how things have a way of running in cycles. Only a few weeks ago the army of local boxers was complaining because of a dearth of clubs and lack of bouts. And now, with four clubs operating in the Pittsburgh district, the promoters are up against the wailing wall because of a lack of talent for their shows.

Two of the clubs, for instance, need replacements for their next main bouts. Mose Butch, Oakland bantamweight, is laid up with the flu and can't fight Lew Parber, of New York, in the windup at the Moose Temple tomorrow night, and Frankie Bojarski, of Erie, came out of his bout with Santiago Zorilla at Erie last Friday night with a bad ear that makes it impossible for him to meet Benny Bass, former junior-lightweight champion, in the feature bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. The Garden would like to throw in Battling Gizzy as a substitute, but Gizzy also has the flu.

Charley Baxter was offered the match with Bass today, but had to decline it because of an eye cut suffered in beating Eddie Brannon at the Moose Temple last week. Promoter Appies Meyers, of the Moose, is working on an entirely new bout, holding off Baer until a later date.

Meanwhile Bill Dummer, matchmaker for Eddie Kaplphan's arena in Center avenue, has come up with a very promising windup for the main bout of his second show Friday night, when he will import the capable Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, to box Joey Thomas, of Chicago, and the North Side for 10 rounds. Jackie Wilson and Johnny Warner are in the eight-round semi-final. Dummer had planned on using Tiger Joe Randall against Billy Holt for the local Negro welterweight championship, but Randall has been under the weather for a few days and will not be ready to go until next week.

This leaves only the Tony Marino-Franklin Young main event at McKeesport Thursday night standing up, and Promoter Jim McGirr, of that club, is going about with his fingers crossed.

Between Rounds

Dave Maier hosts Max Mandell and Sonja Hatties Mickey Farrell in Chicago Friday night. Bennie Goldblatt, who fought around here last summer, hosts Billy Gladstone in a four round preliminary.

Jack Lawrence hosts Jackie Quinn in a six round go at the Coliseum Friday night. Tommy Farrell and Eddie Kelley hostess here the same night.

Promoter Eddie Kaplphan announces he will gladly donate the use of his arena for any sort of a charitable show.

Having beaten Charley Esposito unanimously last Friday night, Billy Jones, the Uniontown light-heavyweight champion, is matched to box Joe Sekyra, of Johnstown, in the Elks' temple at Johnstown Thursday night. Both boys are managed by Al Benson, who is also the boss of Jack Delaney, Jimmy Slattery and Maxie Rosenbloom. Jones is a former Pittsburgher.

Paul Ogar and Tommy (K. O.) Lewis, of Wheeling, box the main bout for Ringside Promoter Jack Reddy at Wheeling Friday night. Ogar is a former Pittsburgher.

Tommy Rodi hosts Roger Shea in the semi-final to Mario Arch Kammer's Duffman bout in Erie Friday night.

Joe Kane and Jimmy Treanor are billed for a four rounder in Columbus Friday night.

Angelo Cavalieri and Charley Blaskovich are the second preliminary on the Marino-Franklin card in McKeesport Thursday night. Tom Thrasher and Patsy Hennigan are in the opener.

NATIE BROWN DEFEATS GALENTO

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor

So what do you think happened when Tony Galento, the Phat Boy Willie Meehan, of Jersey City, didn't knock out Natie Brown, of here, there and everywhere (and announced as hailing from Philadelphia), with his first punch in the main bout at Motor Square Garden last night?

Well, so little Natie, scaling 182 pounds against Tony's 227, just turned right in and kicked the stuffing out of big Galento over the 10-round route, winning every round.

In his only other appearance here in the same ring, Tony belted out our own George Panka, of Homestead, with the first punch, a left hook delivered on the run at the sound of the gong, with Panka not yet out of his corner. The official time on that knockout was 14 seconds, including the count, and it seemed even less.

NATIE EASY WINNER

Last night they tossed in Tony who really was about three pounds under his usual weight, and therefore probably not in good condition, with a cool, canny workman, and the odds were made Tony fight to his order, which was little less than suicide for the aforesaid Tony. Natie fought out of a crouch and seldom led, but blocked or stepped inside Tony's hooks and swings and then countered savagely to the body, slipping away with both fists and generally winding up with a pip of a short uppercut in close that sent Tony's head bobbing back.

At times Brown dug his punches so cleanly into the fleshy midsection of the great Galento that you would have sworn he'd lose his glove in there. Tony took it like a major, though, and only once in the eighth round did he stop to talk things over and then it was to invite Natie to do a bit of leading and give him a chance to counter. As a matter of record the parley failed of success.

Brown came out of the fuss unmarked, but the One Punch Man was bleeding from the mouth from the fourth round on and from the nose beginning with the fifth. There were no knockdowns, and Brown's ragtime and counter punching were the features unless you want to include Galento's ability to carry around all of that excess tonnage and travel the route in tough going.

The gate was not so big, but the managers, Max Waxman and Billy McCarney, of the rival heavies, didn't stop any punches, and so their only headache was a financial one.

TOUGH BREAK FOR SALA

Bruno Sala, of Donora, 169¼, got a tough break in his scheduled eight-round semi-final with Harold Scarney, of Youngstown, 187½, which had to be stopped by the referee at the end of the third round because his left eye was completely closed, the result of a short right hand punch that dropped him for a count of nine in the opening round. Aside from this blow, Sala had the better of the going and he got a big hand from the fans at the finish.

Tom Malco, of Soho, 148, outclubbed Young Joe Walcott, Washington (Pa.) Negro, 147, in the second bout, a monotonous body punching exhibition, but the judges disagreed and Referee Al Grayber's decision named Walcott the winner. Judge Freddie Lux voted for Malco and Judge Frank Brown for a draw.

HART SCORES KNOCKOUT

Jerry Hart, of Troy Hill, 190¾, a fine-looking, loose-muscled young heavyweight, making his first start, showed to excellent advantage in stopping Tom Hanson, of Braddock, 196½, after 1 minute 40 seconds of the fourth round. Hart led all of the way and finally dropped his man for the full count with rights to the body and jaw, Hanson grabbing a clinch and sagging to the floor.

Eddie Kennedy alternated with Grayber as the referee.

Four Knockouts Mark Mitt Show

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Feb. 9.—Four knockouts featured the amateur boxing show held by Ray Eberle here last night.

In the opening bout Herman Ladone, of Pittsburgh, stopped Ross Meranti, of Ambridge, in the second round. Martin Sluka, of Monaca, knocked out Andy Iovino, of Pittsburgh, in the second round; Chuck Ladone, of Pittsburgh, stopped Tony Dalverson, of New Castle, in the third round, and Johnny Larick, of Ambridge, knocked out Ray Hatten, of Pittsburgh, in the second round.

Romeo Caldercila, of Aliquippa, won a three-round decision over Gregory Bianchi, of Pittsburgh; George Marzo, Pittsburgh, won a decision over Rudy Van Covish, of Monaca, and Billy Nichy, of Pittsburgh, defeated Frank Catenese, of Rochester, in three rounds.

Leading Bond Houses Report Greater Buying By Small Investors

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

MR. JOHN PUBLIC has started to buy bonds. The big bank, the big insurance company, the wealthy man still are uninterested in the bond market, but the small buyer—the fellow who wants only one or two bonds—is in the market and rapidly will become an important factor.

Questions asked the managers of several local bond houses and banks have produced information which checks in every respect.

The securities generally preferred fall in the high grade type, since satisfactory yields can now be found in bonds of this class.

Bond men are of the opinion that much the same people are now buying small quantities of fixed income securities as are buying the common stocks of major industrial organizations. It will be recalled that statistics covering the number of stockholders in such large organizations as United States Steel and General Motors have shown substantial gains. Apparently the salaried individual who has suffered only moderately from the business depression is beginning to bring thrift to bear on the business situation. He is starting to buy both common stocks and bonds and this new investment activity is having a pronounced effect on the market for securities.

* * *

Investment Companies Gain in Sales

INVESTMENT BANKING organizations state that business has been unusually slow for the past year, but they declare that since the beginning of the new year there has been a marked revival in interest on the part of the small buyer.

Buyers at present are middle class people. They want one or two bonds or 10 or 20 shares of stock. The bond houses are benefiting from the buying of a class of investors which was neglected in most cases in the past. They are now deriving a marked degree of encouragement from buyers considered to be pikers a few years ago.

The fact that the small investor is back in the market does not mean much in profits to major investment banking organizations, but it is interpreted as an important business indication for the future.

* * *

Switches in Weak Bonds Becomes Major Factor

DEFAULTS AND FEARS of defaults have been responsible for considerable trading in the poorer grade issues. Some speculative buying is developing in bonds of this type and a liberal supply is coming on to the market from holders who think that they can make their income more secure by switches in their holdings.

A stabilizing factor in some of the weaker issues has been buying for sinking fund purposes. In many cases, where underlying organizations are in good financial shape, they are taking advantage of present low prices to pick up their own bonds. It is understood that some of the foreign governments have accounted for buying of this type.

Sun Life Portfolio Practically Intact

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The frequently recurring rumor that the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada was a heavy seller of United States common stocks was proven groudless today with the announcement from Montreal that the company's portfolio is practically intact.

At the annual meeting it was stated that certain branches of the company's business established new high records, an exception being new life insurance policies paid for, which totaled about $527,000,000 last year, compared with $705,678,796 in 1930.

Total assurances in force increased $187,875,000 and net income gained $10,477,877 over the preceding year. Total assets were $624,804,455, an increase of $36,070,823 over those of December 31, 1930.

FRANCE BOOSTS IMPORT QUOTA

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The ministry of commerce today informed the United States embassy that the monthly quota of imports of American radio parts, tubes and assembled sets had been increased from 16.6 to 21 metric tons as of January 1.

Since the quantity of radio goods falling under the quota restrictions for the first quarter already exceeded 21 metric tons, the regulation recently announced forbidding imports until further notice still was enforceable.

The higher American quota announcement followed protests through the American embassy and directly to the ministry of commerce by the American Chamber of Commerce. The Americans contended the Dutch and German radio interests were given an advantage.

In announcing the new figure the ministry said a mistake had been made in calculating the 16.6 tons quota.

STOCK MARKET NEARING BEAR CYCLE LOWS

Trading Remains Listless And Decline Persists Save for Early Rally

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP.)—The stock market settled down around the low levels of the bear cycle today.

The market remained listless, but buyers were even more apathetic than sellers, and save for a brief upturn in the morning, the slow decline persisted. The price average of 90 representative issues was only a shade above the low of January 8 by early afternoon.

Losses were largely fractional but Santa Fe and Lambert sagged 2, and du Pont, Consolidated Gas, Nash and Case 1, going into new low ground. The decline became pronounced after another wide break in Auburn, which fell about 8 points, going below par. There has been nothing more definite than some unfavorable gossip over earnings to account for Auburn's sharp decline of recent sessions. Other issues losing about a point included United States Steel, Standard of New Jersey, American Telephone, American Can, Sears, Roebuck, Allied Chemical and Public Service of New Jersey. Some large blocks of General Motors were offered but the stock sagged only fractionally.

The stubborn down drift of prices in recent sessions has become rather wearing on Wall street nerves. But despite prevalent bearishness in speculative quarters, the stock exchange restrictions on short selling and the light volume of selling have made traders wary of the short side of the market. Ordinarily, with the market hesitating around new low ground, bears might be expected to make vigorous efforts to break the list through its previous resistance levels.

One factor which undoubtedly is making traders cautious about extending their short commitments is the beginning of operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The low state of corporate earnings and tardiness of seasonal improvement remain the chief factors in the rather gloomy speculative atmosphere.

The money market, which has shown a distinctly firm tone occasionally of late, eased somewhat today. One dealer raised the rate on 90-day acceptances, but outside call money was quoted at 2¼ per cent, against 2½ yesterday, and federal funds were more plentiful.

WHEAT PRICES TAKE DIP

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—New downturns of grain prices early today accompanied setbacks in securities. Firmness of wheat quotations at Liverpool, attributed to a decrease of British port supplies, was virtually ignored. Opening unchanged to ⅜ off, wheat afterward declined all around. Corn started ⅛-⅜ down and subsequently sagged further.

Dearth of buying rather than pressure to sell characterized dealings in wheat during much of the day.

Declines in wheat carried the market to well below yesterday's bottom level. For the most part, rallies were confined to small fractions, despite Winnipeg advices that some export business overnight had been worked. Earlier, Liverpool dispatches said buying in Great Britain was almost entirely confined to Southern hemisphere wheat. Corn and oats duplicated the action of wheat prices.

FINANCE CORP. LOANS READY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—After setting up 12 regional agencies throughout the country, with more to follow, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation prepared itself for actual lending operations by issuing circulars to prospective borrowers dealing with procedure in making applications for loans.

The corporation sets forth that loans may be made for periods up to three years with rates of interest or discount to be determined by the corporation from time to time as conditions warrant. It provides that no loan or advance may be made on foreign securities and in regard to security that all loans must be adequately secured. It provides that loans may be made directly from promissory notes of the borrower or by way of discount or rediscount of obligations tendered for that purpose.

Applicants must consent to submit to examination for determination by the corporation of their financial condition.

Applicants for loans must be made on a special form prepared by the corporation and which can be obtained at the corporation's offices in Washington or at any Federal Reserve branch.

Forbes

About Moses, 'Bullrushes,' Bear Rushes

By B. C. FORBES

ERNEST L. STOCKTON, who, as president, is energetically building up Cumberland University, Tenn., remarked to me:

Mr. Forbes

"I'm told that people in Wall street are looking not only for a Moses but for 'bulrushes.'"

INSTEAD OF bull-rushes the stock market lately has lately experienced little but bear-rushes. Official statistics show this.

What would you think if the doctor tending an anemic patient were to prescribe bloodletting, to be followed at some later time provided the patient did not die meanwhile—by the return of the blood to the patient's body?

That is pretty much tantamount to short-selling during a market as weak as the present one. It is the sheerest bunk to argue that selling stocks short strengthens a market. Each and every sale, whether short or long, tends to depress a market. The market having been knocked down by bears, it does not necessarily follow that the whole damage will be undone when the re-buying is done.

Yet shorts indulged in a picnic last month and have succeeded in dragging security values down toward the lowest depths in years. "Profit above patriotism" obviously is the prevailing motto.

W. L. McKNIGHT, president of the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company, employing 700 workers, says:

"It will be far more economical and desirable for business to support its own unemployment relief directly than to pay taxes for maintenance of a government dole or similar system."

He has instituted a permanent unemployment benefit plan, supported by company earnings. The objective is to accumulate enough to pay $7 to $17.55 a week for 10 to 17 weeks a year for five years. In extreme emergencies those regularly employed may be called upon to contribute modestly.

Mr. McKnight believes the majority of American industries could profitably adopt similar plans.

I SUPPOSE WE look at the doughnut instead of the hole. The Bankers Monthly gives this picture:

How banking came through 1931:

1. With approximately 20,000 banks still serving their communities.

2. With a bank for every 16,173 people; whereas there were 9,809 people for every bank in 1890.

3. With only about 2 per cent of bank resources tied up in closings.

4. With recovery for depositors of approximately $1,326,000,000 as compared to about $37,650,000 recovery for creditors of bankrupt business houses.

5. With more banks reopened than in 1930.

6. With more new banks organized than in 1930.

DOES IT ASTONISH you to learn that meat consumption last year exceeded 1930? Low prices helped. Reductions in wholesale prices from a year ago include: Fresh pork loins, 50 per cent; hams, 39 per cent; bacon, 42 per cent; fresh beef, medium, 25 per cent; veal, 42 per cent; lamb, 31 per cent.

Verily, foundations have been laid for the setting in of a period of reviving prosperity.

ONE READER, H. R. Simmonds, recalls that long ago an athlete hung up a record for the 100-yard dash, another a record for the broad jump, still another for the half-mile. They were marvelous records. But they were later eclipsed by better men. He adds:

"Records are made to be bettered—and even 1929 records will prove no exception."

Believe it or not, he is indisputably right.

Ken Visits Lily Lou After She Recuperates at Parents' Home

CHAPTER V.

They were so glad to have her home.

The old dog, Shep, looked at her for a long moment, his dim eyes worried. Then his tail thumped on the porch floor. He gave a sharp, anguished bark, and hurled himself on her, barking, making funny noises in his throat, trying to lick her face, to make up for not knowing her right away . . . It had been so long.

And now he followed her everywhere. Silent. Adoring.

Her mother cried a little because Lily Lou was so thin and pale. She had a good strong chicken broth simmering on back of the stove, and Lily Lou was to have a cup of it every two hours, unless she'd rather have milk with a nice fresh egg beaten in.

She got up earlier than ever to cook things for the invalid before she went off to teach school. She taught in the little gray primary school on the flat. In two more years she would have her pension.

ROMANTIC FIGURE

Dad was clerking in Rufe Fletcher's store. There weren't many summer people yet, but Rufe took Dad on early this year. "Kind of wish I was around home so I could look after the girl," he said a little wistfully.

Uncle Eph came down from the mountain to see her. Uncle Eph was Dad's brother. Lily Lou loved him, though she knew her mother shuddered to see him. Uncle Eph never amounted to much. He worked as a sheep shearer sometimes, borrowed from Dad a lot, and sometimes got drunk on moonshine whisky.

Lily Lou thought he was a romantic figure, though she was a little ashamed of him too. He was so strong and sunburnt, so independent of what the people in the town thought about him. He had the life he loved, in his little shack with his woolly dog and the sheep, and his phonograph and radio, and he didn't care whether he was respected or not.

Some of the girls Lily Lou had gone to school with dropped in to see her. Bess put all her children in the back seat of her old flivver and drove in from Lakeport. Bringing with her oranges, and the baby's food in a gunny sack filled with newspapers and melting ice.

She asked quick, direct questions. Lily Lou had to tell her about her progress with her music, and all about Raymond and May, and whether they were really saving for a home.

MAY CRITICIZED

"May ought to stay home and raise a family instead of working, taking a position that some single girl ought to have," she said, "and you say yourself that she's not saving much. Wearing herself out to buy clothes, to wear to work, to get money to buy more clothes—and so on forever. She might just as well make up her mind to live on Raymond's salary, and REALLY get ahead. Besides, what's a marriage without children . . . Regina! If you say one more word, mamma'll spank. I TOLD you, you COULD NOT go to the store to buy suckers . . . what was I saying?"

Lily Lou laughed. "You were just saying May ought to have children!"

Bess laughed too. She pushed the straight dark hair out of her eyes, smoothed the little voile dress wrinkled from baby hands. "I didn't say they weren't a nuisance. I just said there wasn't much use in getting married and not having them," she said.

"It's nice for a girl to have a career, like Lily Lou," their mother said gently.

"Yes, if she doesn't marry. No use trying to combine the career and marriage. You ought to know that!" Bess, who prided herself on being frank, couldn't resist that. She had always fought against her mother's calm acceptance of Dad's inability to support the family.

CONTINUES TEACHING

"Now mother, if you don't work Dad will have to. He'll find something sooner than starve!" she used to say over, and over.

But their mother went right on teaching, signing up year after year. Sometimes when times were bad she took a school teacher, usually a young girl fresh from the city, to board. When someone offered Dad a job he took it. Otherwise he went his complacent easy way, never worrying, just waiting for something to turn up.

It was all so mixed up . . . Nobody seemed very happy, except Uncle Eph . . .

Synopsis

Lily Lou Lansing, just 20 and pretty, is studying for an operatic career, but dreams of romance. One morning she meets wealthy Ken Sargent, who used to spend his summers in her home town. He is attracted by her beauty. Lily Lou's sister, May, with whom she boards, objects to Ken, calling his family "snobs." When Lily Lou tells Ken she cannot see him so often he leaves in anger. Ken no longer meets her mornings, and when Lily Lou sees him with another girl, she is depressed. Her sister suggests that she take a much-needed rest.

Now Go On

The second day she was home Lily Lou met Bert Bartells, the boy the girls used to tease her about when she was at high.

Bert had grown fat and rather coarse-looking. He looked prosperous though, and said he was working at the bank at Lakeport. "Come see us sometime!" Lily Lou suggested hospitably.

"Thanks—I will," Bert said heartily.

But on Saturday he wrote her a note on the bank stationery, "on account of being engaged to Naomie Schmeltz I think it might be better not to accept your kind invitation to call on you," he wrote with flourishes. The note was signed "Yours truly, Albert S. Bartells."

Lily Lou tore it into little pieces. Probably it would have been better not to come here. Things were so different. . . .

KEN ON SCENE

Just her luck for the first time in nearly seven years the Sargents were opening up their house. One of the reasons she had wanted to come to Woodlake was to avoid having to see Ken, and here he was, not two miles away.

But after a day or two Lily Lou ceased to worry about meeting Ken. The Sargents' house was on the other shore—"the stylish side"—and they seemed inclined to stay there. Lily Lou never saw Ken though some of the guests, mostly girls and boys in bright sports clothes, were recognizable as they skimmed by on the speed boat, and once or twice she saw the flash of the green sport car on the wide, dusty road skirting the lake.

She felt as she used to feel years ago . . . watching from a distance . . . aching to be part of the life around her, and not knowing how.

Her mother tried to make her happy. Told her which of the new people were "nice"—which weren't. The possibility of Lily Lou ever being part of the Sargent crowd never occurred to her. They were different. Outsiders. Sometimes she brought home little gossipy stories about them. How someone had seen them all drinking cocktails out of cocktail glasses, right on the front porch. The girls too! And somebody saw two of the girls playing tennis with shorts on, and it certainly looked terrible!

Dad told about the crowd coming into the store for cigarets, and all of them girls and all smoking—"smoking cigarets—think of that! In public—right in the store!" Dad said.

'LET THEM LAUGH'

Lily Lou felt rather sick. She thought of them, all these friends of Ken, hurling orders at Dad and Dad, with his horny slow hands reaching for the packages they asked for, deliberately ringing up the sale on the antiquated cash register, his lips moving as he counted out the change . . .

Well, let them laugh! What did she care?

Swimming in the warm waters of the shallow lake was a delight. Lying on the sand or sunning herself on the gently swaying raft moored out in the lake, was health giving. Lily Lou's pallor began to disappear, she gained weight, began to feel alive again. Her magnolia skin took on a deeper, richer hue. Once more singing was a joy. Studying came naturally now. She decided to stay a while longer, to ask for a short leave of absence.

Lily Lou sang whatever they wanted.

She did whatever they asked her. Sang in the church. Sang for the Ladies' guild. Nothing was too old fashioned, too sentimentally popular. She gave them what they asked, sang "The Rosary" with the fervor of a great theme from a great opera. Remembered the old hymns. Sang whatever they wanted. "My, but Lily Lou has improved a lot," they said.

KEN CALLS

Dad was so happy to have her home in the evenings. She had always been his favorite. She sat with him on the little front porch in the warm darkness.

Just behind them mother rocked, silently, in her old wicker rocking chair, her long slim feet in their neat black shoes keeping time as the rockers rocked back and forth, back and forth.

It was so peaceful, so quiet. Lily Lou felt like a little girl again. Soft with love for them. Strong with hope. A little tremulous with wonder, planning stage entrances, planning costumes for big appearances.

This was the way to soak up strength, to renew faith in oneself. To come back home, and be able to look back and see how much you'd progressed.

They sat on the little porch, Dad with the old dog's head on his knee, mother almost invisible behind the honeysuckle. Lily Lou just a pale light, her white dress luminous.

"Hello . . . is that you, Lily Lou?"

Ken Sargent. He must have walked. No sound of the car. He was right there standing on the little path at the foot of the steps.

Lily Lou clutched at her throat. Swallowed hard. "Ken? I heard you were up here! Awfully nice to see you. Mother, Dad, Kentfield Sargent . . ." She managed to speak naturally.

But she felt light headed. Sick with the shock of it.

He bowed to her mother, shook hands with Dad.

Lily Lou looked at the faint grayish blur that was Ken's face. The dusty fragrance of the roses in the little front garden swept over her in almost overpowering sweetness.

ALL IN A DAY — By MARK HELLINGER

THERE WERE FOUR of them in the car, relates Jack B. Two chorines and two boy friends. They had been to a number of night clubs and had punished enough gin to float a battleship. The boy at the wheel was out for no good. He turned corners on two wheels, skidded here and there and it began to look as though he would climb a lamp post any second.

"Hey, Joe!" cried his friend from the back of the car, "you wanna wash your step. Firs' thing y' know, there'll be a smash up."

The driver lurched drunkenly in his seat.

"Was he talkin' to me?" he whispered to the chorine next to him.

"Sure he was," she responded. The driver grinned foolishly. "Well, that certainly is one on me," he murmured. "I thought he was drivin' all the time" . . .

LIVING IN New York at the present time is a millionaire. You wouldn't know his name if I told you, because he's one of those millionaires you never hear about. Those are the birds with the real dough. When a guy is forever raving about the millions he has in the bank, you can be pretty certain that he's going to make a touch before many months have rolled by.

This man, at any rate, is no longer a boy. More than that, he is slightly past the age of 60. He lived the greater part of his life in Philadelphia, which might make him almost 120 years of age. However . . .

This millionaire has been residing in New York for the last six months or so. With nothing to do but clip coupons, he spends a great deal of his time by walking up and down Park avenue. It was on one of these walks that he recently encountered a friend.

"Hello, Jake," cried the friend, "I'm glad to see you again. How are you feeling and how do you like New York?"

"Well," responded the millionaire, "I'm feeling pretty well. But I don't like New York as well as Philadelphia. It's too dirty up here."

The friend looked at him in amazement.

"Dirty?" he repeated. "What makes you say it's dirty up here?"

The millionaire shrugged his shoulders.

"I can tell by my collars," was his amazing response. "In Philadelphia I could wear a collar for three days and it was still all right. Up here, if I don't put a clean collar on every two days, it looks terrible!" . . .

ON THE UPPER West Side there is a girls' school that is attended only by the most exclusive children. The kids ride to school in Rolls-Royces and are whisked away in the same fashion in the afternoon. It's not a very good school, but the size of the tuition fees gives the mothers something to talk about between bridge games. And I suppose that's all that counts.

The other afternoon three of the girls stood in front of the school waiting for their machines to arrive. They were about 10 years of age, but they were already discussing the best places to buy hats, shoes and gowns.

"Mother always gets me the finest," chirped one child. "I have all my things made at Milgrim's."

The second child offered a gesture of impatience.

"Oh, Milgrim's isn't so wonderful!" she cried. "My mother never gets anything there and still she's the best dressed woman in New York."

The first one smiled nastily.

"So your mother is the best dressed woman in New York!" she sneered. "Who said so?"

The second child threw the first one a cold glance.

"My mother," was the triumphant response. . . .

"A FRIEND of mine," writes Hugh Wedlock, Jr., "was motoring South last winter and stopped at a small general store in North Carolina to purchase some cigars. The proprietor displayed a box to the customer and announced that they were 2 for 5 cents. My pal couldn't go for them.

"'Is this the very best you have?' he inquired.

"The proprietor's eyes began to glisten. He had seen that New York license on the car outside and it was easy to see that he considered this customer a typical New York sucker. He reached away under the counter and brought up another box.

"'Here you are, sir,' he announced. 'This is the very best.'

"'You don't say,' cried my pal. 'And how much are these?'

"The highway robber coughed importantly.

"'Naturally,' he returned, 'they are more expensive. They're 5 cents straight!' . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS Junior Komic Club

Each week new talent is discovered in the membership of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club. The programs for the most part, are put on by members at their home chapters, but from time to time they are requested to appear at neighboring chapters.

The program at Manor Chapter was made up largely of home talent. Among the children who entertained were Doris Cooper, Esther Shapiro, Beatrice Miller, dancers; Bertram Levine, vocalist. Three acrobatic clowns, Shorty Secola, Tomy Callan and Tiny PaPetche put on some clever laugh-producing stunts. Birthday cakes were distributed and the meeting closed with the Boy Scouts' salute to the Flag.

DAVIS CHAPTER

The M. Barth School of Dancing staged another big show at the Davis Theater. On the program were Marian Perelstein, Mercedes Palmer, Marion Gilich, Margaret Calagero, Doris Cooper, comprising the Barth Juvenile Acrobatic Troupe. Joseph Mowad, grand jester, conducted the meeting and helped with the distribution of birthday cakes.

SCHENLEY CHAPTER

Schenley Chapter had a special treat when Jean Boyle's Juveniles, who have been playing on WWSW, brought their entire show from the Schenley Hotel studio to the Schenley Theater, across the street. Those appearing were June Klinker, Dorothy Smith, Mary Virginia Rebmann, Audrey Long, Myra Wagner, Betty Jane Long, Jimmy Edwards, Helen Rose and Billy Price. Betty Noah and Dolly Michalski.

The boy musicians from the School for the Blind are becoming big favorites at Schenley Chapter. The Schenley Band closed the meeting with several snappy numbers.

Stage shows, contests and other attractions offered at the meetings are arranged by the manager of the theaters and the officers of the chapters. New officers are elected every four weeks.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

The Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club extends greetings to the following members who will celebrate their birthdays tomorrow:

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Did you ever watch a greedy person who has grown old? It can sometimes be covered up when the person is younger, but after the lines begin to show and the back begins to bend then it is going to show up.

There is something about the turn of the wrist and hand that looks so ready to scoop things in—toward themselves—these greedy people.

There is something about the grasp, even in shaking hands, that tells.

There is more in watching them in a "self-serve" restaurant.

There is much expressed in the eye as others receive favors or gifts.

Envy and greed leave their marks on human beings.

You expect a pig to look piggy.

But it is a sad commentary to witness and recognize the human of the species.

If you are young, think it over, just what you want your personality to express when you are old.

Because, whether you like it or not, your old age will be a mirror of your past thoughts and inclinations, and no amount of makeup can cover it.

If you are older and you really want to change your character, it will be harder, but it is possible, and if you want friends, by all means control your avaricious spirit.

Dear Sympathetic Aunt Bella—

Me and my boy friend broke up. He said he didn't want to see me any more and slammed the door as he went out. But I still love him and think he still loves me from his actions. What should I do? —Interested.

Ans.—Judging from the evidence at hand, Aunt Bella would suggest you get somebody else to do your thinking.

PLAN WELCOME HOME FOR MISTER FRISBY

Miss Minnie McGinnis (above) has proposed a Monster Demonstration to mark the return of Congressman Frisby from Manchuria. Miss McGinnis, who terms herself as one of the Congressman's former dream girls, has asked the courts to issue an injunction to prevent Mrs. Frisby from making an injunction to balk Miss McGinnis from obtaining an injunction against the plan. It is the proposal of Miss McGinnis to have all Frisby admirers wear Grecian bed sheets, as pose illustrated above. Mr. Frisby, after being escorted from the boat, will be stuffed with ice cream and cake, and then mounted on a huge truck for posterity.

DISCUSSION CORNER

(Interview By Rev. Daniel J. Gerkas, of Tucson, Ariz.)

"Morality as a theme for the theater has just as much box office appeal as immorality."

"If the people did not place their stamp of approval on indecent productions by attending them, we would soon have the theater back in its former place as a medium of wholesome entertainment."

An Explanation Is Due

Council Owes the People a Frank Statement in Regard to the Subway.

The City Transit Commission has shown rare patience in the face of Council's peculiar attack on its activities.

Denied even the modest sum of $8,300 which it needs to carry on its preparations for the building of the subway, and refused an explanation for this unexpected reversal of policy, the Transit Commission, with admirable good temper, has again pressed Council for further consideration of the matter.

The members of the Transit Commission would be justified if they resented Council's slap in the face by resigning. It is the citizens' good fortune that they have not quit, but are continuing to fight for the subway.

An unequivocal statement from Council is due the people as well as the Transit Commission. The people gave a mandate for the building of the subway 12 years ago by voting bonds for its construction. What excuse can Council offer for not going ahead with it?

It will not do to say that it is necessary to abandon the plan because of the present financial stringency, because the sum asked by the Transit Commission would come from bonds already sold, and even if the construction of the subway were to start at once the taxpayers would not be called upon to contribuate to the cost until a year after it was completed and in operation.

There must be some other reason, thus far kept a secret, for junking the subway plan and throwing away the $300,000 already spent on it. What is it? The people are entitled to an explanation.

M. Tardieu's Bluff

Absurd Proposal for World Police to Support League Is Only Domestic Politics

Again the voice of the foreign propagandist is heard in the land. This time it is the French minister of war, Andre Tardieu, who, having laid before the disarmament conference at Geneva a proposal for a world police to keep the peace, rushes to the radio to solicit the support of the American people for his idea.

Last week it was a British naval officer and former member of Parliament who voiced England's desire that we should abandon the gold standard. Next week we shall doubtless be urged by some other propagandist from abroad to send an expeditionary force across the Pacific to stamp out anarchy in China and expel the Japanese from Manchuria.

The proposal of M. Tardieu that a composite world military force be constituted to carry into effect the decrees of the League of Nations is so preposterous as almost to carry positive affront to the disarmament conference. It is a Gallic gesture,—one of those smart expedients, to which Tardieu has shown himself too much addicted, for extricating France from a dilemma and putting the other powers in a hole.

The world knows that France will not disarm. The policy of France is TO ARM, to multiply its war planes, to maintain the ascendancy of its air fleet over all continental rivals, and to cow its European neighbors by the preponderance of its land forces.

She justifies this policy as being essential to her national existence. She will not discuss a reduction of her military or naval strength except she be assured of "security." How France measures her security has never been revealed. What she deems requisite to her safety is something she will not disclose. "Security," UNDEFINED, is with the French a VARIABLE TERM. But it is AN ABSOLUTE CONDITION PRECEDENT, whatever else it may be, to France's willingness even to discuss disarmament.

With such ideas imbedded in her policy, France has no business to sit at the table of the disarmament conference.

Discerning, however, that she will encounter pressure to depart from her program of military ascendency in Europe, she warily puts forward an idea, never entertained even by the most fervent believers in the League of Nations,—and international force force, which would at once give point and substance to the League of Nations as a super-sovereignty. This is the one charge against the League of Nations which its votaries have striven hardest to deny and disprove.

The Tardieu proposal is a good deal like the Soviet offer to completely disarm, made several years ago at another international conference. The Russian commissar for foreign affairs, Litvinoff, was aware that his offer was only an impudent gesture. He intended it as such. But it enabled Russia, despite her vast military establishment, to persuade her people that their peaceful philosophy had been checked by a Europe in arms.

So with the Tardieu proposal. It is pure domestic politics, enabling the militarist French to maintain their heavily-armed status, and at the same time to bask under the delusion that the world will not heed France's "plea for disarmament."

The 'Tag-Fixing' Bane

It Is Not Necessary to Draw Up a New Ordinance, As One Already Has Been Prepared.

Director James M. Clark, of the Public Safety Department, announces he will ask City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt to draw up a new ordinance for the punishment of motorists who park their cars illegally.

Clark complains that most of the "tags" served on drivers for illegal parking are ignored or "fixed."

It is not necessary to ask Waldschmidt to draw up a new ordinance for dealing with the offense, for it is already covered in an ordinance submitted some time ago by the Better Traffic Committee, which Council has seen fit to ignore.

The ordinance referred to has been indorsed by a score of organizations and by many individuals. It was presented to Council more than two years ago and reintroduced when the present administration assumed office.

If Council desires to end the "tag-fixing" nuisance let the Better Traffic Committee's measure be passed.

Liberals Are Winning

Steady Progress Is Being Made in the Struggle Against the Blue Law.

In a number of places there were developments on Sunday which should encourage those who are fighting for the repeal of the Blue Law with its ban on innocent amusements.

Despite the protests of certain clergymen moving picture theaters in Monessen gave performances for the benefit of charity, attracting more than 3,500 patrons.

Theaters and bowling alleys in Erie were open on Sunday as usual, the new Mayor having decided to follow in the foot steps of his predecessors and ignore the Blue Law.

In Plainfield, N. J., the theaters, fortified with a restraining order, were open on Sunday for the first time in the city's history.

The time is ripe to repeal the Blue Law. Every candidate for the Legislature should be forced to announce how he will vote on the proposal.

The Magic Carpet

The United States Treasury is due for a shock when the March 15 income tax returns are totaled. They are bound to show a sensational decrease.

"The shrinkage," writes B. C. Forbes in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, "will exceed the most pessimistic estimates and will hurl a staggering problem at Congress."

The budget-balancers will need a magic carpet to carry the government from deficit to surplus during the next fiscal year, and the SELECTED SALES TAX is the magic carpet to do the trick.

It is safe, sure, simple, easy to collect, least painful to the taxpayers and will yield in excess of $400,000,000.

For guidance Congress should look to Canada and 14 other foreign countries where it has been successfully applied, and work out, on a scientific basis, a SELECTED SALES TAX.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Big merchants and sundry smaller tradesmen, who have had ample time for reflection during the past months, are wondering just what industry will furnish the next crop of spenders to balloon dividends when things get under full steam.

Invariably the very rich in a new opulence descend upon New York for a part of their wardrobe, jewels and other luxuries, as well as for rounds of cafes and theaters. The first spending spree came after the gold rush to California. Bewhiskered miners stormed the town bearing pokes of gold dust.

Then came the railroad pioneers and descendants. And they were followed by the steel crowd from Pittsburgh who became over-night millionaires. Of all the high spenders the Pittsburgh contingent topped the list. Such cafes as Martin's were designed for them. Harry Thaw became the best known spender.

Next in the procession came oil barons out of the Southwest. Homespun folk who awakened to find gushers in Oklahoma backyards and the like. They came in calicoes and corduroys, bought pianos by the dozen, pearls by the quart and departed in silks and broadcloth.

Detroit sent its automobile plutocrats on the heels of the oil spenders. In a large measure they were obscure mechanics who got into the early financing of the industry with modest sums and saw them swell into amazingly enormous fortunes.

Their ranks were augmented by the fortunates of the flush of prosperity that came to the Hollywood producer and their cunningly contrived stars. And spawned in the rising tide were the most dazzling get-rich-quick specie of all—the radio millionaires.

Wall street brokers, too, profited largely in the resultant stock gambling of a pyramid prosperity. The next in line for huge and sudden fortunes were the operators of bus lines. They were entering the home stretch and riding hard when the track grew suddenly muddy.

* * *

It was such successive stages of increased spending that developed New York's elephantiasis of the ego—the eternal quest for something bigger and better. No hotel was magnificent enough. Buildings skyrocketed 50 floors, only to be dwarfed by the 100-storied structure. And so on until the great big headache.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Handicapped? Lame, perhaps? Or deaf? Or maybe just crippled in your heart by some cruel blow? And so you think you're out of the running!

"It's no use going on." Is that what you're saying? "I'll never get over this hurt, so life can never be what I thought it would. I might as well take the count right now—not struggle any more."

Saying that? Most of us do, one time or another. Oftener than you'll ever dream I've said that, too, before I sat down to write these articles. And then memory of a story a man once wrote me about himself comes back to me.

He was only a youngster when it happened—18—and had just signed a contract with the Detroit baseball team. Joy? Oh boy! Beat a combination like that if you can!

He thought he was sitting on the world, and then in less time than it takes to snap your fingers—everything went blooey. A skidding tire. A thud. A crash. They picked him up out of the pieces. When the daze cleared he found himself lying in a hospital. His right leg was gone.

Think you could stand a shock like that? He didn't think he could, either. Perhaps if he'd been older—but you know how things look to a boy. Never run again. Never even walk like a regular guy. A cripple, always? He wanted to die.

I don't even like to think of what those first days must have meant to him. But gradually he began to get things straight. Just what was there left for him? He didn't want to kid himself—didn't want to hand himself any Pollyanna line that would fail him when things pinched?

Just what was life worth for a guy with only one leg? How much of a fight could he put up?

And then the answer came to him, between spasms of hopelessness and fury, and despair. He'd lost a leg; but, after all, he wasn't going to fight for life with that leg. Even if he hadn't lost it, he could not have depended for success on that leg. He had to fight life with his spirits.

AND HIS SPIRIT NEEDN'T BE CRIPPLED JUST BECAUSE HIS BODY WAS.

His spirit could only be crippled IF HE LET IT BE CRIPPLED. Otherwise it could stay as whole as any two-legged man's.

And he needn't let it be crippled. If he didn't pity himself or let others pity him—if he didn't regard himself as abnormal, or let others regard him as such—THEN HE WOULDN'T BE ABNORMAL AND HE COULD FIGHT LIFE WITH ALL THE SPUNK AND HOPE AND PRIDE HE'D EVER HAD.

Yes; he could do that. But how about the girl? (of course, there was a girl. They'd planned on being married that next year) Would she care to marry a cripple? His mangled pride said she wouldn't. But he wouldn't listen to his pride.

HE WASN'T GOING TO OFFER HER A CRIPPLE TO MARRY! HE WAS GOING TO OFFER HER A MAN WITH A SPIRIT AS SOUND AND WHOLE AS EVER. Would she take him?

Never was there a sweetheart worthy of the name who would have refused a man like that! And so they were married. And he wrote:

"We've truly lived happy ever after. Our 4-months-old baby has increased our happiness a thousand-fold. Often I think my accident was the turning point toward more happiness than I ever could have known otherwise.

"OF ONE THING I AM CONVINCED. LIFE ISN'T A PHYSICAL MATTER. IT IS A SPIRITUAL AFFAIR. YOU'VE JUST GOT TO THINK RIGHT AND LIFE WILL BE RIGHT, NO MATTER WHO OR WHAT YOU ARE.

"It would have been far better for a lot of chaps I know if they had had to hurdle physical handicaps. Then they wouldn't have stood still."

Handicapped?
Hopeless?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Description

Her hair? Oh, well I must admit
I don't know just the shade of it.
Bright bronze, perhaps, with gold fires lit.

Her eyes? In truth, I can not say
If they are blue or black or gray;
I only know they have a way

Of looking straight into my eyes
And showing me strange mysteries;
Delights and dreams beyond surmise.

Her hands? Always have lovers sung
Of loved hands, slender, white and young.
And fair as pearls about them hung.

But of her hands I only find
That they are ever cool and kind,
Their touch can ease my troubled mind.

This picture may not be complete,
But you will know her when you meet.
She is so dear, so true, so sweet!

Are American Children Less Deserving?

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

From the beginning it must have been clear that one of two things would have to be done about these 8,000,000 unemployed and their dependents—work would have to be furnished through a prosperity loan such as was urged a year ago by Mr. Hearst, Senator Wagner and Senator La Follette, or money to prevent starvation would have to be appropriated from the Treasury.

The administration was against the prosperity loan—which politically would have been the best thing possible for the administration.

If it is now against direct relief, it goes on record as washing its hands entirely of the human problem of the unemployed, and that will not be good for the administration in any sense.

* * *

We Are Against The 'Dole'

We are in favor of the appropriation and we are against the "dole." For the appropriation proposed by Senators Wagner and La Follette have nothing in common with the English "dole," where the term originated.

Senator La Follette made this plain in his illuminating Senate speech:

"The bill does not contemplate definite and specific allowances to individuals and to their dependents. It is based entirely upon the traditional American method of relief namely, relief on the basis of need. It does not propose to set up a separate agency whereby the federal government will, through a great bureaucracy in Washington, make direct payments in cash or in kind to individual citizens in the respective communities. The bill proposes to utilize the agencies of relief which are now in existence and which are now cracking and groaning under the load they are attempting to carry."

* * *

We Have Helped the Unemployed in Europe

The President's Unemployment Emergency Committee, under Mr. Gifford, has failed; and the testimony of Mr. Gifford before the Senate committee disclosed such a profound ignorance of conditions as to explain its failure even to comprehend the crisis.

Now men, women and children are up against the guns. And as Senator La Follette said, "During the period since this depression began this is the first time that Congress has turned seriously to the consideration of the rank and file of the people of the United States."

Those eager to help the banks and railroads are seeking to impose the falsehood upon the people that the government never has appropriated money for the relief of citizens suffering through no fault of their own. Millions, time and time again, have been appropriated for the purpose, as the record shows.

Not only have we appropriated millions for the relief of citizens here, but we have appropriated millions for the relief of men, women and children in other lands. Thus money from the Treasury went to succor the destitute in Cuba, in the French West Indies, in Italy, in China.

Is the answer made that these were the victims of earthquakes? It was famine—such a famine as confronts millions of our own—in China.

But not only have we appropriated money to prevent the starvation and desolation of victims of earthquakes and famine due to failures of the crops—we have appropriated vast sums to feed the European victims of economic depression. We have appropriated money, if you please, to help the unemployed in Europe.

* * *

Children Are Dying Of Undernourishment

There are millions of American children who are literally starving, dying of undernourishment because deprived of milk through the unemployment of their fathers, according to social welfare agencies and charitable societies.

Eight years ago, when that was true of the children in a European country, a demand was made on Congress for money from the American Treasury to feed these children.

The demand was made by Herbert Hoover—a written demand served on a Congressional committee.

In this demand he said:

"Our only hope is that the next generation will be better than this one, and there is no hope if they are to be stunted and degenerate from undernourishment. I recognize the arguments that may be brought against charitable actions, but I refuse to apply these arguments to children."

But it appears Mr. Hoover is applying these arguments to the children of the United States.

Mr. Hoover had no objections to using the $20,000,000 appropriated from the Treasury to feed the undernourished children of Russia 11 years ago; nor did the American Red Cross. Just how does it become vicious to appropriate American money to furnish proper nourishment to American children?

* * *

The National Government Must Do Its Part

And private charity is unable to furnish them with sufficient food.

And local governmental units, on which the President urges a "dole," have reached, or are reaching, the end of their resources.

And the plain brutal truth is that if American children are not "to be stunted and degenerate from undernourishment," the national government must do its part.

If Republican Senators have decided, as a party, to oppose the feeding of these children, and their mothers, that is their privilege, they have the right to proclaim the party policy and attitude, but the humane people of America who heard no protest against the governmental feeding by us of the children of China, Cuba, Germany and Russia still have their right to pass upon that party policy and attitude in November.

The administration cannot talk "humanity" about the children of Europe, and talk "dole" when it comes to the prevention of the starvation of the women and children of America.

It cannot say that we cannot afford as a nation to meet the nation's responsibility to the millions of undernourished and slowly starving children of America, but can afford to take over the billions of debts of other nations and pay them out of the American Treasury.

More and more we are convinced that what we need is an administration that thinks of America first, and of all Americans, and not merely a small and powerful segment of America.

* * *

Senator Watson Has A Haunting Fear

Whether the primary mission of Mr. Mellon in England is to arrange a further reduction or the entire transfer of the European debts to America or not, the comments of the European press leave no doubt as to the interpretation across the sea. Even Senator Watson evidently has a haunting fear, since he explains in great detail that whatever Mr. Mellon may do about the debts, nothing really is done until Congress acts upon the arrangements made.

On the subject of the debts Mr. Mellon made his position quite plain in his report to Congress at the beginning of the session.
